STOCK TRADE PACE AGAIN RATHER SLOW; LATE UPTURN

Total Sales Slump to 2,086,800 Shares, the Lowest for Full Session, With Exception of a Few Days in January, Since August 1928.

CALL MONEY HOLDS AT 3 PER CENT

Professional Traders Bid Up Several of the Rails, Industrials and Specialties 1 to 4 Points, With Gains Running Up to 10 Points in Erratic Issues.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 16.—Trading dwindled to the lowest levels since January in today's stock market, but professional traders managed partially to overcome sepculative stupor in the last hour of trading, and bid up several of the rails, industrials and specialties 1 to 4 points.

In some of the more erratic shares, gains ran as high as 10 points. Total sales slumped to 2,086,800 shares, the lowest for a full session, with the exception of a few days in January, since August, 1928.

Traders who had expected a substantial rally on the basis of the overnight announcement of a $67,000,000 drop in brokers' loans were disappointed, and news developments of the day were scarcely of a character to jolt the market out of its narrow trading area. Brokers wires, so frequently utterly congested with orders during the past two years, were practically idle, and floor traders maneuvering for profits of a point or so accounted for most of the day's activity. Several of the larger market operators had left town for the week-end, or longer.

Comment by Trade Reviews.

The week-end business and mercantile reviews seemed to have difficulty in discerning a trend. "With the month of May more than half over," said Dun's, "the course of business remains highly uneven, and without really decisive trends as a whole." Bradstreet's pointed to slight slackening of retail buying and factory activity, but indicated that wholesale and jobbing trade was holding at last week's moderate volume.

The most active period of the day was in the last 50 minutes of trading, but sales during that period were only about 550,000 shares.

Investment rails have been helped by the low money rates, and some commission houses have found present prices in some of the more speculative issues attractive. New York Central, Atchison, Southern, Delaware & Hudson, Western Maryland, Great Western preferred and St. Louis Southwestern closed 2 to 4 points higher.

The foreign trade figures, appearing for April, were again unsatisfactory, exports at $334,000,000 were the lowest of the year, and showed a drop in excess of $90,000,000 from April, 1929. Imports at $308,000,000 were approximately $26,000,000 above the low level of February, but were more than $100,000,000 below the same period a year ago.

April Gold Imports Large.

Imports of gold, however, reached the large total of $65,539,000, and this has undoubtedly been an important factor in the current low credit rates. The major portion of the yellow metal came from Japan, which has been having difficulty establishing a favorable trade balance since returning to a gold stand. As an indication of the abundant credit in this country, the Treasury was able to sell its new offering of $100,000,000 in bills on a discount basis of 2.54 per cent, a record low rate for this comparatively new form of Treasury financing. Call money on the Stock Exchange held at 3 per cent, but time money showed an easier tone, with an abundance of 30-day funds available at 3 to 3¼ per cent.

In the commodity markets grains gave a good account of themselves. Wheat sold up about 2 cents a bushel. Corn mounted nearly as much. Cotton futures closed 75 cents to $1.10 a bale higher.

Stock prices with other tables and market news will be found on pages 21C, 22C and 23C.

1,386,216 Dry Votes Cast 1,836,100 for Repeal and 1,340,441 for Modification

Five States for Enforcement, Five for Voiding Amendment in Next to Final Report on Digest Poll.

Five States show majorities for repeal of the eighteenth amendment in the last report but one of the Literary Digest prohibition poll. They are Nevada, now the wettest voting of the States, in which 57 per cent of the vote of 5049—the smallest vote among the States—is for repeal; and Connecticut, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Louisiana, each showing more than 50 per cent for repeal.

The same five States give enforcement majorities as last week. These are: Kansas, with 57.6 per cent of its votes for enforcement; and Arkansas, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Tennessee, with more than 50 per cent of the vote of each in the enforcement column.

Of a total of 4,562,761 ballots now reported, out of 20,000,000 sent out, 1,386,216, or 30.38 per cent, are for enforcement; 1,340,441, or 29.34 per cent, for modification, and 1,836,104, or 40.24 per cent, for repeal.

85,674 Defective Ballots.

The Digest this week prints a tabulation by states of the defective ballots, which were not counted in the general poll. These were ballots which were marked in two of the three spaces, either for enforcement and modification, or for modification and repeal. The ballots marked for enforcement and modification numbered 2527, and those for modification and repeal 83,147. Of the total of 85,674 defective and rejected ballots, 2.9 per cent were for enforcement and modification and 97.1 per cent for modification and repeal.

This is offered by the Digest as a possible answer to the question how the modification vote would have been cast, as between enforcement and repeal, if the modification proposal had not been on the ballot. If the defective votes are an index of the valid votes cast for modification, less than 3 per cent of the modificationists would have voted for enforcement as against repeal.

If these percentages were applied to the modification vote of 1,340,441, allotting 2.9 per cent of it to the enforcement column, and the rest to repeal, the vote would be: Enforcement, 1,425,089, or 31.3 per cent of the whole; repeal, 3,187,672, or 68.7 per cent.

Vary Widely Among States.

The percentages of the two kinds of defective votes vary widely among the states. If the modification vote in each state were divided between enforcement and repeal in proportion to the two kinds of defective votes in the various states, Mississippi would be moved to the enforcement column, but no other state would be.

Besides the five dry-voting states 16 others give more votes for enforcement than for either of the two wet proposals. Besides the five states which give an outright majority for repeal, 20 others show a larger vote for repeal than for modification or enforcement. Two States, Arizona and Washington, give pluralities for modification. This week's tabulation is:

DR. DAVID S. BOOTH.

DOCTOR FALLS OUT WINDOW, KILLED AT GRAND AND OLIVE

Dr. David S. Booth, Neurologist, Tumbles From Fourth Floor of Metropolitan Building.

Dr. David S. Booth, 67 years old, a neurologist, was killed a few minutes before 11 a. m. today by a fall from the window of his fourth-floor office on the Olive street side of the Metropolitan building, Grand boulevard and Olive street.

Dr. Booth was dead when he was picked up from the sidewalk, at a point about 50 feet east of Grand boulevard. Persons who saw the fall said the physician appeared to have tumbled, rather than to have leaped, from the window sill. The body was identified by a physician occupying an office adjoining that of Dr. Booth.

Other professional associates said Dr. Booth had been in poor health recently, and had not been at his office for several days until today. He was a widower, and lived at 5107 Enright avenue.

Dr. Booth, a graduate of Washington University Medical School in the class of 1886, had practiced medicine in St. Louis since 1889. He was the son of a Southwest Missouri physician, who located in Southern Illinois. He was educated in Sparta, Ill., and at the Normal University in Carbondale, before entering medical school.

Early in his professional career, Dr. Booth was in railroad hospital service in Texas. Later he became an assistant to the late Dr. Charles H. Hughes, a noted alienist.

After Dr. Hughes' death in 1926, Dr. Booth was made editor of Alienist and Neurologist, a periodical which Dr. Hughes had conducted. He was consulting neurologist for the hospital department of the Missouri Pacific, and was neurologist on the staff of St. Louis Baptist Hospital.

Dr. Booth in past years appeared frequently on the lecture platform, on health topics. One of his lectures, "The Cigarette From a Medical Standpoint," was published and distributed in schools.

He is survived by a daughter and two sons. A sister, Mrs. J. B. Spraul, resides at his Enright avenue home.

CHINATOWN MAYOR TESTIFIES AGENT SUGGESTED BRIBE

Joe Lin Asserts A. M. Sheets of U. S. Narcotic Squad Inquired Whether Prisoners Had Money.

TELLS OF INTERVIEW FOLLOWING RAID

Says Accuser Told Him He Wanted Affidavit So He 'Could Get Thompson's Job'—The $300 Loan.

Joe Lin, gray-haired Chinese restaurant proprietor and "Mayor of Chinatown," testified before Federal Judge Faris today in his own defense against a charge of bribery made by Narcotics Agent Addie M. Sheets, reiterating his previous assertion that he had lent the agent $300 which he had failed to repay.

Using good English, Lin gave his version of the series of meetings between himself and Sheets in October, 1928, when he gave the money to the agent. His testimony, contradicting that of Sheets and Narcotics Inspector William Joerling, was substantially as follows:

The night of Oct. 10 Lin received a telephone call at his restaurant, 414 North Seventh street, from another Chinese, Wing Long, who summoned him to the grocery of Yee Nam Lee at 17 South Eighth street, where Sheets and Joerling had confiscated opium and arrested three men.

Arriving at the grocery, he found Yee Nam Lee and Wing Long waiting in the store with Sheets and Joerling. He quoted Sheets as saying: "Joe, ask these fellows if they have some money to straighten this thing?"

Refused to Comply With Request.

The request, Lin said, was repeated three or four times and each time he refused to comply, suggesting to Sheets that he ask the question himself. After an hour he went back to his restaurant, to be awakened next morning in his room at the American Hotel by a visit from Sheets and Joerling.

At this meeting, he declared, Sheets repeated his request and was again refused. Finally, according to Lin, the agent said: "Joe, you know what I'm doing, don't you?" "No," what are you doing?" Lin said he asked.

Lin testified Sheets replied:

"Well, I'm investigating Charlie Thompson. (Charles S. Thompson, a narcotics agent who resigned under investigation.) It means a lot to me to get his job. I want you to make an affidavit and get those other fellows to make an affidavit that you paid Thompson money for protection. If you get them to do that, the case against them won't go any farther."

Lin delcared he refused and sent Sheets away. Subsequently, on two occasions in the Federal Building, Lin said, Sheets renewed the request to "get some money from those fellows," and at last asked Lin to lend him $300 to be paid back in two or three weeks.

Delivered Money, Took Note.

Lin said he at first refused to make the loan but later, when Sheets summoned him to the Federal Building one afternoon, he agreed on condition that Sheets sign a note. He testified he delivered the money at Eighth and Chestnut streets, taking Sheets' note, after the agent had declared that "people will talk if they see me with you at your restaurant or the hotel."

Lin told the jury he was 52 years old, born in San Francisco and had been in St. Louis since 1905, acting as official interpreter for various Government departments here for 20 years. He said he had known Sheets for two or three years before the occasion of the alleged bribe, having been introduced to him by Agent Thompson during the trial of a case in which he was interpreter.

At the conclusion of his testimony, he denied categorically the charges of Government witnesses that he had offered the $300 to Sheets to influence the agent's testimony at the hearing of the opium case and had suggested to Sheets that they "could make a thousand dollars a month if they worked together."

His testimony was followed by that of a number of character witnesses, mostly Government employes, who had had business with him as an interpreter. These witnesses included James T. H. Nash, immigration inspector in charge here; Richard Cooley, a Secret Service agent, and William H. Woodward, a former Assistant United States District Attorney.

Former Woman Golf Champion Carries Out Agreement Made Five Years Ago.

By the Associated Press.

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., May 16.—Miss Marion Hollins, former women's national golf champion, gave a $50,000 dinner here last night. More than 40 guests sat around the banquet table in the Pasatiempo Country Club. Miniature oil derricks and figures of polo players were distributed as favors.

Perhaps the most pleased of the party were Mrs. Louise Dudley of Santa Monica, and Eric Pedley, noted polo player of San Gabriel. Beside their plates Miss Hollins had placed checks for $25,000 each. She had fulfilled the terms of an agreement made five years ago wherein each of the three promised that the first to make $1,000,000 would give the others $25,000 each.

Miss Hollins recently realized considerably more than $1,000,000 profit in a California oil lands deal.

LONDON, May 16.—A version of the book of Isaiah in present-day colloquial English was published today by the National Adult School Union. Prof. J. B. Allen of Rawdon College, Leeds, is the author. The translator thinks the new rendition will appeal to modern readers. An example of the text follows:

Authorized version: "Thy princes are rebellious and the companions of thieves. Everyone loveth gifts and followeth after rewards." Prof. Allen renders this: "Your rulers are unruly and chummy with thieves, the whole lot, loving bribes, are running after rewards."

ORVILLE WRIGHT FEARS STOCK SCHEMES MAY HURT AVIATION

Predicts Steady Progress in Industry if "Wall Street Can Be Kept Out".

By the Associated Press.

RICHMOND, Ind., May 16.—Orville Wright of Dayton, O., co-inventor with his brother of the airplane, in an interview here today predicted steady progress for aviation "providing Wall Street can be kept out".

Wright expressed belief that many aerial companies were being organized primarily so that stock could be sold, rather than for the manufacture of airplanes.

"Aviation is not deriving any benefit from this practice," he asserted.

The inventor is in Richmond for the inauguration of Dr. W. C. Dennis as president of Earlham College.

Text of Morrow's Platform

By the Associated Press.

NEWARK, N. J., May 16.

DWIGHT W. MORROW, in his speech here last night advocating repeal of the eighteenth amendment, drew up his conclusions as follows:

"First, I believe that the way out of the present difficulty is to recognize clearly the fundamental difference between the nature of the Federal Government and the State government.

"I believe this involves a repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the substitution therefor of an amendment which will restore to the states the power to determine their policy toward the liquor traffic and vest in the Federal Government power to give all possible protection and assistance to those states that desire complete prohibition against invasion from the states that do not.

"If I should be elected to the United States Senate I should be prepared to vote for a resolution submitting to the several states an amendment to the Constitution in any form that would accomplish the foregoing purpose. I do not believe that the fundamental difficulty can be reached by an amendment of the Volstead act.

"Second, the United States Senate as one of the two branches of the National Legislature has a part in determining the appropriations for Federal law enforcement. So long as the eighteenth amendment and the statutes thereunder are the law of the land, I favor generous appropriations for their enforcement.

"I favor the use of such appropriations, in the first place, for that portion of enforcement which is pre-eminently the duty of the Federal Government. This means that the Federal Government would first direct its efforts to keeping liquor from coming into the country and to keeping liquor from passing into interstate commerce. While there is no doubt of the power of the Federal Government under the eighteenth amendment to perform local police duty in the suppression of the liquor traffic, it should be remembered that it has a vast task in the purely Federal field.

"Until it performs that task it might well leave all local police duty with the States who have concurrent power with the Federal Government in the local field. Such a method of enforcement would distribute responsibility where it belongs."

CITY'S BANK TAX ASSESSMENT RISE UPHELD ON APPEAL

State Board of Equalization Approves Increase — Question Now to Be Taken to Court.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 16.—The State Board of Equalization today upheld the action a month ago of the St. Louis City Board of Equalization in increasing the tax assessment of the First National Bank and 13 trust companies by $54,534,920 to cover tax-exempt securities held by subsidiary corporations.

The decision was on an appeal by the bank and trust companies, and opens the way for an appeal to the courts by the depositories, which they have announced they will take to settle the controversy.

By placing certain securities, which normally are exempt from taxation, but which would be taxed if held directly among the assets of a banking institution, in possession of subsidiary holding companies, the bank and trust companies sought to avoid property taxes on them. The aggregate State, city and school taxes on the securities involved would be $935,896 this year. The bank and trust companies hold all the stock of the subsidiaries.

The State Board of Equalization extended the principle of its order in this case to cover Jackson County (Kansas City) and any other counties where a similar practice may be found. It directed County Assessors to assess any such securities held indirectly by banks. The board has large powers in enforcing such an order. It is understood here that a similar practice has sprung up to some extent in Kansas City and possibly in some of the larger out-State counties.

Gov. Caulfield, Attorney-General Shartel, Secretary of State Becker, State Treasurer Brunk and State Auditor Thompson comprise the board.

P. Taylor Bryan, counsel for the First National Bank, St. Louis Union Trust Co. and Franklin-American Bank & Trust Co., said the bank and trust companies would appeal to the courts, but the nature of proceeding has not been determined. Suit may be filed in Federal Court, he said, since Government securities are involved.

WOMAN AND HER MOTHER BEATEN; HUSBAND SOUGHT

Mrs. Myrtle Dutton and Mrs. Frank Campbell in Serious Condition—He Is Reported to Have Jumped Into River.

Mrs. Myrtle Dutton, 23 years old, and her mother, Mrs. Frank Campbell, with whom she lived at 6149 Plymouth avenue, Wellston, are at Missouri Baptist Hospital, with serious head injuries, after having struck on the heads with a gas-pipe in the hands of Mrs. Dutton's husband, Lowell, a truck driver, who, according to information received by the police, later leaped from the St. Charles bridge into the Missouri River.

At nearly the same time at which Mrs. Dutton and her mother were taken to the hospital, a Chevrolet truck, bearing a license number issued to Mrs. Dutton, was driven upon the bridge and the driver climbed out and leaped into the river, according to the story of two employes of a sand company near the river who say they saw him.

Dutton and his wife, police learned, had been separated for some time. They formerly lived at 1400 Shawmut place.

The extent of the injuries to Mrs. Dutton and her mother were not known late this afternoon. Neither had regained consciousness.

Three employes of the St. Louis Cutting Die Co., 3033 Clark avenue, were forced to lie on the floor of a rear room at the company offices today by two armed men who stole the company payroll $1863.

George Schroer, 1000 South Main street, St. Charles, a clerk was making out the payroll when the men, with handkerchiefs over their faces, entered.

He and two stenographers, Helen Mudd, 3812 Cleveland avenue, and Pearl Messmer, 2107 South Grand boulevard, were forced into the back room, where as they lay on the floor, the robbers locked the door and departed with the payroll.

FORT, DRY, JOINS ISSUE WITH HIM AND ANOTHER WET, FRELINGHUYSEN

Ambassador Running for G. O. P. Nomination for U. S. Senate From New Jersey, Says Law Is Too Restrictive.

MODIFICATION IS NO REMEDY, HE ASSERTS

Federal Government Overburdened and Wet Commonwealths Are Inclined to Shirk Responsibility, He Declares.

By the Associated Press.

NEWARK, N. J., May 16.—Dwight W. Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico, who is seeking the Republican nomination for the United States Senate favors repeal of the eighteenth amendment and a return to state control of liquor traffic.

In a speech last night in Krueger's auditorium, he described conditions after 10 years of Federal prohibition as deplorable.

Congressman Franklin W. Fort, former secretary of the Republican National Committee, today entered the race against Morrow as a supporter of the eighteenth amendment. Former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen also is seeking the nomination as an advocate of repeal of the dry amendment. The Anti-Saloon League commended Morrow for his candid statement but announced its opposition to him. The primary will be held June 17.

"It is not fair to assume," Morrow said in his address, "that all resentment against national prohibition is due to a desire for unlimited license to be intemperate. There is no community in the United States that desires that. The resentment is due to the feeling that an unreasonable control is being imposed.

"U. S. Is Overburdened."

"States or subdivisions of states whose sympathy is not with the law feel themselves relieved of responsibility of enforcement. They leave to an overburdened Federal Government, with a wholly inadequate police force, the task of carrying out a great social reform which before 1920 all the communities of the land, in one way or another, were wrestling with.

"I bring you no panacea for this deplorable condition. I know of no magical solution. I cannot, however, stand before my friends and neighbors and ask for their suffrage without having them know my attitude toward this problem." and from passing into interstate commerce. He concluded:

Morrow's Speech.

Morrow said: "I come before the Republican voters of New Jersey as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the office of United States Senator. Upon the resignation of Senator Edge I was tendered the appointment to the United States Senate by the Governor of the State. The work in Mexico and the protracted session of the naval arms conference in London made it impossible for me to accept the position by appointment. I had, however, signified my willingness to stand for election by the voters. Therefore I am here tonight. * * *

"A man who accepts a party nomination accepts the general obligations of the party. This does not mean that he shall follow his party blindly, but it does mean that he shall try to co-operate with his party colleagues, and that he should depart from his party only where his conscience compels him to believe that his party is wrong. * * *

FORT ANNOUNCES DRY CANDIDACY IN NEW JERSEY RACE

Congressman, Ex-Secretary of G. O. P. National Committee, Seeks Nomination for Senate.

OPPOSED TO LIQUOR UNDER ANY SYSTEM

Realizes, He Says, That Odds Are Against Him but He Cannot Let Issue Go by Default.

By the Associated Press.

NEWARK, N. J., May 16.—Representative Franklin W. Fort, former secretary of the Republican National Committee, announced today he would enter the race for the Republican nomination for United States Senator from New Jersey against Dwight W. Morrow and former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen on a platform of support of the eighteenth amendment. Both Morrow and Frelinghuysen have advocated repeal of the prohibition laws.

Morrow, who declared for repeal of the eighteenth amendment last night in opening his campaign, was commended today by the Anti-Saloon League for taking a definite stand, but was told that his candidacy "absolutely will not" be supported by the league.

The Rev. James K. Shields, superintendent of the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League, said, "I think Mr. Morrow went the limit. He left the people in no doubt at all on his stand—a commendable thing. It leaves the people clear on his attitude toward prohibition.

No Aid From Dry League.

"The Anti-Saloon League absolutely will not support his candidacy. He stands against everything the league has been fighting for for years.

"I think there will be quite a reaction to his platform. It will undoubtedly arouse drys throughout the State."

Fort's entry in the campaign generally had been taken for granted following Morrow's opening speech here last night. He previously had indicated he would become a candidate to espouse the "dry" cause if the Ambassador advocated repeal.

"The true motive for my candidacy is obvious," said Fort, who represents the Ninth Jersey District. "I am opposed to any return of the sale of intoxicating liquors under any known or suggested form of law or regulation.

"I believe in the eighteenth amendment and I am unwilling that my native State should directly or indirectly go on record for its repeal.

Appraises His Opponents.

"Mr. Frelinghuysen stands also for repeal of the eighteenth amendment with a nebulous plan which can mean only the Government's entrance into the liquor business.

"I am opposed to the Government entering any business, particularly the liquor business.

"Mr. Morrow is more definite. He proposes simply a return to the legal status which prevailed prior to prohibition.

"His proposed new amendment confers no power or duty on the Federal Government which it did not always possess, despite his denunciation of the saloon.

"He would restore to the States every power they ever enjoyed to permit the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating liquor, including the power to reopen the saloon.

Says Odds Are Against Him.

"I recognize that apparently the odds are against my victory, that the people of New Jersey are supposedly more strongly against prohibition than are those of any other state, but I cannot believe that after full and free discussion, their reasoned determination will follow their present apparent mood.

"At any rate, as a Jersey man, proud of my State, I can not permit the issue to go by default.

"The issue is prohibition, not friendship. The liquor traffic is outlawed and must remain so.

"I would not feel free to do this if it were not for the close relationship between both of my opponents and the President. The suggestion made in advance in some quarters that my candidacy would carry an indication of personal preference on his part is utterly unjust to him, to the other candidates and to me.

"It is unjust to the President, because his office necessarily makes it impossible for him to speak for himself in such a contest between Republicans in any state."

Frelinghuysen Says State Control Means Return of Saloon.

By the Associated Press.

HACKENSACK, N. J., May 16.—Addressing his campaign workers at luncheon today, Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, Republican candidate for the nomination to the United States Senate, declared the positions of himself and Dwight W. Morrow on prohibition to be almost identical.

The former Senator said, however, he was "not in accord with the states' rights platform, because that will mean the return of the saloon."

"I want a betterment of conditions, and, if the amendment can be changed to bring about better conditions, I will vote for it, but I will not do so until I am first convinced that conditions will be better."

After he completes his Chester sentence he will be returned to Michigan to complete his sentence there. That served, he will commence the Federal term imposed yesterday.

George Wierschen, a farmer, residing near Prairie du Rocher, was sentenced to five months in jail and fined $200 on a plea of guilty to making liquor.

WANTS CHURCHMEN TO VOTE ONLY FOR DRYS

Report to Southern Baptist Convention Denounces Prohibition Referendum.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, May 16.—Frowning upon the straw ballot and calling for mobilization of all patriotic citizens to oppose the "armed rebellion" against the national prohibition law, the Commission on Social Service of the Southern Baptist convention today urged the denomination to seek defeat of any candidate for political office from President down who does not openly and frankly support the present prohibition laws.

"Our people will not be fooled or trapped by 'the national prohibition survey,' or any other of the so-called neutral or impartial movements devised by our friends in New York and Chicago 'to find a satisfactory solution of the liquor problem,'" said the report, submitted by Dr. A. J. Barton of Atlanta, Ga., its chairman, who is likewise chairman of the Executive Committee of the Anti-Saloon League of America.

No Neutral Ground.

"There is no neutral ground in this war. It is war to the knife and knife to the hilt between the forces of sobriety and orderly Government on the one hand and the forces of liquor and lawlessness on the other.

"A safe rule is to ignore all irresponsible straw ballots and movements, and not to be overmuch influenced by what appears to be returns of such ballots or movements, but to do full duty at the polls and see to it that nobody but patriots are on guard.

"We are not concerned with party politics, nor with the fate or future of any political party. In all great moral questions we are deeply concerned, both as citizens and Christians, no matter how they may become related to politics or questions of government.

"As we have frequently done heretofore, we declare our intention and purpose not to support for President of the United States, Senator, Representative, Governor or other officers of high and responsible position any candidate who is hostile or who does not openly and frankly support our present prohibition laws, but to seek the defeat of any such candidate no matter what party label he may wear."

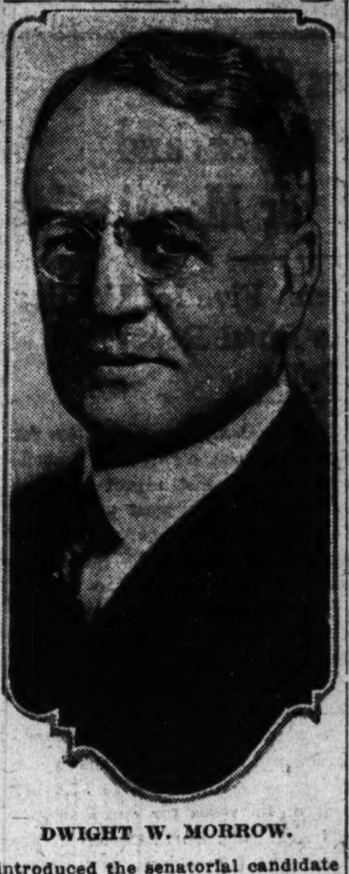
Denouncing the national referendum, the report declared that it was "intended to undermine one of the most fundamental principles of the Government of the United States—the sovereignty of states' rights."

"All of the hue anud cry about a national referendum has as its motive the desire to give New York ,Chicago and other centers of drink and crime the power to break down states' rights and State sovereignty in determining all questions of constitution and law under our Federal system.

"We already have states' rights in the liquor question. The highest expression of states' rights is the act of the sovereign states in amending the Constitution of the United States. The states have acted and in their sovereignty they have said that the commercialized liquor traffic shall be banished from this republic."

Morrow for Repeal of the 18th Amendment

FOR SENATE AS WET



DWIGHT W. MORROW.

some of the more important questions which may come before the United States Senate within the next six years. Tonight I am going to discuss prohibition. It is a question seldom discussed dispassionately. It is a question which constantly confuses moral principles with the art of government.

Liquor Control Problem.

"The control of liquor has for a long time been one of the difficult problems of all Governments. There are people who believe that the prohibition of intoxicating liquors under any circumstances by any Government is an infringement on the right of the individual to lead his own life in his own way.

"I do not share that view. It has been generally recognized that all Governments have the right to protect a man against his own propensities, if the injury to the community is sufficient to warrant the interference with individual liberty. The prohibition movement is a recognition of this principle. It is not a new movement . . . .

"The liquor business has been for centuries one of those businesses in the conduct of which the Government has a direct interest which warrants it in putting restrictions upon the personal liberty of individuals. How much restriction it is wise to put on individual liberty is a question about which there has been and will be great difference of opinion. The habits and character of the people, the size of the community, the extent of the participation of the people in the exercise of their political rights are all important factors in the determination of how far a community can go in restricting individual liberty for human good.

Merits of Prohibition.

"It is not my purpose to discuss, in general, the merits of prohibition as a policy. That, as I conceive it, is not the issue. The issue is whether it is practicable and in the public interest to apply that policy to the United States as a whole through the agency of the Federal Government. It is a problem in government.

"The peculiar characteristic of the government of the United States is its Federal form. Under that form of government we look to our states to perform certain governmental functions, and to our Federal Government to perform other governmental functions.

"Prior to 1919 it was the state governments that bore the principal responsibility for dealing with the liquor question. . . . . Such functions as rested on the Federal Government in connection with the liquor question were related to the exercises of its power over foreign and interstate commerce and its system of taxation.

"National prohibition went into effect throughout the United States on July 1, 1919, by a special wartime act of Congress and was continued after Jan. 17, 1920, under the power conferred on Congress by the eighteenth amendment. We have now had 10 years of experience by which to judge the new policy.

The Old State Rule.

"Bear in mind that we had proceeded in this country for 130 years under the theory and the practice that the several states of the Union were the government which directly touched the lives of the people. It was the states which had such organization as existed for the administration of criminal law in general. It was the states that had built up police forces which made enforcement of local criminal law possible.

"With the coming into force of the prohibition amendment, however, a vast new criminal jurisdiction was assumed by the Federal Government. This involved not only an organization of a new police force, but—what is even more important—it involved a new attitude of the people toward the Federal Government and of the Federal Government toward the people.

"The extremely delicate and sensitive problem of interference with the individual liberty of a man for the sake of the social good of the community was thereafter dealt with not in terms of small communities, but in terms of a mighty nation of 125,000,000 people, with great climatic, racial and social divergences.

"In many states, where it is in accord with prevailing popular sentiment, national prohibition is generally believed to be successful. It is successful because of the active co-operation of the people and their officials. In other states, including those with the greatest populations, the system works badly because the people and their officials do not co-operate with the Federal agents and the Federal agents alone are not able to exercise effective control. In these states there exists resentment against the attempt to impose a control which the prevailing conscience of the people does not accept.

Desire to Be Intemperate.

"Is it well that large portions of our people should conceive of the Federal Government as an alien and even a hostile power? Is it well to have as a result a lawless, unregulated liquor traffic, attended by a shocking corruption?

"It is not fair to assume that all resentment against national prohibition is due to a desire for unlimitied license to be intemperate. There is no community in the United States which desires that. The resentment is due to the feeling that an unreasonable control is being imposed.

"There are many problems in human living that are not susceptible of a final solution. The attitude of the community toward the traffic in liquor is such a problem.

"I am aware that the second section of the eighteenth amendment gives the Congress and the several states 'concurrent power' to enforce the amendment. I am aware that the states can, if they desire, enforce within their own jurisdictions the prohibition which the Federal Constitution now prescribes as the policy for the whole United States.

"The fact remains, however, that the first section of the eighteenth amendment is operative in every hamlet in the land. It limits the power of all state legislative bodies and all state officials. It invalidates every legislative act which authorizes or sanctions what the section prohibits.

The States' Attitude.

"It has thus come to pass that states or subdivisions of states whose sympathy is not with the law feel themselves relieved of responsibility for enforcement. They leave to an overburdened Federal Government, with a wholly inadequate police force, the task of carrying out a great social reform which before 1920 all the communities of the land in one way or another were wrestling with.

(Here Morrow gave his specific program as published elsewhere in this edition.)

"In the foregoing discussion I have tried to avoid the words 'wet' and 'dry.' It does not help much in a solution of a problem to label men. Men labeled wet may be as much opposed to the saloon as men labeled dry.

Against Return of Saloon.

"The saloon must not come back. The people of the United States are rid of the saloon—and well rid of it. But in the process of ridding ourselves of the saloon, a wholly unregulated liquor traffic has grown up in this country. One group blames it on disobedience of the law. It is not in such a spirit that a solution will be found.

"The solution will be found when we realize that the issue before us is a government problem. How can the control of the liquor traffic be divided between Federal and State Governments in a way that will recognize the habits and sentiments and moral principles of the people in different parts of the country? I see no way of settling that question satisfactorily without a further change in the Constitution.

"We hear on all sides that it is impossible to amend the Federal Constitution. It is difficult, but not impossible. Four times within the last 20 years the Constitution has been amended. It can be amended again. . . .

No Solution Reached.

"I look forward to the time when the old leaders in the temperance movement, the churches and the schools and the social workers, will appreciate that they have not reached a final solution of a world-old problem by the present eighteenth amendment. I look forward to the time when the great moral teachers of the country will realize that, in the battle for a great social reform, there was wisdom in the old system of experimenting in 48 laboratories rather than in one."

Morrow was interrupted repeatedly by applause.

Edward W. Duffield, president of the Prudential Insurance Co., introduced the senatorial candidate as the "same simple, unassuming man" he had met 20 years ago as a lawyer of no particular prominence.

Mrs. Morrow, in a box was cheered when a bouquet was presented. In her box also sat Otto H. Kahn, financier; his daughter, Mrs. John Barry Ryan Jr., and Mrs. Cornelius N. Bliss, and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. Pomeroy. Pomeroy is vice president of the Republican National Committee.

Differences of Opinion in Washington on Morrow's Speech.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The announcement of Dwight W. Morrow that he was seeking the Republican Senatorial nomination in New Jersey as an advocate of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment was followed by the expression of many opinions in Washington.

F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, denounced Morrow's stand as an "out and out wet platform."

McBride asserted that Morrow had adopted "the program of Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

"The association was against State option until we got prohibition," he continued, "and now they want it back again. While we were getting State after State for prohibition, these men opposed local option, but now they find it their only hope. Morrow has followed their suggestion in its entirety."

Congressman Bachrach (Rep.), New Jersey, said he approved Morrow's position, but that he could not comment on any substitute plan for prohibition without giving the project thorough study.

The opinion that the country would not agree with Morrow was expressed by Senator Jones (Rep.), of Washington, author of the Jones law providing heavy penalties for offenders of the dry laws. "That goes right back to where we were before we adopted the eighteenth amendment," he said, referring to Morrow's position. "I don't think the country wants to do that."

Morrow's stand was termed "good judgment" by Congressman Graham (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, an avowed wet.

International Bank Fixes Interest on Reparations Issue.

By the Associated Press.

BASLE, Switzerland, May 16.—The directorate of the Bank of International Settlements today definitely fixed the interest rate of the German reparations loan at 5½ per cent. The issue price will be determined at another session of the board.

Directors of the bank were unable to finish the allotment of the $300,000,000 reparations bond issue today because of resistance by Great Britain to taking an allotment of more than $25,000,000. Under the original plan Britain was to take $60,000,000, but that was later cut to $40,000,000. The British representative said today his country could not agree to place more than $25,000,000.

He was taken to Police Headquarters and later released on $1500 bond returnable May 29. He announced he would resist extradition.

The warrant was sworn out by Isabelle Brodersen, Helen Rosekranz and Herman Corneman, administrators of the Turkington estate, who charge Maya with taking the following articles without their consent: a diamond ring, valued at $800; a diamond pin, $450; two rifles, $300; a microscope, $150; a shotgun, $50; and other articles worth $35.

MORGAN TO GET $696,000 REDUCTION IN ASSESSMENTS

Financier Had Protested Against Glen Cove, L. I., Figures as Excessive.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 16.—J. P. Morgan, the wealthiest individual taxpayer in Glen Cove, L. I., is to receive a cut of $696,100 in the assessments for 1927, 1928 and 1929 on his property on East Island, in Long Island Sound, if Supreme Court Justice Burt J. Humphrey approves the agreement reached by the Mayor and City Attorney of Glen Cove and counsel for Morgan.

In 1927 Morgan's property was assessed at $450,000, which he believed excessive. He demurred and the case was carried to the Supreme Court. The Court named a referee. In the meantime, the 1928 assessment was levied for $443,600 and then followed the one for 1929, amounting to $448,600, making a total for the three years of $1,342,200.

Morgan's attorney arranged a conference with the Mayor and the City Attorney and they reached the conclusion that a reduction of $696,100 should be made in the total assessments for the three years.

Trustee in Bankruptcy to Succeed Receiver Williams to Be Elected in About 10 Days.

Liabilities of W. H. Young & Co., Inc., bankrupt brokerage firm, were definitely fixed at $2,368,322.12 in a creditors' report filed in Federal Court yesterday. Assets so far discovered total little more than $10,000 so that the loss to creditors and investors will be virtually as much as the liabilities.

As forecast exclusively in the Post-Dispatch, Wednesday, the report lists $585,284.31 worth of securities which the company and its high-powered salesmen sold to investors, but which were not delivered. Nothing to show for these securities has been found in the company's treasury.

The largest single item of liabilities is $1,287,500 of worthless "12 per cent preferred stock" of W. H. Young & Bros., Inc. The total of the Young-promoted Midwest Holding Co. preferred stock outstanding is $217,400 and of Industrial Holding Co. Class A common stock $248,450.

Other items are general accounts of $42,687.81 and Midwest Holding Co notes $37,000.

To Elect Bankruptcy Trustee.

The report was filed by Walter H. Metcalfe, attorney for creditors, in the name of Beatrice P. Drake, Charles C. Cannam and Carl R. Zink. Metcalfe said the creditors would meet in a week or 10 days to elect a trustee in bankruptcy to succeed Receiver F. E. Williams, now in charge of the company's affairs.

Of the securities sold to investors and not delivered, only a small part are shares in enterprises of the Young brothers, the largest item being $229,865 worth of Thermoid Co. common, a New York Stock Exchange issue.

The theory of the creditors' attorney is that the Young firm used this money to buy back blocks of their own unregistered preferred stock which had been sold in Missouri in violation of the Blue Sky law. The securities, according to the records, were sold during the last five months of the company's operations after Securities Commissioner Stockard had been "talked out" of issuing a cease and desist order by representatives of the company.

Undelivered Securities.

It is thought that the Young brothers tried to keep a promise to Stockard to buy back the illegally-sold preferred stock, made the attempt with money received from purchasers of legitimate securities, and then failed to deliver the stocks.

The list of undelivered securities includes: Investors' Royalty Co., $125,159.19; Lindsay-Nunn Publishing Co., $43,433.12; Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Co., $16,267.08; National Hosiery Mills, $34,802.50; Cities Service Co., $25,080; Associated Gas & Electric Co., $9,311.12; Continental Life Insurance Co., $7,272.50; miscellaneous stocks and bonds, $32,185, and other smaller items.

The report points out that persons who bought worthless shares from the Young company and received certificates of stock are not creditors of the company, but that they may, under the securities laws of most states, rescind such purchases of unregistered securities and thus put themselves in the category of creditors.

Under the interpretation, the names of persons who purchased securities which were not delivered are listed as creditors, but those who received certificates are not listed.

In his effort to salvage the few remaining assets of the defunct company, Receiver Williams has sold the furniture and fixtures of the company's offices in the Central National Bank Building and two expensive automobiles used by William H. Young, president of the company, and his brother, Fred C. Young, vice president.

Williams also seeks to obtain title to a $10,000 equity in Fred Young's elaborate home in St. Louis County on Clayton road, west of Ballas road, on the ground that $38,610 was paid out of the com-

Principals in Hyland Estate Suit

MRS. DOROTHY HYLAND (top), who was upheld as administratrix of her husband's estate in a suit brought by her sisters-in-law, MRS. CATHERINE McCLUREN (lower left) and MRS. MARY MARTIN. They charged she was trying to conceal some of the assets and asked that she be removed as administratrix.

WOMAN CHARGES $143 GOODS TO NEIGHBOR

She Is Held for Stealing From Mails a Post Card Used in Identification.

Mrs. Alice Peterson's efforts to replenish her wardrobe yesterday by purchasing $143 worth of clothing at a downtown department store, charging it to the account of a neighbor, led to her arrest and a warrant today charging her with stealing from the mails, an offense punishable by a penitentiary sentence up to five years and a fine of not more than $5000.

Mrs. Peterson, 26 years old, and the mother of a 15-month-old child, lives in an apartment at 1010 Hi-Pointe place. In ordering the merchandise she represented herself as Mrs. A. J. Doyle, who lives in an apartment across from her, and used as credentials a postal card and an empty envelope addressed to Mrs. Doyle. Postoffice Inspectors said these had been taken from the mail box at the entrance to the apartment. Mrs. Peterson said she had found them on the floor near the mail box.

"I needed clothes and had no money with which to pay for them," Postoffice Inspectors quoted Mrs. Peterson as saying. Her husband is a traveling shoe salesman.

When arrested yesterday she had in her possession only two pairs of gloves, having directed that the other merchandise be delivered. Representatives of the store became suspicious as the total of her purchases mounted and telephoned to the Doyle home, where they learned that Mrs. Doyle was at home and had not authorized anyone to make purchases on her account. The arrest followed and Mrs. Peterson spent last night in the city jail. She furnished $1000 bond today.

The Scheffer apartment was fumigated yesterday and the family spent the day away from home, returning at 10 p. m.

The adults noticed a slight odor before they retired but felt no ill effects. When they awoke this morning they found the child dead in its bed.

WIDOW UPHELD AS ADMINISTRATRIX OF HYLAND ESTATE

Two Sisters of Late Dog Track Operator Lose Suit at Clayton to Have Her Ousted.

The sisters of "Marty" Hyland, promoter of the Madison Kennel Club and other dog racing tracks throughout the country, were again unsuccessful in having his widow, Mrs. Dorothy Hyland, removed as administratrix of his estate on charges of concealment of assets. A jury at Clayton today returned a verdict in favor of Mrs. Hyland after deliberating 19 minutes. The plaintiffs announced that they will appeal.

The sisters, Mrs. Mary Martin of East St. Louis and Mrs. Catherine McClurken, 5256 Terry avenue, attempted to have Mrs. Hyland removed as administratrix in Probate Court, but were unsuccessful. Their brother, John Hyland, joined them in the Probate Court action, but was not a plaintiff in the Circuit Court suit.

Hyland, who died at St. Mary's Hospital March 13, 1929, after an operation for appendicitis, left no will. His widow, as administratrix, filed an inventory for $64,000, asserting that her husband had transferred his valuable dog track stock to her before his death. His sisters disputed her statement and sought to disclose further assets through litigation.

Jury Foreman's Explanation.

J. L. Reeves, 627 Marshall avenue, Webster Groves, foreman of the jury, told reporter the jurors were unanimous in accepting Mrs. Hyland's statements concerning the stock transfer, and believed the indorsements on the stock certificates had been made by Hyland, and were not forgeries, as the plaintiffs charged.

A. E. L. Gardner, attorney for Mrs. Hyland, made an emotional plea to the jury. "I know you do not believe that Mrs. Hyland is a thief and forger, as has been charged here," he declared.

Randolph Laughlin, counsel for the plaintiffs, declared in his argument, "this woman is but putty in the hands of others, who are scheming to obtain control of this stock. She should be forced to include these holdings in the estate in her own interest, as well as that of the other heirs."

Gardner, in rebuttal, brought out that the plaintiffs had received $100,000 from their brother, "Marty," before his death. John Hyland received $50,000, and the sisters $25,000 each.

Signature Questioned.

Testimony in the case was concluded yesterday, the closing hours being taken up by witnesses, who differed over the authenticity of Hyland's signatures on dog track stock certificates, and contradicted one another on alleged statements credited to Hyland.

Mrs. Hyland took the stand to deny that her husband ever stated in her presence that "I have a racket that is better than Henry Ford's and will be a millionaire in a year if they let the Madison Kennel Club alone." Mrs. Martin previously testified that her brother made the statement in the presence of her family and Mrs. Hyland.

I. J. McGirk, a handwriting expert, agreed with a previous witness that the signature, "M. Hyland" on the back of a stock certificate of the Madison Kennel Club, which Mrs. Hyland says was transferred to her by her husband four years ago, differs from Hyland's acknowledged signature on the face of the certificate. M. J. Wegmann, a former teller at the Franklin-American Bank, where Hyland kept his personal account, declared the signatures were identical, and told the jury he had seen more than 1000 of Hyland's signatures.

Testimony corroborating Mrs Hyland's claim that her husband presented her with the stock was given by her sister, Miss Ann Carney, who testified that, in 1926, Hyland handed his wife some stock certificates, saying: "You are in the dog business now." Later Hyland gave his wife other certificates in her presence, remarking, "here is your Chicago stock." Miss Carney resides with Mrs. Hyland at 7112 Westmoreland avenue, University City.

Freen B. Nulsen, a personal friend of Hyland, testified that he urged Hyland to make a will before Hyland went to the hospital in March, 1929. Hyland's reply to the suggestion, according to Nulsen, was, "I have nothing to will. I gave all my stuff to my family and Dode." Nulsen was cross-examined concerning a conversation he had with Mrs. Hyland while they were horseback riding after her husband's death, during which she said, "It is too bad he did not make a will."

Mrs. Hyland was charged with concealing the following assets: 68¾ shares in the Madison Kennel Club, East St. Louis; 334 shares Wellston Kennel Club, St. Louis, not operating; 50½ shares Mound Kennel Club, Milwaukee; 25 shares Highland Kennel Club, Butte, Mont. four shares Erlanger (Ky.) Kennel Club.

MEYER AGAIN PUT ON TRIAL BEFORE MISSOURI U. BOARD

General Belief in Columbia Is That Professor of Psychology Will Be Fired This Time.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 16.—The Board of Curators of the University of Missouri met here today for the trial of Dr. Max F. Meyer, head of the department of psychology, for the second time within a little more than a year.

The charge against the 56-year-old professor, a member of the faculty for more than 30 years, is that he made an address before the Southern Society of Philosophy and Psychology that "resulted in much harm and injury to the University of Missouri and its general welfare." The address was made last April 18 at Nashville, Tenn.

Meyer Assailed Board.

In the address Dr. Meyer assailed the curators for ordering, April 7, 1929, his suspension for one year and for the permanent dismissal of Dr. Harmon O. Degrass, sociologist, for their part in the issuance of a "sex questionnaire" to students. Meyer characterized the curators' inquiry as a "medieval inquisition" with President Stratton D. Brooks "lurking in the background as the executioner."

The curators, at a meeting in Kansas City two weeks ago, voted to impeach Dr. Meyer and "to further and fully consider this matter at a formal hearing at which Dr. Meyer may be present."

Meyer was represented today by Leland Hazard, Kansas City attorney and Missouri graduate, who handled Meyer's case during the sex questionnaire inquiry. President Brooks, who termed the questionnaire sewer sociology, did not attend the hearing but was in Windsor, Mo., to deliver a high school commencement address. As has been told, Dr. Brooks will be succeeded as president June 5 by Dean Walter Williams of the school of journalism.

Removal Expected.

The view in official and professorial circles at the State University today was that Dr. Meyer will be dismissed.

Meyer has protested that his remarks at Nashville were not intended as criticism of the curators but as a defense of his personal honor. In a statement he declared his Nashville address was made in answer to critics of the Ohio State University board which had been assailed for employing him as a member of the summer faculty. Critics likened him to Dr. Snook, Ohio professor who murdered Theora Hix, his student paramour, Meyer said.

Student interest here in Meyer's trial was lukewarm today. Last year more than 2500 students held indignation meetings, plastered the campus with posters and circulated petitions in support of Dr. Meyer and Dr. Degraff.

On the board of curators are: James E. Goodrich, Kansas City, president; George C. Willson, St. Louis; A. A. Speer, Jefferson City; Mercer Arnold, Joplin; F. M. McDavid, Springfield; Charles F. Ward, Plattsburg; H. W. Lenox, Rolla; Milton Tootle Jr., St. Joseph, and H. J. Blanton, Paris, Mo.

Hazard and Dr. Meyer conferred for several hours last night, and Hazard said today that he would present "a considerable body of testimony" in Meyer's defense.

Trades Paintings for Food To Get Start as Artist

Sign Painter Peter Noto Finds Work Limited Due to Increased Use of Printed Posters.

Sign Painter Peter Noto, countryman of Da Vinci and Michelangelo, felt that 25 years of painting advertisements on billboards were too many for Artist Peter Noto, who had capped so many laboring days with nights of work with brush and canvas.

That was the underlying reason that prompted him to offer in the classified columns of the Post-Dispatch to exchange oil paintings for food and clothing. The immediate reason was lack of employment due to the tendency to replace painted advertisements with printed posters.

Almost since he can remember, Noto has longed to take the step which would change him from an artisan to an artist. But he has had to earn a living for his family. Necessity resulted in his newspaper advertisement, marking the first time he has offered his paintings for sale and symbolizing the passing of Sign Painter Noto and the advent of Artist Noto.

Artist Noto, smiling, olive-eyed Italian of a round and ruddy countenance, met a reporter today in his bungalow at Marshall avenue and West place, St. Louis County, and, indicating his paint-spattered overalls, apologized for Sign Painter Noto. "Excuse me," he said, "I am painting the kitchen.

Wife and Three Children.

"I put that ad in because I thought it would interest people in my paintings. I have a wife and three little daughters and I haven't had much work lately. Anyhow I want to quit all that and really paint. I have all these," he said, pointing at pictures hung on walls, stacked against walls, ranged on tables and chairs.

"And he has 100 more upstairs," interposed his wife. "Pete does fine, but he doesn't push himself."

"That's it," agreed Noto. "It's time I got started. I've wanted to be an artist since I went to kindergarten right after my parents brought me here from Italy. The teacher gave me some clay to model and I was happy. Then she gave some crayons and I was still happier.

"But my father, who had a dairy in St. Louis County, didn't want me to paint. He'd ask me to milk the cows and catch me sketching them instead. He died when I was 15 and I had to go to work. I got a job as helper to a sign painter.

Studied Art 10 Years.

"I hurried home at night to paint in oils. I joined the Brush and Pencil Club and the artists looked at my work and helped me. For 10 years I studied art at night at McKinley and Central High Schools. On holidays I went to the Art Museum. For 25 years I've painted signboards, but I've been painting on canvas longer than that."

Noto's paintings are of still life, of industrial St. Louis, of St. Louis County woodlands, of ships, of his children, his neighbors' children, even of himself. Some are on the back of old kitchen linoleum. Some result from his private formula of paints mixed with special ingredients. Some have been praised by critics. And now they are for sale.

"I'm getting along," said 40-year-old Sign Painter Noto. "And it's time I got started," added very-much-younger Artist Noto. "When I grab a brush, I forget my worries."

UNOFFICIAL FRENCH PROTEST AGAINST MUSSOLINI'S SPEECH

Ambassador Presents Objections to Utterances at Leghorn to Foreign Minister.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, May 16. — Maurice de Beaumarchais, the French Ambassador, today called on Foreign Minister Dino Grandi at the Chigi Palace and protested unofficially against the tenor of a speech delivered last Sunday at Leghorn by Premier Mussolini.

The Fascist Premier said in his address to 55,000 Italians that "if our frontiers were threatened, there would be gathered one human mass—nay, a thunderbolt—launched against any and all comers."

Mussolini declared, recalling that Sunday was the anniversary of Leghorn's battle with the Austrians: "There is something unescapable, inevitable, in this march toward the destiny of Fascist Italy and nobody can halt it!"

The Premier further declared: "I want to say not only to you, but to the people beyond our frontiers, that we are not anxious to precipitate adventures. But if anyone deceives himself so far as to think he can halt our onward march, he will find the whole Italian people in front of him."

FORMER OKLAHOMA GOVERNOR SUES 'PLAIN TALK' FOR LIBEL

J. C. Walton Seeks $250,000 Damages for Alleged Defamatory Article.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., May 16.—J. C. Walton, former Governor of Oklahoma, filed suit in United States District Court here yesterday against Plain Talk, an Eastern magazine, asking for damages of $250,000 for libel.

Walton's petition characterized as "false, scandalous and libelous" an article by Walter W. Liggett, a writer in Plain Talk, dealing with Walton's activities while Governor.

Three local hotels were named as co-defendants on allegations that copies of the magazine were sold from their news stands. The petition also set out that the magazine had a "glaring red front cover."

In a suit to enjoin the sale of the property by foreclosure, Williams alleged in Federal Court yesterday that the home was purchased for $88,000, of which $25,610 was paid with funds of the company and the balance with notes. Subsequently, $10,000 was spent by the company for improvements and $3000 for payments on mortgages, the petition alleges.

SUIT TO CANCEL $53,463 AWARD ON DES PERES JOB

City Alleges That Only Two of Three Arbitrators Studied the Higgins-Wall Dyer Co. Case.

Suit to set aside an award of $53,463, with interest, last year to the Higgins-Wall-Dyer Co. for construction work on Section A of the River des Peres drainage project, reached after an agreement of three arbitrators in the case, was filed in Circuit Court today by the city.

The city alleges in its petition that the award was made without the joint agreement of the three arbitrators and that only two of them participated in a study of the question, which included a counterclaim of $54,000 by the city for breach of contract. The contract of the Higgins-Wall-Dyer Co. was cancelled in 1924, when the city held that the work was progressing unsatisfactorily.

Before the arbitrators—John A. Lennon, Mat J. Holland and George F. Haid, the latter now a Judge in the Court of Appeals—were appointed the Higgins-Wall-Dyer Co. had filed suit against the city on its claim for damages in connection with the contract. The city in turn had sued the American Surety Co. of New York which signed the contractor's bond, the city alleging breach of contract.

It was agreed that the controversy in both suits should be determined by the arbitrators but the city now asks permission to renew its action on the bond, charging that the finding of the arbitrators was "illegal, void and of no effect."

According to the petition, signed by City Counselor Muench and Richard S. Bull, associate counselor, it was the understanding of the city that the arbitrators should meet jointly and confer before reaching any agreement. Instead, it is alleged that Lennon and Holland deliberated independently to the exclusion of Judge Haid and reached agreement without consulting him until after "such deliberation and agreement." However, the petition shows Haid concurred with the other arbitrators and they jointly signed the award May 24, 1929, which the Circuit Court affirmed with the exception of making a substantial reduction in interest allowed.

Associate Counselor Bull said the action of the arbitrators resulted from a misunderstanding and the city did not intend to cast any reflections. The failure of Judge Haid always to meet with the other members, Bull explained, was due to his impression he was an umpire to decide disputed points between them, whereas it was the city's intention the deliberations of all the arbitrators were to be held jointly.

EARL OF DERBY IS ILL

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 16.—Lord Derby today, on the advice of a physician, canceled his luncheon engagement at the home of former United States Senator Johnson M. Camden. At Joseph E. Widener's Elmendorf farm home, near here, it was said that the Earl probably would not be able to leave for Louisville until tomorrow, but that he fully expected to attend the Derby in the afternoon.

The Earl was advised to call off his social engagements and remain in bed until this evening, so that he might conserve his strength. His physician found he was running a temperature slightly more than 100, as result of a cold and throat infection. His condition was not considered serious.

NOTED NOVELIST DEAD

WILLIAM J. LOCKE,
AS he appeared two years ago during a visit in Hollywood, Cal.

WILLIAM J. LOCKE, NOTED NOVELIST, DIES

Author of "The Beloved Vagabond" Succumbs in Paris —67 Years Old.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, May 16. — William J. Locke, British novelist, died at his home here at 9:35 o'clock last night after a long illness. He was 67 years old. His adopted daughter, Sheila Locke, who forsook her own parents to live with him, was at his bedside.

The body will be cremated tomorrow at Perelachaise Cemetery in conformity with his last wish. The ashes will be taken to England where the funeral will be held Tuesday at Saint Martin's in the Field Church, London.

Locke was ill all winter at his villa at Cannes. He was brought to Paris at the beginning of the year and underwent two operations, the last of which, six weeks ago, was described as "very severe." His condition was grave at the time, but he seemed later to recover and he was permitted to leave the clinic and go home. Death came after a relapse.

Mathematician and Architect; Wrote More than 30 Novels.

William J. Locke was mathematician at St. John's College, Cambridge, where he was graduated with high honors in mathematics in 1884. Though he was born in the Barbadoes, March 20, 1863, the son of John Locke, a Trinidad banker, much of his early schooling was in England. He was, however, graduated from Queen's Royal College, Trinidad, in 1881.

Locke's first position was as mathematical tutor for a family in Northern France. Leaving that he accepted seevral tutorial positions.

After studying architecture, Locke held the position of secretary of the Royal Institute of British Architects from 1897 to 1907. He was elected to membership in the architectural societies of Holland, Spain, Portugal and the United States.

Locke's first novel appeared in 1895. It was "The Gate of Samaria." He wrote more than 30 novels. Among those best known to American readers is "The Beloved Vagabond." Other later popular works were "The Morals of Marcus Ordeyne," "Stella Maris," "The Wonderful Year," "The Rough Road," "The House of Baltazar," and "The Mountebank."

"The Beloved Vagabond" was dramatized and produced at His Majesty's Theater, 1908. Other plays were "Mr. Cynic," "The Lost Legion," and "The Man From the Sea."

Two American writers had considerable influence on Locke's writings, according to his own admission. They were Oliver Wendell Holmes and Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

"Both Holmes and Longfellow," Locke said, "had a whimsical touch in their prose, and I used to enjoy reading them so much. I wish the touch in England, France and America might be lighter today. There is a terrible tendency toward deadness in modern writing. I am more interested in spiritual gladness than in depressing material naturalism."

Locke has been described as a popular author with a whimsical turn of sentiment. One critic said: "The drivin gforce behind his stories is their sincerity, and their sympathy with the sins, follies, vanities and errors of the motley human multitude."

RAIL TRAVEL TO DERBY LIGHTER THAN USUAL

Auto Traffic to Louisville Race, However, Expected to Show Increase.

Travel by train to Louisville for the annual running of the Kentucky Derby tomorrow will be light on the three railroads from St. Louis as compared with previous years, but automobile travel for devotees of the great turf classic probably will nhow an increase owing to improved condition of the highways. Few St. Louisans will go to Louisville by air, only a few reservations for planes having been made.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad, which usually handles the bulk of travel for this sporting event, last night had extra equipment on its regular train to Louisville and also sent a special train of nine cars. Tonight this railroad will have two special trains of 12 cars each besides the regular train, which will have additional cars. Attached to the special train last night were a car of sportsmen from Tulsa, Ok., and a car for the party of Mr. and Mrs. George Wendling of St. Louis.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will have a special train tonight and additional cars on the regular train to take care of reservations for the Derby. The Southern Railway will als ohave special cars for the regular train.

Last year there was a stream of automobiles along the highways from St. Louis to Louisville the day before the big race by way of Indianapolis and also over the southern route. Bad gaps in the southern and shortest route have been hard-surfaced and smoothed out.

Charles De Blaze Convicted on 6 Testimany of Woman He Had Jilted.

Charles De Blaze, former bartender, was sentenced by Federal Judge Faris yesterday to two years in the penitntiary for the sale of morphine to a woman informer for narcottics agents. The chief witness was a woman addict with whom he said he had been frienly and with whom he quarreled.

DeBlaze was tried jointly with Joseph O'Connell, on whom $50 of the $60 given DeBlaze by the woman was found. The other $10 was found on the seat of a patrol wagon in which the two men were taken to a police station.

Because there was no direct evidence of O'Donnell's connection with the sale the jury found him not guilty, but Judge Faris, in imposing sentence on DeBlaze, said he would give him only two-fifths of the maximum penalty for the offense because he was convinced he "had acted for another, naming no names."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 16.—Henry Christian Reiner, 801 South Bemiston avenue, Clayton, is among 14 Yale University students suspended for the remainder of the period of recitations, about two weeks, for participating in a disturbance last Thursday night when hundreds of students clashed with police. Sixteen others were deprived of the right to live on the campus next year.

The suspended men, however, will be permitted to take final examinations. Twelve of them are seniors. The students will be required to pay for damage to police uniforms.

3-CREED SEMINAR TO CONTINUE WORK THROUGH BOARD

Votes in Closing to Maintain Governing Committee to Consider Differences Large or Small.

Future conferences between representatives of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths here will result from the St. Louis Seminar, which adjourned yesterday afternoon at Hotel Jefferson, after voting to continue its governing committee. The future meetings may be formal and largely attended, like the two-day gathering just ended, or they may be informal and casual, called to deal with some special situation where difficulty has arisen in the relations of the three religious groups.

Bishop Coadjutor William Scarlett of the Episcopal Diocese, general chairman, in closing the final session of the Seminar, said that the progress made by the conference had exceeded the expectations with which it was organized.

"We have found that it is useless to explore certain paths further," he said. "We have encountered the sign, 'No Thoroughfare,' or as we put it here in St. Louis, 'West Gate Closed.' It is a good thing to know and respect such signs. Other paths are open, and we intend to pursue them further.

Speaks for the Liberals.

"I think we understand better that every sincere believer is entitled to the moral respect of which Dr. Reinhold Niebur has told us. I hope even that this respect will be extended to that downtrodden group, the Protestant liberals, of whom I happen to be one. I shall hope to get better acquainted with Father Motherway, whose definition of the Protestant liberal belief reminded me of a story told by the Bishop of Winchester. The story was about a doctor who had a patient suffering from acute alcoholism, but who, to spare the feelings of his patient's wife, told her that the ailment was 'syncopation.' She looked the word up in the dictionary, and found that it meant an irregular movement from one bar to another."

The Rev. T. J. Motherway, S. J., to whom the Bishop referred, is a member of the St. Louis University faculty. In an eloquent address Wednesday, he expressed his view that liberal Protestants and liberal Jews have little or no positive religious belief, and that belief in "the God of Israel" is to be found chiefly among Roman Catholics and orthodox Jews. His conclusion was disputed at the time by the Rev. Dr. J. W. MacIvor, who said that liberal Protestants had a positive faith.

Rabbi F. M. Isserman of Temple Israel, vice chairman, in his closing talk, described a scene witnessed by him at the famous Sacred Staircase in Rome, which impressed him with the power and reality of the faith of others, though he did not share that faith. The Rev. John P. Spencer of St. Roch's Catholic Church, vice chairman said he had been assigned to serve on the committee by his ecclesiastical superior, and had found the associations pleasant, believed the Seminar had been of value, and should be continued in some form.

Father Wilbur's View.

The Rev. Russell J. Wilbur of Notre Dame Catholic Church, a member of the committee, favored continuance of the Seminar organization, but added, "it will work better if it is not assumed that the things on which we agree are more important and valid than the things on which we disagree."

The discussions held on problems of evangelization, intermarriage, public and parochial schools, were summarized by Prof. Harrison Elliott, Everett Clinchey, Prof. Samuel Cohon of Hebrew Union Seminary and other visiting and local participants in the gathering.

"Can we not apply the Golden Rule to our religious relations?" was Prof. Cohon's closing suggestion. "If we are not ready to put the rule in its positive form, let us at least take the negative form, and say, 'Do not unto your neighbor's religion what you would not that he should do unto your religion.' "

GANGSTER BURKE STILL SOUGHT

Photograph Identified in Another Los Angeles Robbery.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 16.—Search for Fred Burke, Chicago gangster, sought in connection with the St. Valentine's Day massacre there, was intensified today with the identification of the man as a participant in a $2334 jewel robbery in Los Angeles last night.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Kerr identified a photograph of the gangster as one of two robbers who forced their way into their home. Other recent victims of jewel robberies also have identified Burke as a holdup man. Kerr said one of the robbers, a tall man thought to have been Burke, threatened the occupants of the home, Mr. and Mrs. Kerr and two guests.

Three Children Burn to Death.

By the Associated Press.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 16.—Three small children were burned to death and their mother, Mrs. Francisca Ybarra, was injured seriously when fire of undetermined origin destroyed their home near Camp, a village about 40 miles east of here, late last night.

CIVIL SERVICE RULES WAIVED FOR DRY AGENT'S WIDOW

Hoover Permits Her Appointment to Treasury Department; Husband Killed on Duty.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Civil Service regulations have been waived to permit the appointment as a Government clerk of Mrs. Helen Hall York, whose husband, a prohibition agent, was killed on duty a little more than a month ago.

President Hoover last night issued an executive order to permit Mrs. York to become a "clerk in the classified service of the Treasury Department without compliance with the requirements of the Civil Service rules."

The order related that she is the widow of "Prohibition Agent Lamar W. York, who met his death while in the performance of his official duties at Washington, D. C., on April 12, 1930, leaving Mrs. York with three small children and without adequate means of support."

231 GOLD STAR MOTHERS OF U. S. REACH CHERBOURG

Two French Military Planes Escort the Liner America Into Port.

By the Associated Press.

CHERBOURG, France, May 16.—This former wartime port of American debarkation today greeted 231 gold star mothers of the United States who arrived on the steamship America at 2:45 p. m.

The liner came into port escorted by two French military planes.

Every member of the party arrived in fine health and spirits, greatly affected, however, by the tumultous welcome. Officials representing the Government and the port administration met the mothers as they went ashore and gathered on the railway station platform adjoining the dock.

Four short addresses were delivered, after which the visitors boarded the train for Paris. Another reception awaited them at the Invalides Station.

SALE OF PIERCE OIL TO GIVE HOLDERS OF STOCK DIVIDEND

Purchase of $25,000,000 Firm by Sinclair Likely to Give Them Equivalent of 50 Cents a Share.

Holders of common stock of Pierce Petroleum Corporation, the assets of which are to be sold to Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation, as told in late editions of yesterday's Post-Dispatch, will receive for each four shares of their stock the equivalent of slightly more than one share of Sinclair common stock.

The regular dividend rate on Sinclair stock has been $2, and if this is maintained, holders of Pierce stock will receive dividends equivalent to about 50 cents a share a year on their Pierce stock, which sold yesterday for $6 a share. Sinclair closed yesterday at 28⅛. Pierce Petroleum, with assets of $25,000,000, never has paid a dividend since it was incorporated, in 1924, in a reorganization of the Pierce oil interests.

Sale of the Pierce Petroleum Corporation assets to the $100,000,000 Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation was announced in St. Louis by Edward D. Levy, president of the Pierce Corporation, which has its headquarters at Seventeenth and Locust streets. The agreement is subject to ratification by Pierce stockholders, who will meet in New York June 12. If the deal is approved, as is expected, the Pierce Corporation, which has been in business for 75 years and is the oldest oil concern in the country, will lose its identity as an operating unit, being absorbed by the Sinclair interests.

To complete the transaction, the Sinclair Corporation will pay into the treasury of Pierce Petroleum Corporation about 625,000 shares of Sinclair stock. The Pierce Corporation may continue to exist as a holding corporation, having only the Sinclair stock for its assets, or its stockholders may decide to dissolve it and accept their split of the Sinclair shares. The Pierce Oil Corporation, which since the reorganization six years ago has existed only as a holding company, its assets being 1,103,000 shares of Pierce Petroleum stock, will continue as formerly, except that stock in Pierce Oil Corporation will represent its holdings of Sinclair stock.

Statement by Sinclair.

Harry F. Sinclair, chairman of that corporation's directors, in a statement given out here, said: "The deal is advantageous to Sinclair because of the marketing facilities we acquire in territory we are able to supply with our own products. It is advantageous to Pierce because, without production, refining capacity and distribution—which would cost millions to provide—it cannot progress."

The Pierce corporation assets include 969 filling stations throughout the Southwest, 183 in Mexico and 707 bulk distributing plants. Sinclair's statement points out that virtually none of these duplicate facilities of the Sinclair corporation. When the transaction is completed Sinclair products will have direct sales representation in all but 15 of the 100 largest consuming centers in the country, according to the statement.

Other assets of the Pierce corporation are 1100 railway tank cars, refineries at Sand Springs, Ok., Texas City, Tex., and Tampico, Mex., and interests in several thousand acres of oil land. In addition, the Sinclair interests will acquire net current assets of the Pierce corporation which amounted to more than $5,000,000 last Dec. 31.

Pierce Subsidiaries Included.

Some of these assets are owned directly by the Pierce subsidiaries, which are included in the deal. The corporation owns all of the capital stock of the Pierce Oil Co. of South America, Pierce Navigation Co., Pierce Pipe Line Co., Mexican Fuel Co. and the Consolidated Pipe Line Co. It owns half of the capital stock of the Mid-West Producing Co.

The Pierce Pennant motor terminals and hotels will continue under Sinclair operation, Levy said. The terminals at Tulsa and Miami, Ok., and Des Peres, Mo., have accommodations for the comfort of motorists and the care of their automobiles. The hotels are at Columbia and Rolla, Mo., and a bus terminal is maintained at Springfield, Mo.

Hard Row for Small Companies.

Samuel Untermyer, a director of Pierce Petroleum Corporation and its legal adviser, in a statement given out here, said the sale was made necessary because small companies have been unable to succeed in the oil business. "It is becoming more and more centralized in large units and the Pierce corporation accordingly found itself unable to pay dividends, nor were the prospects for payment of dividends encouraging for the future," he said. "As an integral part of the Sinclair company its plant and distributing facilities will be of far greater value than if operated alone. If, as we believe it will, Sinclair stock increases in value the Pierce Petroleum stockholders will share in that prosperity."

The Pierce company bears the name of the late Henry Clay Pierce, a St. Louisan, who acquired it in 1869 when it was known as John R. Finlay & Co. For many years the firm name was Waters-Pierce Oil Co. Pierce retained his interest until the reorganization in 1924. Finlay had established a refinery in 1855 at Thirteenth and Gratiot streets.

The Sinclair company was incorporated in 1919 as a holding company for the Sinclair Oil & Refining Corporation and the Sinclair Gulf Corporation.

REFUSES TO HALT HEARING FOR INSURANCE 'TWISTING'

Missouri Supreme Court Denies Writ to J. P. Sullivan, St. Louis Agent.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 16.—A writ of prohibition sought by James P. Sullivan, St. Louis insurance agent, to restrain State Superintendent of Insurance Thompson from holding a hearing on charges of "twisting" filed against Sullivan by other insurance agents, was denied yesterday by the Missouri Supreme Court en banc.

The Court also denied another application by Sullivan for a writ of mandamus to compel Thompson to issue an insurance broker's license to Sullivan.

The Insurance Department so far has refused to grant Sullivan's application for a license as insurance broker, pending investigation and decision on charges of "twisting" preferred by a committee of the General Agents' and Managers' Association of St. Louis, an insurance organization.

"Twisting" is a practice defined by the department as inducing or attempting to induce the holder of a life insurance policy to drop that policy and buy another. The department has had a regulation in force for 15 years that "twisting" is sufficient ground for refusal to issue licenses or to refuse renewal of such licenses. The practice is not directly covered by insurance laws.

Imagine! Genuine MacLaren Worsted Cords at $30, with two trousers. But why imagine when you can actually see them at that price

$30 never before bought suits like these

Choose from 63 different pattern designs
Choose from 37 different color effects
Choose from 28 different fabric weaves

We're not going to shed any tears in public. We're not going to tell you that sad, threadbare story about woolen mills that needed cash; or of elusive profits that have been dumped overboard. What we had to do in order to present these suits at $30 really doesn't matter. The important thing is that they're here—hundreds of them, in every conceivable weave, in every desirable color, in all the distinguished new fashions.

You've always seen suits like these displayed in solitary splendor against a polished background—with an expensive label and an exalted price to keep them company. And you've probably said "I'd like a suit like that—if it didn't cost so much."

We can't promise you all the expensive "trimmings"—but we can promise you "a suit like that"—exactly the same to the finest detail—and it will cost just $30, with two trousers.

Every suit in this special group has been cut over original English-designed patterns. And so that every man can enjoy this rare opportunity, we have included stouts, longs and shorts. Of course, every suit will be fitted to meet your individual needs, by our own factory-trained tailors.

Shop Bond's, today and tomorrow, and see for yourself that "$30 never before bought suits like these."

EMPLOYMENT DECLINE IN STEEL DURING APRIL

Federal Survey Finds Increase in Some Lines, but Conditions 'Not Satisfactory.'

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The Federal employment service said today in its monthly review that employment conditions during April could "not be described as satisfactory," although demand for agricultural labor, and for workers on out-of-doors construction had improved the outlook slightly at the end of the month.

Part time operation among industrial plants, a failure of the iron and steel industry to keep up improvement indicated during March, and a surplus of workers in cotton textiles were among the factors which occasioned the finding.

In its review of conditions, the employment service found some increase in working forces of automobile and automobile accessory plants. Skilled tool and die makers, pattern makers, and other factory artisans of the higher paid groups were kept fairly busy for the month. Radio plants likewise accelerated output, and boot and shoe and rayon factories were on virtually full time schedules. The only overtime operation noted was in industries devoted to the production of mechanical refrigerators.

"With the advent of more favorable weather in April there was a noticeable increase in road construction in practically every state," the review continued, "and thousands of skilled and unskilled workers who had been unemployed during winter months were absorbed. There was an expansion of agricultural activities, and there was an encouraging increase in the volume of building and employment among these craftsmen; however, a surplus of building tradesmen was still apparent in many cities at the close of the month.

"There are indications that there will be an improvement in operations and employment in industrial plants during May and a further employment re-expansion in all outdoor work."

HOLDS UP SAME STORE TWICE IN TWO DAYS

Ex-Convict Caught in Stolen Auto on Way to Venice Admits 6 Robberies.

An ex-convict, arrested last night by detectives on the McKinley Bridge when they recognized the automobile he was driving as one reported stolen, admitted six recent holdups.

The prisoner, who said he was Claude Hemphill, 24 years old, 912 Salisbury street, was identified by A. J. Brewer, manager of a chain store at 6200 Derby avenue, Wellston, as the man who held him up Wednesday, robbing him of $27, and who returned late yesterday taking $17 and a $16 check. The check and part of the money were found in Hemphill's pockets and a revolver was taken from a shoulder holster.

Hemphill said he was going to a Venice gambling house to try to recoup recent losses. Police said he admitted stealing the automobile from in front of 4803 Fountain avenue, and using it to escape after the holdup yesterday. He also is said to have admitted the following robberies: April 29, chain store truck at Sutter avenue and Page boulevard, $8; last Sunday, Creve Coeur street car at Woodson road, $15; Monday, Manchester street car at the Rock Hill crossing, $15; Tuesday, Midland street car in Vinita Park, $12.

Police records show Hemphill served two terms at Leavenworth for violation of the Dyer act, and another six months there for embezzlement while in the army.

How 12 Army and Navy Flyers Drifted in Pacific Day and Night After Rescuing Three Who Crashed

One of Three Planes Floats 40 Miles Before Crew Is Picked Up—One Man Killed When Parachute Opened Prematurely.

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, May 16.—Details of the adventure of air and sea that cost the life of Staff Sergeant Joseph Becker of Brooklyn, N. Y., and caused the loss of three military airplanes between the Islands of Maui and Hawaii Wednesday have been disclosed. Twelve other army and navy flyers whose planes rode the rough waves from noon Wednesday until early yesterday, were brought safely ashore by rescuing surface vessels.

Becker died when an army bombing plane fell into the ocean while accompanying a fleet of 41 army and navy planes from Luke and Wheeler Fields, near here, to Hilo, Hawaii. A navy seaplane and two army amphibian planes were brought down by their cries to rescue the bomber's men. They picked up three men, but the rescuing planes were unable to rise from the rough waters.

While flying 2000 feet high, the bomber broke an allerion control and began its descent. Becker's parachute opened prematurely as he was about to leap, and became entangled in the bomber's rigging. Two other members of the crew parachuted at an altitude of 4000 feet and were picked up by the rescuing planes.

Pilot Attempted Rescue.

Lieut. Tellmadge Leslie Boyd, Washington, D. C., pilot of the bomber, remained with the ship in an heroic effort to extricate Becker, and was drawn into the wihrling stabilizer. Boyd's legs were lacerated, his shoes and socks torn off and his clothing reduced to rags. Three thousand feet above the sea, Boyd freed himself and leaped with his parachute into the waves.

A naval seaplane commanded by Lieut. M. A. Schur followed the parachuting men down and picked up Boyd, Staff Sergeant H. Alexander, Kennedy, Ala., and Private H. L. Cowan, Syracuse, N. Y. Becker was carried down by the bomber beneath the waves. Boyd, Alexander and Cowan were brought to a hospital here to be treated for exposure.

Boyd was about to jump when he saw Becker's parachute entangled in the rigging and he went to the assistance of his Sergeant. The attempt to free Becker failed and Boyd parachuted seaward as Becker was dragged down by the plane into the high waves, leaving only an oil scum where the ship sank.

One Plane Drifted 40 Miles.

The steamer Hawaii rescued Lieut. E. W. Rawlings, Sergt. R. F. Summers, Lieut. Schur, Lieut. C. A. Hawkins, Aviation Pilot A. R. Schlacks, Chief Radio Man J. H. Dobson and Machinist A. J. Kachergis. One of the planes drifted 40 miles before its men were rescued.

Through the long hours of day and night Army and Navy planes circled over the fannel planes, unable to give assistance owing to the rough sea. Several surface vessels which hastened to the scene were unable at once to find the drifting planes.

Army medical officers who examined the rescued bombing crew at the hospital announced that Boyd was suffering from lacerations of the legs and feet and a bruised ankle; that Cowan had a dislocated right shoulder and numerous bruises, and that Alexander was suffering from shock.

Story of Survivor.

Cowan said:

"The first thing I noticed wrong was when the bomber started to leave the fleet formation and nose down. Then the motors idled and Boyd and Alexander shouted to me to jump.

"I was riding forward in the gunner's cockpit and had to crawl back between two whirling propellers. If I had fallen, I should have been thrown into them. I went along the top to the pilot's cockpit which Boyd and Alexander already had left to climb toward the tail. I did not see Becker after the dive of the plane had started.

"The wind was terrific and the tail kept getting steeper. I went under the top wing and got on the catwalk along the fuselage. Then I lost my hold and plunged off the ship.

"The parachute opened almost immediately. I looked around and saw two other parachutes below me, but I saw no other planes again until I struck the water.

"On my way down, I heard the plane hit the water, but all I saw was an oily spot and bubbles.

"I tried to unfasten the parachute, but could not use my right arm. I unhooked the breast strap with my left hand just before hitting the water.

Shark Almost Got Him.

"The first wave seemed to go right over me. The parachute harness was wrapped around my ankles and when I began kicking, it seemed to drag me down. I was swallowing lots of water, but when I got free of the harness I came up all right.

"I recognized Lieut. Meyers in the Army amphibian when he landed near me and thought his plane was going to pick me up, but his plane began to drift away in the rough water.

"The worst part was the five hours on the Navy seaplane which rescued me. I was so sick that I did not care what happened. Boyd and Alexander, who were also picked up by the seaplane, were pretty sick, too.

"The Navy treated us fine. The waves kept breaking over the plane, which shuddered until I thought its wings would come off.

"When the Navy fellows pulled me aboard they told me that a large shark was right behind me. About then I didn't care if the shark did get me, but I have the Navy to thank that he didn't.

Rescuers Saw Red Flares.

Speaking from his bed in the hospital, Sergt. Alexander said he kept his parachute with him several minutes after alighting in the water. A big wave swept over him as he was being pulled aboard the rescuing plane and he lost consciousness for several minutes.

Officers of the mine sweeper Pelican, which found the plane carrying Lieuts. Meyers and Jones 40 miles from where they came down on the ocean, said they saw red flares fired by the aviators after they had been afloat 15 hours.

The Pelican officers reported that the disabled Army amphibian which they were towing toward Honolulu sank. The Pelican joined the mine sweeper Sunnadin in searching for the two other abandoned planes.

SEES PROMISE OF PROSPERITY

Ogden Mills Discusses Business Depression in Speech.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Ogden L. Mills, Under-Secretary of the Treasury, told the American Association of Advertising Agencies last night that, although the country was passing through a periodic business depression, the basis of real prosperity was available and held "infinite promise" to the nation.

"At the present time we are unquestionably passing through one of those depressions which, in spite of all our advances in business and economic science, seem to recur periodically," Mills said. "We are all the more impressed and depressed because the yesterday was so extraordinarily prosperous and the sharpness of the contrast is accentuated by the rapidity with which the change came."

COUNTY WATER FIRM BRIEF ON VALUATION

Holders of Majority Stock Propose Rate Base of $8,096,000.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 16.—The claim that the rate base valuation of the St. Louis County Water Co. should be at least $8,096,455 is made in a brief filed with the Public Service Commission yesterday by Charles M. Polk on behalf of Francis Bro. & Co., in reply to the brief of the League of Municipalities of St. Louis County asking the commission not to approve the proposed sale of the water company to the Commonwealth Utilities Corporation of Philadelphia.

Commonwealth proposes to pay $3,150,000 for the water company's 14,000 shares of common stock and assume bonds and preferred stock, making the total purchase price about $8,350,000. This is at the rate of $225 a share for the common stock which was issued four years ago at about $22.50 a share. Commonwealth has applied to the commission for permission to acquire and hold the stock, a great part of which is owned by Francis Bro. & Co.

The League of Municipalities, represented by Joseph Grand, City Attorney of University City, is opposing the sale on the ground that the price is excessive and could be made a profitable investment by the purchasers only through exploitation of the property at the expense of the consumers.

In the reply brief, Polk argues that the rate base approved by the Commission if brought up to date would be $6,268,855 as of March 31, 1930, whereas Grand had said it should be $6,000,000. Polk says there should be added to this the sum of $612,425, held by the company as deposits by customers for extensions of service which the Commission has deducted from rate base, and that other disputed items, if allowed, would bring the valuation up to $8,096,455. On this basis, he said, the common stock would have an equity of $2,896,455, or about $200 a share. He urged approval of the sale. If such rate base were allowed it probably would result in an increase of rates, or at least would be used to oppose a reduction which might otherwise be justified as consumption increases.

A list of those contributing more than $1000 since 1927 showed that the Foundation had given the League a total of $106,250 since 1928 and that, in addition, Stanley S. Kresge of Detroit had contributed $10,000. Other leading contributors are enumerated as follows:

DAYLIGHT SAVING BILL IS LIKELY TO DIE IN COMMITTEE

It May Be Amended to Provide for Popular Vote in November on Adopting Plan in 1931.

BEATEN ANNUALLY FOR LAST 10 YEARS

Letters to Aldermen's President For and Against Proposal Are About Evenly Divided.

A bill providing that daylight saving time become effective in St. Louis June 1, probably will die in the Legislative Committee of the Board of Aldermen or will be amended to provide that the question of establishing daylight saving next year be placed on the ballot at the November election.

Legal opinion as to the possibility of such an amendment is sought and if it is found that this is not proper, a new bill providing for the vote probably will be introduced.

Letters to President Neun of the Board of Aldermen are about evenly divided for and against setting the clock ahead. Although one of the legislative perennials, the daylight saving bill never has got out of committee in the last 10 years. A poll by the Chamber of Commerce last year showed a majority against the proposal.

Letters supporting the bill for daylight saving, introduced by Alderman Chauncey J. Krueger of the Twenty-fourth Ward, have been received from the Real Estate Exchange, which voted four to one for it in a referendum among members; the Merchants' Exchange, whose members are inconvenienced because markets in Eastern cities operate on daylight saving schedules; the St. Louis Butter, Egg and Poultry Exchange, and numerous individuals.

However, the Retail Druggists' Association and labor organizations, including the Metal Trades Council and the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electrical Railway Employes, Local No. 788, together with many individuals, have written President Neun opposing daylight saving.

The labor organizations made their usual argument that workmen would have to arise an hour earlier, and many, among them carmen, who go to work before sunup, would have to retire during the hot hours before sunset to get their required sleep.

Clerks, stenographers and other office workers seem to favor the ordinance, making a plea for more hours of liberty in the sunshine and fresh air. Municipal Opera patrons, however, disapprove because performances cannot start there until nightfall.

A woman opposed the bill strenuously because of the difficulty she anticipated for mothers in inducing children to go to sleep at their usual bedtime hour.

Motion picture interests also have objected, but not with the vehemence of several years ago, before theater cooling systems had reduced the popularity of the airdome.

HUSBAND WANTED 'GAY LIFE,' DIVORCE TO MRS. W. R. YOUNG Wife Testifies He Drank Frequently and Engaged in Brawls With Guests.

Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Young, 27 Wydown terrace, Clayton, obtained a divorce from William Ridgely Young, secretary-treasurer of Maritz & Young, Inc., architects, in Circuit Judge Brackman's court at Clayton today. She alleged general indignities.

Mrs. Young testified her husband drank frequently, engaged in brawls with man guests at their home and that on one occasion, when they were fighting on the lawn, she had sent his friends home. His desire for a "gay social life" caused numerous disputes, she testified, one of them ending when he slapped her. They were married in 1921.

Mrs. Young was awarded custody of their two children, Elizabeth Jane, 7 years old, and Helon Anne, 4. No alimony was asked, Mrs. Young stating that she had an independent income. Young was represented by counsel but did not contest.

TIRED OF SCHOOL, BOYS FIRE BUILDING FIVE TIMES

They were tired of school so they set fire five times in the last three months to the portable buildings of the Garfield School, near Second street and Winstanley avenue, East St. Louis, four Negro boys said in confessions to Deputy State Fire Marshal Stoerger yesterday. Damage to the six portable buildings was about $500.

One of the boys, who was on parole from the Illinois State School for Boys, St. Charles, Ill., to which he was sent for theft, will be returned there. The other three will be arraigned in Juvenile Court tomorrow. They are held at the St. Clair County Detention Home. They said they started the fires with oil waste from nearby railroad yards.

THREE BOYS, 17, CONFESS SIX ROBBERIES IN EAST ST. LOUIS

Got $75 and Merchandise From Barbecue Stands and Confectioneries, They Tell Police.

Three 17-year-old East Side youths confessed six robberies in East St. Louis since last December, according to police who arrested them yesterday. In the robberies of confectionery shops and barbecue stands, $75 was taken and an unestimated amount of merchandise.

The boys say they are Gus Greenfield, Centerville Township; Albert Hagen and Edward Haumschilt, East St. Louis. They said six shots were fired at them last month when they entered Tim Kelleher's barbecue stand at 7600 State street.

They are held for the St. Clair County grand jury under $1000 bond each.

TO LIQUIDATE AFFAIRS OF TISSIER COMPANY

Five East Side Business Men to Be Chosen, Says One of Indicted Brothers.

Following the indictment of Louis F. and Charles Tissier, East St. Louis real estate dealers, Charles Tissier announced today a committee of five East St. Louis business men would be appointed to liquidate affairs of the Tissier Brothers Real Estate Co.

The concern, he said, has unsecured debts of $65,000 and assets of $80,000. In addition, according to Charles, the company has $300,000 in secured debts.

Charles Tissier was indicted for operation of a confidence game in connection with real estate transactions, while Louis was charged with forgery and operation of a confidence game. The brothers surrendered yesterday and were released on bond.

Three members of the proposed committee have consented to serve, Charles Tissier said. He declined to disclose their names until the entire committee had been chosen.

A written statement by Charles Tissier follows: "A statement of assets and liabilities is being prepared, which will show enough to protect all creditors if they will await developments. If people get excited and bankruptcy proceedings are taken, the assets will soon be eaten up. We are having no trouble about clients. All seem to be willing to place the matter in a creditors' committee which is now being formed."

The brothers will fight the charges against them, Charles said. He asserted that he at no time sold or handled the securities of the firm. He admitted that about $38,000 in notes had been issued against a $19,000 first mortgage on the Tissier Building in East St. Louis, explaining he signed the notes as owner of the building, in blank, when Louis sent them to him in Chicago, where he then was residing.

He denied Louis had committed any forgery and said the confidence game indictments concerned notes which were in arrears but which, "we would have settled up."

"Louis," he concluded, "didn't keep very careful books. He's at work now, trying to straighten them out. I have advised him not to make any statement."

CANNON YIELDS CHAIR BECAUSE OF CHARGES

Bishop Cheered as He Goes to Floor — Refers to Morrow's Prohibition Statement.

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., May 16.—Bishop James Cannon Jr., Washington, D. C., today's president of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, surrendered the gavel to Bishop W. J. Beauchamp, Atlanta, Ga., "because of certain matters before the conference."

He asked Bishop Beauchamp to take the chair after making two statements with the work of the Board of Temperance and Social Welfare, one of which, he said, was unusually pertinent "because of the statement of Dwight Morrow that he was not in favor of a return of the saloon, but was in favor of repeal of the eighteenth amendment."

When Bishop Cannon took the chair he was greeted by applause which was not ended until more than half the degelates had risen to their feet in tribute to him.

Proceeding without thanks for the demonstration, Cannon told the conference that he had 10,000 copies of the address of James E. Hughson, fraternal delegate from Canada, printed for distribution. The address was the same Hughson made before the prohibition inquiry committee in Congress as a reply to the statement of another speaker from Canada who had upheld the Canadian laws in regard to liquor control.

"Now," Cannon continued, "I wish to make a personal statement. Because of certain conditions known to the conference, I wish to surrender the chair to my good friend and colleague, Bishop Beauchamp."

The conditions to which Cannon referred were the charges pending against him of gambling on the stock market.

Another wave of applause followed, and immediately Bishop H. M. Dubose of Nashville demanded the floor. A copy of a morning paper, the Dallas News, in his hand, Bishop Dubose said that he wished to publicly express his resentment of the article appearing in the paper.

This article said in effect that those Bishops whose political activities had been attacked had "compromised" with members of the Episcopacy Committee whereby they were to be freed of accusations in regard to politics in return for which they combined with the "anti-Cannon" forces.

Bishop Dubose declared there was no truth in the statement. "I am sure," he declared, "that no member of this conference sought to bring about a compromise. I do not live in a glass house. I am willing to see everything I do and everything I say printed. But I resent this statement."

Another round of applause greeted this statement. Bishop E. B. Mouzon, Charlotte, N. C., was the next to gain recognition.

"I merely rose to say," he said, "that I am in full accord with the statements made by my colleague and friend, Bishop Dubose."

Mouzon, with Moore, Dubose and Cannon, were those named by the Rev. Rembert Smith, Washington, Ga., as taking undue part in politics in 1928. All were exonerated of these charges by the Episcopacy Committee.

To Check Bishop Cannon's Stock Dealings.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Permission for the Senate Lobby Committee to examine all records concerning transactions of Bishop James Cannon Jr. with two New York brokerage firms was given today by Charles W. Tuttle, Federal District Attorney at New York.

BYRD WATCHES SWIMMING EXHIBITION AT PANAMA CITY

Explorer Marvels at Skill of 4-Year-Old Children; Guest of U. S. Minister.

By the Associated Press.

PANAMA CITY, May 16.—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd was a guest of honor yesterday afternoon at a tea by Roy Tasco Davis, United States Minister to Panama. The entire diplomatic corps in Panama, numbering about 150, attended.

Admiral Byrd was guest of honor at a dinner given by Governor Harry Burgess last night.

Commenting at the tea on his expedition, Admiral Byrd said the trip of Larry Gould, the meteorologist, to the Polar plateau, "was the outstanding personal achievement during the expedition."

In the afternoon the explorer watched a swimming and diving exhibition in Balboa Pool by the Red, White and Blue troupe coached by Henry J. Grieser.

A downpour ushered in the rainy season and Admiral Byrd was worried about the youthful swimmers, wondering if they would not catch cold. He complimented the swimmers, including Grace Harris and Henry Brewerton, two of the stars, on their ability and marveled as children from four years old upward dashed across the pool.

Later he was introduced by Coach Grieser to Josephine McKim, who holds several world's championships for women swimmers.

"I've heard all about your records," the explorer said.

"And I've heard all about yours too," answered Miss McKim. Then they posed for pictures together, the Admiral holding the swimmer's hand.

STANFORD D. A. R. MEMBERS OPPOSE THE NATIONAL BOARD

Half Resign Because of Reactionary Policies on Peace and Disarmament.

PALO ALTO, Cal., May 16.—Approximately half the membership of the Stanford University Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, have resigned from the chapter and the national organization in protest against what was termed the "political activities and reactionary policies of the national board in regard to peace, disarmament and the World Court."

Those resigning included the wives of two former Stanford University presidents, Dr. David Starr Jordan and Dr. John Casper Branner. The group did not include, however, Mrs. C. W. Neff, regent, or Mrs. Theodore Hoover, sister-in-law of President Hoover. Those not resigning, it was said, thought they could do more to right the asserted "reactionary policies" of the national board by remaining within the chapter.

The resolution adopted by the withdrawing members also protested against "the high-handed methods of administration by which the member chapters have no effective voice in the determination of the national policies of the association."

PENNSYLVANIA CORRUPTION 'BAD AS EVER,' NYE ASSERTS

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 16.—Senator Nye of North Dakota, chairman of the Senate Campaign Funds Committee, expressed the opinion at the conclusion of a day of conferences here yesterday that indications of corruption in the senatorial primaries in Pennsylvania is "as bad as ever." He added that an investigation into expenditures was a virtual certainty following the voting on May 20.

The Senator spent the entire day in conference with District Attorney Andrew T. Park of Allegheny County, United States District Attorney Louis H. Graham, the Board of Registration Commissioners and individuals with complaints to submit.

Senator Robert S. Wagner of New York, another member of the Senate Committee, who was to have joined Nye here, was detained in Washington.

GERK UNCERTAIN ABOUT SAFETY ZONE LEGALITY

Chief of Police Wants Opinion on Status of Those Marked by Lines.

An opinion on the legal status of street car safety zones which consist only of yellow lines painted on the pavement will be sought from City Counselor Muench by Chief of Police Gerk. The question arises in connection with enforcement of the new traffic ordinance.

Some policemen have been recognizing this type of zone as official, but the Chief is undecided. If they are legal, automobiles may pass them cautiously while street cars are standing to load or unload passengers. Where there is no safety zone a machine must halt behind a trolley stopped for passengers.

Many motorists, it is reported, have disregarded these zones by driving over them, since there are no physical barriers. This has made persons awaiting street cars timid about standing in them. The new law prohibits driving over a safety zone. Traffic congestion has been caused, on the other hand, by careful motorists who stopped behind street cars where the painted lines exist, for fear these were not official zones.

Definition of Safety Zone.

The definition of "safety zone" in the new ordinance is: "The area or space officially set apart within a roadway for the exclusive use of pedestrians and which is protected or is so marked or indicated by adequate signs as to be plainly visible at all times while set apart as a safety zone." City Traffic Engineer Hoffmann thinks this applies to the painted-line zones, although they lack signs or mushroom markers.

Painted-line zones are installed by the Public Service Co. at its own expense, after consultation with Hoffmann. The city, however, paints the warning marks on the adjacent curb and erects "no parking" signs to keep the lane beside the zone clear. As rapidly as possible, Hoffmann said, mushroom markers, which are maintained by the car company, will be installed by the city at all the zones, but there is an inadequacy of funds for this purpose and several years may be required to catch up with the work.

SAYS MEXICO WANTS TO PADDLE OWN CANOE

Jose Kelly, Commissioner of Commerce, Addresses City Club Luncheon.

Mexico is a nation anxious to solve its own problems in what seems to it to be the best way, Jose Kelly, Commissioner of Commerce of the Mexican Government, said today in an address at a luncheon meeting at City Club.

Part of the program has been revolution, part reliance on the expert advice of foreigners, and part attention to the latest scientific advancements, he said. Even as regards prohibition, Kelly declared, "The Mexicans want to feel free to legislate foolishly, as has been the privilege of the United States."

The movement against drinking in Mexico is one of the younger people, according to Kelly, who said that it was rather an expression of sentiment against the use of alcohol in personal living, than of a desire for laws to prohibit its sale and manufacture.

One State in Mexico Dry.

"One state in Mexico is dry," he said, "but it came about through a wish of the farmers themselves, who told the Government that they needed farm machinery and road machinery more than they needed liquor."

The development of roads and co-operative farming are two of the major projects of the present administration. More than 15.000 miles of highways are under construction, and 5000 miles are nearing completion. Following the end of the revolutionary period in 1920, and the reduction of the army from 175,000 to 50,000 men, the greater number of the soldiers were put to work in road construction.

In addition, the Government has under construction three dams for new irrigation projects, the total cost of which is approximately $90,000,000. The highest type of American technical skill is employed in all developments by the Government, Kelly said.

Land Laws of Benefit.

The adoption of land laws, guaranteeing every farmer the right to cultivate land for himself, has done a great deal to remedy the economic situation of the country, whereas in 1910 when the latest era of revolution began, the farming country of Mexico was in the control of a few more than 1000 families.

Reviewing the history of Mexico from 1810, Kelly said that even in 1910 the total of illiteracy was perhaps 90 per cent. With the era of reconstruction begun in 1920 and the establishment of schools, nearly 2,000,000 children have received some form of education. The radio is utilized in the service of education.

Of these radio schools there are 3000 in the country, most numerous in inaccessible regions to which the state cannot well extend the ordinary type of schools. From eight Government radio stations each day, a two-hour course of instruction is sent out, and reproduced by loud speakers at each of the schools, the conduct of which is in the hands of the local letter-writers, the only literate class in the more remote towns before the extension of radio service.

Praises Ambassador Morrow.

Relations between the United States and Mexico at present Kelly regards as highly satisfactory, and he gives no little praise to former Ambassador Morrow. "Morrow's work can never be estimated in dollars and cents," Kelly said. "He is, without doubt, the greatest Ambassador the United States has ever sent to Mexico.

Kelly will be in St. Louis for several other speaking engagements, the schedule of which has not been arranged. He was born in California, but had spent the greater part of his life in Mexico, where he first served as a revolutionary soldier, a builder, an organizer and finally as a Government official.

"I am in St. Louis to get acquainted," he explains. "This city, culturally allied to Mexico by its history, is a manufacturing center which Mexico needs as a source of supply."

ARRESTS FOR SONG PIRATING

12 Men Held in Cleanup of Los Angeles Peddlers.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 16.—With more than a dozen arrests already made, Department of Justice agents today planned further roundups of alleged song thieves who were said to have obtained $100,000 in profits from illegally printing copyrighted sheet music.

The Government agents said a general conspiracy had been entered into in Los Angeles by song writers, publishers and printing firms to turn out quantities of popular songs for sale in Pacific Coast cities in violation of copyright laws. The investigation was launched on complaint of Eastern publishers.

FAIRMOUNT RACE TRACK, May 16.—Ultimate Vote scored his second victory of the meeting when he beat Thomas Seth by four lengths in the fourth event on today's card. Domina was third, while the others in the field of six were far back.

Improved weather conditions resulted in a crowd of 5000.

Ultimate oVte's time for the six furlongs was slow but it was not necessary for Swigert to urge the colt in the last eighth, Thomas Seth having given it up as a bad job. The winner paid $4.96 for $2.

The Moon, making his own ing race, defeating Charming Lady, King at Arms and nine others with comparative ease. M. E. Meyers, who rode the winner, had to overcome the disadvantage of the extreme outside position position in the large field, but he managed to get his horse to the front before they had gone a hundred yards and he was never seriously threatened.

The winner paid $7.18 for $2.

Sun B., running within a fifth of a second of the track record, cantered to victory in the second race, in which 2-year-olds contended. It was Sun B's second start of the meeting. She had her supporters worried when she twice unseated her rider, E. Decamillis, at the barrier. However, once the race started, she left no room for doubt. Nervator gave her some stiff competition for three furlongs, but weakened in the stretch under severe punishment and Night Flash, an outsider, took second place. The winner paid $4.06 for $2. Night Flash paid $44.48 to place.

Jockey Meyer's second winner was Bunthorne, victor in the third race. The start was delayed seven and one-half minutes by the refusal of two "hot" horses, Howard Lee and Enthusiastic to enter the stall barrier. They twirled like pinwheels and finally as the barrier was sprung Howard Lee propped on his hind legs and Hanford had all he could do to keep his feet in the stirrups. Hec led to the clubhouse turn and then Bearcry assumed the lead. At the half mile ground Burnthorne moved up and when he took command to the stretch there was nothing to the race. He looked 10 pounds the best horse. He paid $7.36 for $2.

American Walker Cup Team Defeats British For the Sixth Time

By the Associated Press.

SANDWICH, England, May 16. — The American Walker Cup team today retained the trophy United States players won five times before by defeating the British team of star amateur golfers, 10 points to 2. Seven of eight singles matches were won today and three of four foursomes in yesterday's play.

The victory today marked the second rout of the British amateurs in a row, the 1928 engagement of the biennial competition being decided by a score of 11 to 1 in favor of the Americans.

Torrance Also Won in 1928.

Then, when the play was over the course of the Chicago Golf Club, the visitors failed to win a foursome and took only one single, T. A. Torrance defeating Charles Evans Jr., one up. As Mr. Torrance won his singles match today, he is the only Briton to win a point single handed in the last two competitions.

Tolley and Wethered won the other point in the 1930 score by defeating Von Elm and Voigt, two up in the foursomes.

Needing three victories and a half in the singles today to insure victory, the American team quickly brought home three winners. Bobby Jones, Harrison Johnston and George Voigt, the first matches reporting all being in favor of the Americans, then George von Elm clinched the case with a triumph over Rex Hartley.

Jones' Comment.

Bobby Jones was brief in his comment after the victory. "We are happy to have won," he said.

All the other members of the team were particularly enthusiastic over the great victory of Don Moe, the baby of the team, and all congratulated him enthusiastically.

The news of Glenna Collett's defeat at Formby was a blow to the American camp and the Walker Cup players seemed more surprised and downcast over her loss than elated over their victory at Sandwich.

Moe had a sensational medal score for his afternoon round, getting an approximate 67 for the 18 holes. He holed all putts except at the fifteenth and eighteenth holes. He went out in 33 strokes and covered the last nine holes in 34, with two putts conceded.

The medal score for Sandwich is 68, held by Leo Diegel, but Moe's amazing figure today cannot displace that.

Moe Fights Uphill.

Moe's round against Stout made golfing history for Sandwich, four down at luncheon, the University of Oregon student came back with a brand of golf in the afternoon that could not be denied.

Stout started out as though he would wipe his young opponent from the golfing map, flashing three threes in a row immediately after the start of the afternoon clash and going seven up.

Moe thin played the six holes from the fourth to the ninth in four under fours and started the

U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM PUTS OUT CANADIANS IN THREE MATCHES

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—The doubles combination of Johnny Van Ryn of East Orange, N. J., and Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., crushed Dr. Jack Wright and Willard Crocker of Montreal, in straight sets, 6—0, 6—4, 6—2, here this afternoon, after Van Ryn and George Lott of Chicago had turned in victories in singles, giving the United tSates the necessary three matches out of five and triumph in their first Davis Cup match of 1930.

Van Ryn, after being stopped yesterday by rain, had only to run out two points against Dr. Wright to score his victory by 6—2, 6—2, 2—6, 6—2.

Lott then defeated Rainville in straight sets, 6—2, 6—2, 8—6.

Johnny Doeg of Santa Monica, Cal., will take the place of Lott against Wright tomorrow, while Allison instead of Van Ryn will oppose Rainville, it was announced by Fitz Eugene Dixon of Philadelphia, non-playing captain of the United States team. The change was made to give Doeg and Allison experience in international singles play.

The American team will now play Mexico in Washington next Thursday, Friday and Saturday for the right to go to Europe in quest of the famous cup.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 16.—The color and pageantry of America's greatest horse-racing classic, taking definite hue and form today for the fifty-sixth running of the Kentucky Derby, centers about two decidedly contrasting figures of the turf—the English Earl of Derby and the freckle-faced Earl of Sande.

Though they travel in separate spheres, the paths of these two will bring them into one and the same spotlight late tomorrow afternoon, if racing form and favor mean anything, for Earl Sande is the popular choice to ride the great Eastern colt, Gallant Fox, to victory and enable his owner to receive the highly prized gold trophy from the hands of the distinguished British patron of the turf.

The Earl of Derby, or "Darby," as he pronounces it, seventeenth of his line, will witness for the first time the American racing namesake of the classic English event bearing his name. Tomorrow he will occupy a post on honor at the "Darby," a civic holiday having been declared in his honor and an opportunity arranged for him to broadcast impressions of the race over an international radio "hookup."

Sande Seeks Third Derby Victory.

The Earl of Sande is no such stranger to Churchill Downs and the route that leads to the laurels of Derby victory. Twice before, in 1923 and 1925, the boy who rode to fame form Idaho to New York, has booted home winners in Kentucky's classic. Tomorrow he has the chance to cap the climax of a dramatic comeback by riding home a

MISS COLLETT LOSES TO 19-YEAR-OLD GIRL IN BRITISH GOLF FINAL

FORMER CHAMPION WINS ONLY TWO HOLES OF FIRST 18 AND IS BEATEN 4 AND 3

By the Associated Press.

FORMBY, England, May 16.—Diana Fishwick, 19-year-old English girl, today won the British women's golf championship, defeating Glenna Collett, American champion, four up and three to play.

Miss Collett was not the player today that she was as she moved through the championship to the final, nor the player who forced Joyce Wethered to play sensational golf to defeat her in the championship last year.

She was five down in the morning and, although she played a better game in the afternoon, she never was able to reduce her young opponent's lead to a point where the American could be considered a contender.

Nearly 2000 spectators looked on in amazement as the little English girl, given little or no chance against Miss Collett in advance calculations, more than held her own on the first nine and then jumped into a commanding lead on the second.

Miss Collett, off her game in every department, but especially around the greens, won only two holes of the first 18, the first and the sixth. Miss Fishwick won the second, fourth and ninth to be one up at the turn and then captured the tenth, twelfth, sixteenth and eighteenth to be five up at lunch. Miss Collett had more three-putt greens today, it seemed, than she had had in all her previous matches in the current tournament combined. She had a medal card of 86 to Miss Fishwick's 80.

Although the English girl had an apparently safe lead, some experts recalled that Miss Collett led Joyce Wethered five up at exactly the same stage of the game in the 1929 championship only to bow in the end to the English star 3 and 1.

The outgoing cards:

Miss Collett........456 545 545—43
Miss Fishwick ...546 446 543—41

The incoming cards:

Miss Collett in....655 445 455—43
Miss Fishwick in.554 445 354—39

Miss Fishwick retained her morning lead of five up after nine holes of the afternoon round had been played. Miss Collett reduced her opponent's advantage to four, saw it mount to six and then cut it to five again.

An erratic putter brought about the defeat of the American. She failed to hole reasonable putts all day. After a valiant effort to recover some of the lost ground, which was partly successful, she encountered fatal rough at the fifteenth hole of the afternoon round and was forced to give up the golf ghost.

The card (afternoon):

Out—
Collett ....445 445 543—38
Fishwick ....455 434 544—38
Collett—4 4 5 4 4 6.
Fishwick—5 4 5 4 5 5.

A gallery of 5000 saw the finish of the match and shortly after the cup, almost as big as Miss Fishwick, was presented. Miss Collett was presented the runner-up cup.

Miss Collett ha dno excuses, saying she simply could not get going to beat the English girl's strong game.

The Moon displayed good speed from the start, opened up a commanding lead but had to be hard ridden to withstand the challenge of Charming Lady. The later well up throughout, gained gradually and was going strongest of all at the end. King At Arms had no mishap. Mat Hunter raced evenly and was going gamely at the end. Col. Fallon went well. Mystery Ballot failed to improve his position under hard urging.

$2 mutuels paid: The Moon, win $7.18, place $3.48, show $2.76; Charming Lady, place $6.72, show $3.90; King at Arms, show $2.66.

Sun B. fractious at the barrier, broke quickly when the start came, raced into a long lead and won as her rider pleased. Night Flash away slowly made up ground to finish going gamely. Nervator had no excuse. Broad A. pulled up repeatedly was given a weird ride and might have been serious factor with better handling. Lexington Girl away slowly, raced into contention but tired during the final quarter.

Catcher Is Released.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., May 16.—The release of Catcher C. R. Weaver of Louisville, Ky., was announced today by Norman "Kid" Elberfeld, manager of the local Western Association club. Weaver was first-string catcher with the club until Jim Dodgen, young Kansas City receiver, reported recently. George Harrison, young outfielder from Atlanta, Ga., reported to the local club today.

WRAY'S Column

The Derby Odds.

FOR the first time in 15 years or more, there is a strong probability that a Kentucky Derby favorite will go to the post at odds-on. In 15 years three Derby choices have been held at about even money or slightly higher. In 1924 Black Gold was backed from 40 to 1 down to even money to win the event.

In 1922 Morvich, with a very weak field contending, was a 4-to-1 winter book choice that went to the post at even money. Old Rosebud in 1914 was around even money, if memory serves.

Only two or three odds-on favorites have started in the Kentucky Derby because, at the time of the year this race is run, it is seldom that a candidate has given an overwhelming indication of his 3-year-old form.

Gallant Fox has proved his condition and power already and this, coupled with the fact that all the truly great 2-year-olds of last season are out of this season's 3-year-old feature, makes it probable that Gallant Fox will be held at an extremely short price if the track is fast tomorrow.

Case Against Gallant Fox.

GALLANT FOX'S case has not been proved on the wet going and, in event of rain and a soggy footing, Tannery may displace Gallant Fox as favorite. Those who are backing other eligibles than the Fox are counting on several circumstances that seem to militate against Gallant Fox.

First—His tendency to sulk, as shown in the Preakness and during his workout in the mud since arriving at Louisville.

Second—The fact that only one horse in history has ever won both the Preakness and the Derby.

Third—That only one rider, the Negro, Isaac Murphy, has won three Derbies.

Fourth—The normal accidents that arise from a race on a muddy track, especially if there are faster breakers in the field than Gallant Fox.

Thus Gallant Fox will have to overcome a normal temperamental handicap and get the best of the "breaks," while both horse and rider will have to achieve an unusual feat in order for Gallant Fox to come through a victor.

Which is all very well as far as it goes. But thus far Gallant Fox is of such caliber that considering the rather ordinary strength of the opposition he ought to be able to take the worst of it and still win.

They're After Sonny Boy.

GUS SONNENBERG'S "flying tackle" bunk has been barred from Los Angeles. A long line of State and city commissions stretching across the continent could do worse than follow the lead of the Far West. What Carnera did to deserve suspension was nothing to what Sonny Boy has pulled—and gone unscathed except in Illinois and one or two other states.

However, the Far West's antipathy to Sonnenberg's may be tainted. Out there they are grooming another collegian for the bigger and better mat show business. He is Everett Marshall, a fine looking athlete, almost as pulchritudinous as the late lamented—no, we mean lamentable—catch-as-catch-can champion, Wayne "Big" Munn.

Marshall is a splendid physical young man who specializes in a new wrestling catch-penny called the "airplane spin." We gather that Marshall picks up his man and makes him perform like a propeller and then slams him to the canvas.

In Los Angeles the "airplane spin" is more popular because Marshall is its sponsor. But elsewhere it may look like anything but a legal wrestling "hold."

In any case, by barring Sonnenberg's "flying tackle," Los Angeles is protecting "home industry."

Part of the Ballyhoo.

ONE of the features of modern wrestling is that each man is supposed to specialize in something. If he doesn't, he invents a specialty.

Joe Stecher was one of the first to advertise a "special" hold, and his "scissors" and its man-killing qualities circled the globe in news columns.

Then there was Gotch with his toe-hold, Lewis with his headlock, Londos with his Japanese arm locks, Zbyszko with his flying mare, etc. All these, however, with one exception, offered nothing new—just holds that Farmer Burns and Tom Jenkins used years before whenever the opportunity to employ one or the other arose. They knew them all.

Frank Gotch really introduced something new with his toe hold. Gotch made that grip famous and it really was a departure. The others were not.

Wrestling Goes Collegiate.

THE first of the new "collegiate" school was Wayne Munn, who knew little or nothing about wrestling, as champions should know it. Therefore he specialized in the crotch and half-nelson hold, hoisting his man aloft and crashing him to the canvas for a goal—in theory.

It was a magnificent gesture, whenever Munn's opponent would let him get by with it. But still it was a legitimate hold.

But the real parting of the old and the new wrestling ways came with the advent of the flying tackle of Sonnenberg, like Munn, a collegiate football performer.

All old-line holds having worn out their novelty, Sonnenberg tried butting a man head-on in the pantry—as foul a performance under old wrestling rules as one could imagine.

And now they are trying to build up still another college specialist in Marshall, with his so-called airplane spin—whatever that is. We know, at any rate, it is the newest thing exploited in mat exhibitions.

College Wrestling Normal.

AND the end is not yet. Because the collegians have taken up wrestling, the promoters are picking on young and green college athletes to feature as "prospective champions."

If the public could see how different is the wrestling taught in colleges from that which promoters feed fans in exhibitions, they would wonder if the two exemplified the same form of sport.

College wrestlers are taught real wrestling. But they have to forget much of it after leaving college.

MUNY TENNIS BODY TO CONSIDER DIVIDING PARK NET SCHEDULE

Whether the Municipal Tennis Association will have two divisions in the interpark tennis league this year will be decided at a meeting of the association tonight at the Sherman Park Community Center.

In other years a round robin schedule has been followed, but the addition of another team this season, making a total of 12 teams, has brought up the question as to whether a round robin tournament would extend play too long. The new team will represent Concordia Park, at Thirteenth and Utah streets.

It has been announced that Ted Drewes, former national public parks champion, and present local public parks champion, who has spent the winter in Florida, has returned and again will be a member of the O'Fallon Park team.

SUNSET MEMBERS WILL VOTE ON PROPOSITION TO PURCHASE CLUB

By W. J. McGoogan.

Members of Sunset Hill Country Club will receive ballots within a short time to vote on a proposition to buy the club buildings and the 170 acres of ground, situated on the Geyer road, north of Gravois road, from August A. Busch and Anheuser-Busch, Inc.

The plan was drawn up by a committee of club members and as explained by Frank Boehm, president, provides for the payment of $400,000 at the end of eight years, in addition to the annual amount now being paid to the owners. The $400,000 would be raised by an assessment of $100 annually against each member, to be paid $25 quarterly. This money, with the interest on it compounded, would amount to $400,000 by the end of 1938.

There are now 383 active members in the club and it is planned to admit 17 new ones to make up the desired number of 400. After that number is reached, the list would be closed and membership could then only be made by vacancies.

Those who are now members paid $500 each for their memberships but they have no equity in the club property and if for any reason they withdraw, they receive nothing. In the event the plan to purchase is adopted, certificates of equity are to be issued. The equity of each member when the final payment is made would actually cost $1300, represented by the $500 for membership and the $800 in assessments.

The certificates could be disposed of when a member left the club for a stipulated sum to be determined later and could be sold to anyone desiring to purchase, whom the board of governors deemed desirable for a member.

The land and buildings cost $701,000 originally. When the club took over the property in 1918, $125,000 was allowed for depreciation. Since that time $104,000 has been paid to the owners and it is estimated that $74,000 additional will have been paid under the present plan by 1938, which would make the option, which the club has to buy the property for $400,000, operative.

Dues in the club at present amount to $180 annually and there has been but one assessment, that of $100 against each member which was made just recently.

The Sunset Hill establishment is rated among the best in the St. Louis district. The St. Louis open golf championship is to be played there July 2-4.

STEADMAN AND TOMAZI WIN ARKANSAS BOUTS

Paul Steadman and Johnny Tomazi, local battlers, are back in St. Louis today after winning their fights last night on a card at Blytheville, Ark. Steadman won the decision over Kid Adams of San Antonio, and Tomazi was victorious over Kid Prichard of Steele, Mo. Both local boys are handled by George Wilsman.

BROWNIES BAT .183 IN LOSING 8 OF 12 GAMES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

EN ROUTE TO DETROIT, May 16.—Bill Killefer and his Browns, after a disastrous invasion of the East on which only four of the 12 games played were won for a per centage of .333, are on the way west today. The club is scheduled to open a series in Detroit tomorrow and after this will move to Cleveland before returning to St. Louis to engage the Tigers, May 25.

The Browns started in the East by winning two out of three from the Senators. They followed by losing three out of four to the Athletics and Red Sox and dropped the only contest played in New York. The last two scheduled battles with the Yankees were postponed because of rain.

The reason for the Browns' failure in the East was a lack of punch and nothing else. The pitching was pretty good, inasmuch as the opposition scored only 52 runs, an average of a little more than four a game in the 12 battles. Of the four victories, Walter Stewart won two and Dick Coffman and Rip Collins one each.

The hitting, however, was pitiful to say the least. In the 12 games, the Browns made exactly 68 hits, in 372 trips to the plate for an average of .183. Only 33 runs were scored, or 2.75 in each battle. Which shows that the Browns were surely hitless wonders while opposing Eastern pitchers. In only one battle, the second played at Washington, did the team go into double figures in safeties. In this game 13 were made. Twice they were stopped with two hits; once with three in a game which Stewart won. Out side of the 13, the highest total was seven swats a contest.

Alvin Crowder or Sam Gray will work the opener in Detroit, but unless the batting picks up, it does not appear that the Browns will do much.

SPORT SALAD by L. C. Davis

By Limerick Luke.

WHEN a certain old fellow named Luque
Had delivered a stinging rebuke,
By standing the Reds
On their several heads,
"It's an old Spanish custom,"
said Luque.

THE bingles were not very rife
As Luque got away with the strife;
He was there like a duck,
And the Reds had no luck,
With the Spaniard who blasted their life.

FOR 14 long years he had stayed
In the big Cincinnati parade;
He at last got a break,
And found everything jake—
When to Brooklyn he went in a

Another "String" Broken

Tommy Connolly broke a consecutive string of eight canless years when he had to banish a couple of White Sox the other day. It must be said, however, that both players were new to the American League and didn't know that an unwritten law of baseball made Tommy exempt from the usual line of bush league criticism.

Prior to this episode, Babe Ruth was the last player to be given a ticket to the showers by Tommy. It was sad news to Babe, as he aspired to go down in history as the last man to be decorated with the Order of the Tin Can by Connelly.

With all the players getting an Elgin watch for every home run, we look for some very timely hitting this year.

While the batter will have a peek or so of watches to wind up at the end of the season, the pitcher who made it possible will have nothing to wind up but his career.

Some of the college baseball teams have decided to get along without coaches. Everybody walks!

The college boys are so all-fired smart they don't need any coaching. But if they ever make the majors they find that they don't know their A B Cs.

However, as they don't go to college to learn baseball, why worry? Football is the objective.

AMERICANS WIN WALKER CUP SIXTH TIME, DEFEATING BRITISH, 10-2

U. S. STARS WIN SEVEN OUT OF EIGHT MATCHES IN THE SINGLES

last nine with his opponent only two up instead of seven.

Don then squared the match at the twelfth hole with a long putt for a three and went one up at the thirteenth. After a half at the fourteenth, Moe was bunkered at the fifteenth and Stout in turn made the match level.

The sixteenth and seventeenth were halved and the issue was to be decided at the home hole. Moe's iron shot to the eighteenth was a classic, and will long be remembered. From 200 yards he sent the ball dead to the pin, stopping three feet past as it lipped the hole in passing. Stout was on the edge of the green in two, and when his putt for a four rimmed the cup, he conceded the putt, hole and match.

The other Westerner, Dr. Willing, also came from behind. He was one down after 18 holes, was square at the turn in the afternoon and then clung tenaciously to Smith until he got his chance to win, two and one.

At the thirty-fifth, the Portland man sent an iron 220 yards to split the pin and rest eight feet beyond the cup. He was down in four with ease while Smith was short in two and took five.

11 Holes Halved.

Campbell fought hard against MacKenzie and halved 11 holes in the afternoon, but the Delaware player needed only to hold his lead until the inevitable end.

Jones was three under four's for the day's play and there was never any doubt of the outcome of his match. Voigt, too, early in the day convinced the spectators that it was not his day to lose, and Johnston was steady when he had to be to win. Von Elm's afternoon round was ever fours and he finished strong.

Wethered's misfortune began at the tenth, where his drive hit a spectator on the head and knocked him unconscious. Wethered then lost the tenth and five more holes in a row. He managed to hold Bobby even at the sixteenth and eighteenth, but lost the seventeenth to go to luncheon seven down.

Jones was one up on Wethered at the second hole. Jones was over the first green with a brassie and chipped dead for a half in fours. He won the second with a birdie three, thanks to a spectacular approach from deep rough.

Jones missed a four-foot putt at the third but Wethered muffed one of a yard and the hole was halved in fours. The fourth also was halved in fives, leaving Jones' lead of one up intact. Jones and Wethered halved the fifth in fours and the sixth in threes.

Jones and Wethered were all square at the ninth. Jones halved the seventh in fives. Chipping down hill from behind the green at the short right, Jones was 10 feet short, missed his putt and lost the hole to enable Wethered to square the match. The ninth was halved in fours.

Jones won the tenth, 4 to 5, the eleventh 4 to 5, and the twelfth 3 to 5, to go three up on Wethered. Jones played a fine run-up lead from 40 yards for this three at the twelfth. Jones was six up at the fifteenth, winning every hole from the turn. He holed a 30-yard putt at the thirteenth and scored a birdie four at the fifteenth.

Jones and Wethered halved the 19th and 20th holes, the 19th in loose fives. Bobby's second was bunkered while Roger shanked his into the spectators, scattering a crowd, including the Prince of Wales. The 20th was another half at four.

Jones, with an airplane sputtering overhead, looked skyward and then missed a five-foot putt to lose the 21st hole when Wethered took a three to his four. The 22d was halved in fours.

Jones won the 23d with a birdie three and lost the 24th when he took four to Wethered's three. A birdie two at the 26th won another hole for Bobby and when the 27th was halved, he started home eight up and nine to play.

Jones won the 28th with a four to Wethered's five, ending the match.

An unusual incident featured the finishing hole of MacKenzie's match with Campbell in which the Scot never threatened to reduce the American's lead.

MacKenzie's long brassie shot to the eighteenth green landed in the pocket of a spectator standing near the green. Roland dropped a ball over his shoulder and got his par four to win the hole.

SHORT TRIALS END WORK OF DERBY HORSES

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 16.—Owners from the East rubbed elbows with trainers and owners from the West, and, together with touts and railbirds from all points, hung over the rail at Churchill Downs this morning to see the Derby entrants take a final blowout before going to the post.

Not one of the horses was extended in the final trials, and none of them turned in a last rehearsal that would make the heart of the most optimistic critic thump any louder than ordinarily.

Gallant Fox, the favorite, which will carry Earl Sande, was warmed up to a light lather, then let loose for three-eighths of a mile. The clockers, who had been waiting since sunup for the workout of this horse, caught his time for the two poles at 23 seconds flat and 35½ seconds. Gallant Fox might have gone further or done better, but his trainer chose to shorten the distance and let up on the speed because of the strenuous workout the horse had yesterday.

Gallant Fox, which has not the sweetest dispositon in the world, was given an hour's schooling in the paddock before the first race yesterday. He appears ready now.

Broadway Limited of the Three D's Stable was run a half mile, which he did in 48 seconds flat. The fractional time was :23, :35 and :48.

The E. R. Bradley organization put Breezing Thru and Buckeye Poet out at the same time, and after a warm-up jog around the track, they were sent three-quarters of a mile in :23 1-5, :47 4-5, 1:13 3-5, with both horses breezing.

Ned O. jogged five-eighths of a mile in 1:20 and called it a day.

Gallant Knight went the same distance in 1:02 3-5. The fractional time was :24 3-5, :49 2-5 and 1:02 3-5.

Uncle Luther, the Stivers entrant, was called on to do three-quarters of a mile, which he covered rather handily in 1:17 2-5. He was caught at :26 flat at the quarter, :51 4-5 at the half.

High Foot galloped twice around.

Jacks Kayoes Baugh.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., May 16.—Roy Jacks, former Western A. A. U. light heavyweight champion, knocked out Jesse Baugh of Joplin, Mo., after a minute and a half of sparring here last night on an athletic club boxing card. Baugh weighed 165 and Jacks 170½.

Sixteen Horses Are Named To Start in the Derby

winner on Gallant Fox, black son of Sir Gallahad III.

Just a week ago Sande rode Gallant Fox to triumph in the rich Preakness at Pimlico. If he wins again tomorrow, as he is expected to do, Sande will equal the best record of any jockey in the long history of the Derby and Gallant Fox will duplicate the achievement of Sir Barton, which in 1919 reversed the order, capturing the Preakness after a surprising victory in the Derby. No other horse has ever won both of these 3-year-old classics.

The odds are all in favor of Gallant Fox, which will race in the colors of the Belair Stud, owned by William Woodward of New York. It has long been a tradition that anything can happen in a horse race, especially the Derby, but the Eastern colt was backed down today 6 to 5 by an influx of financial support and looked upon generally as the class of the field, with the possible exception of Tannery, strapping chestnut son of Ballot and owned by Edward F. Prichard of Paris, Ky.

Kentucky, always strong for its own, has "gone down" heavily on Tannery as the chief hope and pride of the Blue Grass. That famous master of the Idle Hour Farm, Col. Edward R. Bradley, twice rewarded with a "double," again has two crack contenders in Buckeye Poet and Breezing Thru to bolster the Kentucky entry, but Tannery is the homebred favorite in nearly all the wagering. The odds on Tannery have been backed down in the future betting from 100 to 1 to about 3 to 1. If the track is muddy, they may be even shorter, for Tannery is generally regarded to have a better chance of beating Gallant Fox in heavy going.

Not less than 12 and not more than 15 horses are expected to answer the bugle call for the race that will have an approximate value of $56,000, of which $46,000 goes to the winner.

Over night, the only definite withdrawal apparently was J. N. Camden's Sydney, but this was offset by the addition of Dick O'Hara, owned by Patrick H. Joyce of Chicago, and the filly Alcibiades, owned by Hal Price Headley.

The field of 15 for the Derby will be the smallest field in three years. There were 22 entered in 1928 and 21 last year for the classic of the American turf.

Although there were several doubtful starters, depending upon conditions, the only horse definitely slated for withdrawal from the Derby field was Busy.

Horsemen regarded the No. 7 position drawn by Gallant Fox, the entry of William Woodward of New York as ideal. It was recalled the colt drew No. 1 for both the Wood Memorial and Preakness, having trouble at the start in both races before coming on to win.

Dick Thompson, trainer for E. R. Bradley, regarded the extreme outside positions drawn by his pair, Breezing Thru and Buckeye Poet, as damaging the chances of these colts.

Louisville, in more prosperous times, probably has been jammed by more thousands of turf followers than the number flocking here this year. Nevertheless, without a record throng, more than 50,000 visitors were expected for the day, arriving by automobiles, special trains and in airplanes from Kansas City, El Paso, St. Louis, Philadelphia, Detroit, New York, Chicago, Cleveland and Atlanta.

The advance guard had reached substantial proportions today, with the "wise ones" from the big cities mingling with turf-minded Kentuckians, booted veterans who know their horses through long experience. On every corner, in every hotel lobby, they gossiped and argued, challenged and wagered, and there was also "umbrella herbs," hoping for the best but as usual prepared for bad weather, playfully offering inside tips on the authority of everyone from the stable boy to the Earl of Derby.

HEAVY TRACK PROBABLE FOR DERBY TOMORROW

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 16.—Even the weather man was unable to offer any word of encouragement today regarding the climatic conditions that will greet the pageantry of tomorrow's Kentucky Derby.

The Weather Bureau's forecast continues to be for unsettled weather. Rain has continued to fall almost continually for the past rthee days.

Yesterday the sun poked its head through the clouds for a few minutes, then disappeared. The track is still heavy, with every prospect of a continuance of the same condition.

Boxing Cards Are Planned by Elks

The Elks' Lodge in St. Louis plans to put on regular amateur boxing exhibitions each month for its members and guests at the Elks' Club, 3619 Lindell, it was announced today by Albert L. Schweitzer, exalted ruler, following a successful program of boxing exhibitions last night.

STENGEL ADVISED BY LANDIS TO CONTROL HIS TEMPER IN ARGUMENTS

CHICAGO, May 16.—Casey Stengel, stormy pilot of the Toledo Club of the American Association, has been advised by Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis to control his temper when disputing decisions with umpires.

Stengel, who used to hit long ones for the New York Giants, was brought before Commissioner Landis yesterday to explain why he was charged with inciting a near riot during the Toledo-Milwaukee game last month. Umpire Joe Rue, who was rescued from angry fans after much difficulty, told his side of the story and the commissioner warned Stengel and then took the case under advisement.

A heavy fine and possible banishment faces Stengel, who was benched for three days after the trouble. He was warned several times last year by President Thomas J. Hickey of the circuit for umpire baiting.

TIETJEN IS IN THIRD ROUND OF TENNIS TOURNEY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, May 16.—The narrowing down of the field in the Central Intercollegiate tennis championships to the quarter final round today found Washington University of St. Louis still represented in both singles and doubles.

In the singles, Vernon Tietjen, one of the two Washington starters, is scheduled to meet John Eglehoff of the University of Detroit, and a victory there will likely send him against Warren Byrum of Kalamazoo, seeded No. 1 in the singles draw.

In the doubles, in which only the first round has been played, but in which there are only eight teams left, Tietjen and his partner, Harold Wiese, have qualified to meet Jack McNaughton and Frank Cauley of the College of the City of Detroit in a quarter final match.

Bears' Stars Winners.

Wiese and Tietjen moved easily through their first round doubles match late yesterday, defeating Kane and Olson of Michigan State College in straight sets, 6—4, 6—3. The superior steadiness of the St. Louisans, who play better together than they do individually, enabled them to take the lead over their opponents early in the first set, and although Kane and Olson pulled up to tie the count at 3 to 3 at one stage they dropped back as soon as Wiese and Tietjen put on the pressure. The Michigan pair now won two games on service in the second set, but never threatened seriously.

McNaughton and Cauley, their next opponents, were given a first round bye, and as one of the stronger teams entered are favored to down the St. Louis pair today.

In the singles, Tietjen stepped through the first round on a default when the unnamed Kalamazoo College player he was to meet did not appear for his match. In his second round match Tietjen went three sets to down Ed Fulton of Wabash College, 6—3, 1—6, 6—1. After Tietjen had taken the first set handily the Indianan took to the net and his clever placements and the scorching pace which he set gave Tietjen only a single game of the second set. Tietjen began to get by him in the third set, however, and by keeping him on the run in the back court wore him down to take the match easily.

Bruce Brayton of Northwestern University eliminated Wiese in a first-round match, 10—8, 6—3. Wiese proved a stubborn foe in the early going, but after being nosed out in the 18-game first set, lost much of his accuracy in the second.

Granite City 5, Madison 4.

Granite City High strengthened its hold on the Southwestern Illinois conference pennant by trimming Madison High yesterday afternoon at Madison, 5 to 4. With a record of four victories and one defeat, and only one more game to play, Granite City is almost assured of the title.

20 HORSES ENTERED FOR $15,000 KING'S PLATE RACE AT WOODBINE

ICHITARO WILL BE TOP WEIGHT IN OPENING DAY CANADIAN EVENT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TORONTO, Ont., May 16.—The Canadian racing season will open tomorrow at the Woodbine Park track here with the $15,000 and 50 guineas King's Plate featuring the program. Twenty racers, foaled in Ontario, were named to start in the seventy-first running of the famous race. Several prominent Canadian owners have two or more horses for the event, J. C. Fletcher entering two, E. F. Segream three, Thorncliffe Stable three and Ryland C. New two.

Ichitaro, owned by Fletcher, will carry top weight of 133 pounds and will match strides with such good racers as Star Crest, Vestip, Sphere of Beauty, Lindsay and Pandorus. Vestip, owned by New, will carry 127 pounds.

The King's Plate is at a distance of one mile and one-eighth and will probably be run over a fast track.

Keene Memorial at Belmont.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 16.—The Keene Memorial for 2-year-olds and the Ladies' Handicap for fillies, 3-year-olds and up, are featured at the Belmont race track tomorrow. Nine juveniles will start in the Keene, while 14 fillies and mares will compete in the Ladies' Handicap.

Equipoise, which recently defeated the good horse Vanderpool, but was disqualified, will meet Avaricious, Chicleaf, Camper, Mad Career and other stars in the Keene.

Snowflake, W. J. Salmon's good filly, which ran third to Gallant Fox in the Preakness Stakes, is entered in the Ladies' Handicap and will compete with Lace, Dust Em All, Flimsy, Goose Egg and Khara.

The track at Belmont Park is not in the best of condition and a heavy track will probably prevail tomorrow.

STATE URGED TO MAKE GAME LAWS CONFORM WITH FEDERAL CODE

Missouri's failure to co-operate with the Federal Government in carrying out the regulations against the taking of migratory game birds in the breeding season was attacked by Clark McAdams of the editorial page staff of the Post-Dispatch, in an address delivered yesterday afternoon before the Missouri Wild Life Conservation conference held at The Arena Sports Club in conjunction with the Sportsmen's Show.

Mr. McAdams said it had been 17 years since the Government put the regulation into effect, and that since that time all the states except Missouri, Georgia and North Carolina have made their open seasons conform to the Federal regulations. The open season for migratory game birds in Missouri extends from Sept. 15 to April 30. The Federal season in Missouri is from Sept. 23 to Jan. 7.

State Game and Fish Commissioner Delph Simons will address the conference this afternoon at 3 o'clock. His subject will be "What the Missouri Game and Fish Department Is Doing for the Hunters and Fishermen in Missouri."

A paper on "The Wild Life Conservation Movement" by United States Senator Harry B. Hawes also will be read at this, the final session of the conference.

WEBSTER LEADS BEARS' FROSH IN TRACK MEET

Webster Groves High gained a 42-to-30 lead over the Washington University freshman track team in the first day of a two-day meet held at Washington. Eight events were run off yesterday, while the remaining six, the 440-yard dash, the mile run, the 220-yard low hurdles, the 880-yard relay, the pole vault and the javelin throw, take place this afternoon starting at 4 o'clock.

The Bear frosh got their only three firsts in the latter events—the half-mile, discus and high jump—to bring up their score. In the 880-yard run, Wait nosed out Paul Sibley in 2m. 8s. Moise gave the yearlings their second first of the day by winning the discus. His throw of 113 feet even was about one foot farther than Freschi's best. The other win for the university came in the high jump. Moise and Marco tied for first at 5 feet 6 inches, barely beating Harkey of Webster. This was the only event in which the freshmen gained a first and second.

In the dashes, two very good marks were made. Bill Freschi, Webster, ran the century dash in 10.1 seconds. Leck and Dow Sibley followed Freschi to give Webster a clean sweep of the 100. The other good mark was 22.9 seconds for the 220-yard dash, made by Walter Leck of Webster. Gottler, one of Washington's best dash men, arrived too late.

The summaries:

220-YARD DASH—Leck, Webster Groves High, first; D. Sibley, Webster Groves High, second; Hurni, Washington U. Frosh, third. Time, :22.9.

Midget Wolgast Meets Lamorte In Title Battle

NEW YORK, May 16.—Midget Wolgast of Philadelphia defends his flyweight championship in a 15-round bout with Willie Lamorte of Newark at Madison Square Garden tonight.

As a matter of fact both Wolgast and Lamorte hold "world's" championships. Wolgast is recognized as the legitimate title holder by the New York State Athletic Commission. Lamorte holds the title so far as New Jersey's boxing solons are concerned. Neither can hope for general recognition as 112-pound king until he defeats Frankie Genaro of New York, the National Boxing Association's nominee for the title.

A perfectly executed shot from e penalty spot by Center For- rd Joe Phelan enabled the Dolan otball Club to defeat the Acad- y A. C. 1 to 0 in their Twilight ccer League match at Sherman rk last evening. A crowd of out 1200 witnessed the fastest most exciting game of the short son.

n the closing minutes of play, for the greater part of the sec- half, the Academy club dom- ted the situation and their pro- ged attack reached its climax en Inside Left Coughlin drove a shot at the upper corner of the l, missing his objective only be- se the ball hit the cross bar and unced away. Goaltender Stohl- n and the Dolan fullbacks, Ma- and Finn, were extended to the most to keep their goal net un- ched. Outside Right O'Meara, h his well placed crosses, pro- ed Center Forward Ellison with many scoring chances. Molloy, at outside left, also had much to do with the Academy drive in the clos- g minutes.

s the game went, the Dolans ere superior only in the latter ortion of the first half.

Many Fouls Are Called.

Referee Jimmy Brannigan found it necessary to call many fouls as the players grew desperate in their efforts to score or to defend. A second penalty kick was called against the Academys when Full- back Keenoy kicked vigorously when the ball was out of reach. Phelan, however, kicked over the crossbar, missing a chance to regis- ter his second goal from the spot. The game was rougher than any previously played in the league and the efforts at clever combination passing suffered accordingly. The ball was in the air too often in the second half, whereas in the first 10 minutes everything worked accord- ing to plan.

s a result of their victory, the lans increased their points to e, which gives them undisputed dership. They will oppose the rman Sports Club in the next league match Tuesday evening. The Germans thus far have played three tie games and are undefeated.

Field conditions were close to perfect and the weather was cool nough for very vigorous soccer. pace was unusually fast.

THOMPSON AND CORBETT SOUGHT FOR TITLE GO BY COAST PROMOTER

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—Although Dick Dunn, Detroit promoter, claims to have Young Jack Thompson, welterweight champion, tied up for his next title match, Ancil Hoffman, San Francisco promoter, who is seeking to sign the Negro with Young Corbett here, still appears to be in the running. Hoffman telegraphed the Associated Press yesterday that he is negotiating with Ray Alvis of Chicago, manager of Thompson, for a title fight in the fall. Hoffman said Alvis was asking for $25,000 for a nontitle bout with Corbett, but he (Hoffman) considered "such terms out of the question and ridiculous," inasmuch as Corbett already holds two decisions over Thompson.

Harold Hayden, high hurdle star, is out with a torn ligament in the knee; Ed Schulze, 440-yard point winner, is still nursing injuries suffered during the Illinois relays; Dale Letts, one of the best middle distance runners in the Big Ten, was severely spiked during the triangular meet with Purdue and Indiana last Saturday, while "Buck" Weaver, star Maroon shot putter, has been declared ineligible.

TWO-THIRDS OF STATION PLAZA SITE ACQUIRED

Property Either Purchased or Arranged for at Cost of $1,698,612.

Purchase has been completed or is being negotiated by the city of two-thirds of the property in the two city blocks constituting Aloe Plaza, opposite Union Station. The city has arranged for ownership of 740 front feet out of the 1104 feet frontage on Market and Chestnut streets, between Eighteenth and Twentieth streets, at a cost of $1,698,612.

Assistant Comptroller Cunningham, who is seeking to acquire the remaining 364 front feet, thinks total cost of the property will be about $2,400,000. So far, the city paid prices fixed by commissioners in the pending condemnation suit, without waiting for completion of that proceeding. Total damages for the two blocks fixed by the commissioners were $2,447,125.

The 1923 bond issue provided $2,600,000 for this plaza, and it has been proposed that the balance of about $200,000 in the bond item, augmented by funds from the street widening item, be used, if a legal way can be found, for carrying out construction work on the plaza.

Included in the total owned or being bought by the city are two pieces, occupied by stores and hotels, for which appropriations were approved yesterday by the Citizens' Bond Issue Supervisory Committee. They are at 1909-11 and 1917-29½ Market street, with aggregate frontage of 186 feet and depth of 73 feet. The price is $270,800, compared with assessed valuation of $173,020. The purchase is from the Rudolph Realty Co. An important portion of Aloe Plaza which the city has not acquired yet is the northwest corner of Eighteenth and Market streets.

The supervisory committee also approved purchase for $14,800 from the Mellon Realty Co. of a 40x150-foot lot at 102-06 South Fifteenth street, occupied by old dwellings. The assessment is $6800. This is part of the Memorial Plaza site in the section to be used for the Municipal Auditorium.

UNDERSLUNG AERIAL TESTED FOR POLICE AUTO RADIO

It Consists of Brass Plate/ Bolted to Cross Boards of Car.

Detective Sergeant Everett Fischer, in charge of radio installation for the Police Department, reported he made a successful test of a new underslung aerial for police automobiles last night.

After riding in a police car equipped with the new aerial in a territory bounded by Kingshighway boulevard, Hodiamont avenue, Delmar boulevard and Cote Brilliante avenue, he said he was "more than enthusiastic" with reception from the station of Wells Shapin, 1428 Blackstone avenue. Shapin used a low-frequency wave and power of 10 watts, whereas the police will use 250 watts.

The new aerial, a thin plate of brass bolted to weatherproof cross boards under the automobile, may be installed at an estimated cost of $1.50 against $10.50 for installation of the overhead aerials heretofore contemplated. The overhead aerial necessitated removal of part of the top of a car in order to string a mesh wire under the roof.

NAVY'S GENERAL BOARD OPPOSES CRUISER CLAUSE OF LONDON PACT

Admiral Bristol Tells Senators at Hearing Treaty Violates American Policy as to 6-Inch and 8-Inch Gun Types.

REED AND ROBINSON DEFEND COVENANT

Former Points Out Differences Simmer Down to Arming of Three Ships—"Yardstick Called Mere Camouflage."

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 16. — The engagement over the London naval treaty raged furiously today in the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, with spokesmen of the Navy's general board asserting that the treaty "repudiated and violated" a long-established American naval policy and Senators Reed (Rep.), Pennsylvania, and Robinson (Dem.), Arkansas, warmly defending it.

Out in the open against the pact, the general board, through its chairman, Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol, formerly in command of the American fleet in Far Eastern waters and formerly American High Commissioner at Constantinople, told the committee that the division of the cruiser category into two classes of eight-inch gun and six-inch gun ships imposed "unfair and unjust restrictions" on the United States.

Admiral Bristol was supported by Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, retired, one of the American naval advisers at London, who appeared before the committee for the second time.

At yesterday's session, where the opposition of the general board first became vocal, the foes of the treaty went practically unanswered. Today both Robinson and Reed, who were members of the American delegation at London, fired telling broadsides on behalf of the covenant.

LaFollette Makes a Move.

Near the end of the hearing, while the veteran Jones was on the stand, young Senator LaFollette, Progressive Republican of Wisconsin, anticipating the ratification of the treaty, shrewdly laid the ground for the attack that his group will make upon the execution of the full building program permitted under it.

Admiral Jones had repeated and emphasized his testimony of the previous day that, if the United States accepted the cruiser building schedules laid down in the treaty, it would come into the 1935 conference in a "frozen position" from which there would be no escape except through raising the permitted tonnage total. This would be due to the fact that much of our tonnage would be tied up in comparatively new six-inch gun ships —a type of vessel which Admiral Jones and the general board assert is not suited to the needs of the American Navy.

Britain, on the contrary, said the Admiral, would save some 86,000 tons of cruisers coming of replacement age within a year or so after 1935, and hence would be able to make readjustments to meet changed conditions.

"In view of what you have said about our being 'frozen,'" quizzed LaFollette, "do you believe we would be in a better position if we didn't build up to the limit permitted?" "Yes, sir," replied the Admiral.

To another question by La Follette, he replied that he would favor the building of only five of the eight or nine six-inch gun cruisers that may be built under the treaty. (We already have 70,500 tons in this type of vessel and the treaty allows us to build an additional 73,000 tons.)

"Would it not be an embarrassment to the United States at the conference of 1935," pursued La Follette, "to have to ask for an increase in the total tonnage in order to free ourselves from the position you have described?"

Admiral Jones replied that, in view of the stand of the United States for naval limitation, he would hate to see the country in a situation where it would have to make a request.

Sharp Examination of Reed.

In a sharp examination of Admiral Bristol, Senator Reed developed the fact that, last September, while the preparation for the London conference was going forward between President Hoo-

Protests Filed by 33 Nations Against Increase in Pending Hawley-Smoot Tariff Bill

Retaliatory Duties Imposed by America's Best Customers That Bought 90 Per Cent of United States Exports in 1929.

THIS is the last of a series of articles analyzing the rates of the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill:

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—No previous tariff bill has aroused so many protests from foreign nations or provoked such sweeping retaliatory tariffs against American goods on the part of our best customers as the Hawley-Smoot bill, still in conference.

This is the conclusion reached by experts in the departments of State and Commerce and in the United States Tariff Commission who have been studying the effect of the pending tariff bill on our foreign trade.

The reports of these experts, which are now in the hands of President Hoover and members of the Senate, clearly show:

(1) Up to May 12 protests against the increased rates carried in the pending bill had been filed by 33 nations. These include Canada, Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Australia and the leading countries of South America purchasing more than 90 per cent of American goods exported in 1929.

Retaliatory Tariffs Passed.

(2) Our best customers among the 33 nations filing protests against the pending bill have already retaliated with increased tariffs aimed at American goods. Canada, Australia, France and Germany have erected the highest tariff walls in their history while the Hawley-Smoot bill has been awaiting action in Congress.

(3) While automobiles, farm machinery, typewriters and sewing machines, among our leading exports, are singled out for increased duties in the retaliatory tariffs adopted by foreign countries, the farmer is the hardest hit of all American exporters. The new tariffs adopted by foreign countries on food staples will tend to exclude American farm products from many countries now purchasing wheat, corn, barley, meats and condensed milk in large quantities.

A report published a few days ago by the Department of Commerce shows that the United States exported $5,241,000,000 worth of goods last year, while imports during 1929 totaled $4,400,000,000. The great bulk of this foreign trade was carried on with the 33 nations which have filed protests against the pending Hawley-Smoot bill.

In a report issued May 10, the Department of Commerce disclosed that during the first three months of 1930, American exports had declined $290,000,000 as compared with exports for the corresponding period last year. Unless this decline is checked, it is estimated that American exports during the present year will show a slump of more than $1,000,000,000 below the total for 1929.

Trade Balance Less Favorable.

Imports during the first three months of 1930 have declined $229,000,000, showing a less favorable trade balance for this country than at this time last year.

In the face of these figures, it is conceded that the pending Hawley-Smoot bill levies increased duties on goods produced abroad, many of which cannot be raised or manufactured in this country, and all tending further to restrict American foreign trade.

Within the last 90 days three of the principal consumers of American goods—Canada, Australia, and Germany—have announced tariff increases which bear most heavily on farm products while operating against manufacturers of this country which are on an export basis.

On Feb. 11, Germany imposed duties of $1.03 on wheat, $2 on wheat flour, 97 cents on rye, 86 cents on oats and 97 cents on barley per 100 pounds of each commodity. These food staples enjoyed free entry into Germany until the passage of the Fordney-McCumber tariff act of 1922, which provoked retaliatory duties. Italy, France and other European countries have joined Germany in levying increased duties on farm products until Great Britain, the Netherlands and Denmark remain the only large consumers of American wheat, corn, oats and other food products in Europe.

Endangers Farm Exports.

All economists agree that the increased duties against our farm products adopted by Germany, France and other countries are certain to have an immediate and unfavorable effect on agriculture in this country.

Australia put a new tariff system into effect April 4, placing drastic restrictions upon foreign trade in products which have been exported in large volume from the United States to that country.

Last year American exports to Australia were valued at $150,000,000 and imports to the United States from Australia at only $31,900,000.

The new Australian tariff law authorizes the Minister of Foreign Trade and Commerce to place a complete embargo on a long list of imports, including canned meats, powdered milk, farm machinery, structural shapes, cutlery and sanitary ware.

The Australian tariff duties have been increased on a second class of goods by 50 per cent, including furniture, prepared paints and varnishes, pianos, talking machines, cameras, leather manufactures and boots and shoes.

Automobile bodies, automobile parts, assembled chassis and motorcycles are subject to specific duties averaging 50 per cent above the present level of Australian tariff duties.

The principal American exports to Australia last year came under the head of automotive products, and were valued at $37,000,000 or more than the total value of all Australian imports of all classes into the United States.

Canada's Countervailing Duties.

Canada is the most recent foreign country to announce new import duties affecting American export trade. In 1929, Canada was our best customer, purchasing $948,500,000 worth of American goods and exporting $504,300,000 to the United States.

Early this month, Canada announced a new system of countervailing duties which will automatically subject American imports into Canada to the same rates of duty carried in the pending Hawley-Smoot bill, in every case in which the American rate exceeds the Canadian rate. In addition, Canada has greatly extended the free list to give preferential treatment to British made goods. Canada has been one of our most profitable foreign markets for automobiles, motor trucks, typewriters, farm machinery, iron and steel and other manufactured products, as well as for wheat, corn, rye, barley and fruits.

One of the few countries which has not filed a protest against the Hawley-Smoot bill is Argentina, one of our best customers. This may arise from the fact that Argentina's diplomatic post at Washington is at present vacant. This country was by all odds our best customer in South America in 1929, importing American goods worth $210,300,000 as against $117,600,000 exported to the United States. The pending Hawley-Smoot bill greatly increases the tariff duties on Argentina's principal exports to this country, including corn, meat and casein, without netting any substantial benefit in prices to the American farmer.

MISSOURI EXPORTS HIT BY RETALIATORY DUTIES PENDING BILL PROVOKED

MISSOURI ranks twenty-fifth among the 48 states in the volume of exports to foreign countries. The United States Department of Commerce in its latest official report covering American exports by origin of states credited Missouri with exports aggregating $39,370,696 in value.

Among Missouri products which will be affected by tariff duties recently enacted by Canada, Australia, Germany, Italy, France and other countries in retaliation against the pending Hawley-Smoot bill are the following:

GERMANY TO RESTRICT SALE OF SPIRITUOUS LIQUOR JULY 1

Reichstag, However, Leaves Enforcement of Law to Discretion of Local Authorities.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, May 16.—The step toward temperance taken by the German Reichstag, placing a few mild restrictions on the sale of spirituous liquor, will go into effect July 1.

The new saloon act forbids the sale of liquor after 1 a. m. or on pay days or election days, but enforcement is left to the discretion of the local authorities. One definite provision forbids the sale of alcoholic beverages at juvenile sports meets and similar gatherings.

Carts Carrying Liquor to Retail Stores Stoned by Nationalists—Police Fire Buckshot.

By the Associated Press.

BOMBAY, India, May 16.—Announcement was made today in Liberal quarters of an early expected government move for negotiations with Mahatma Gandhi, civil disobedience prisoner. A Government meeting at Bombay and a secret session of the all-India Congress, held simultaneously, presaged decisive action in some direction, it was declared, before the weekend.

While these reports were going abroad, Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, successor of the Mahatma and Abbas Tyabji, was arrested early today for attempting a salt raid at Dharasana and shortly afterward set at liberty.

Mrs. Naidu and her band of volunteers had sat in the road outside the village since yesterday forenoon, when halted by police. Some of her followers were detained after her release.

Fight Later at Salt Pans.

One hundred civil resistance volunteers caught the police off guard this evening, rushed the Dharasana salt pans and engaged in a fight with officers. Nine volunteers were injured. The raid took place after Mrs. Naidu had left the scene.

These volunteers had attempted to supply Mrs. Naidu and her followers with food and water. The police previously had spread a carpet for Mrs. Naidu and furnished her with bedding. It also appears the police supplied her with food.

Violent rioting occurred late yesterday at My Mensingh, Bengal, where about 90 persons were injured. The clash occurred over delivery of liquor and herbs used to make liquor from the Government depot to retail shops. Carts with armed guards were stoned by civil disobedience volunteers. Police fired buckshot when the disturbers became violent. The district Magistrate was hurt as was the Superintendent of Police. One officer, four noncommissioned officers and 28 Constables were injured.

Sholapur Mills Reopen.

Sholapur advices say all mills in that large textile community reopened this forenoon without incident. Shops throughout the city, which is still under martial law, are reopening. Ten more arrests were made, including four persons charged with being ringleaders in the recent riots in which 20 persons were killed.

The War Cocuncil of the Bombay all-India Congress instructed its volunteers minutely how they must conduct the proposed raid on the Wadala salt works Sunday. A general invitation to the public to participate was extended.

Mrs. Kamaladevi Chattopadhyaya, sister-in-law of Mrs. Naidu, was arrested for her activity in the civil disobedience campaign. The arrest was made under provisions of the salt act and the penal code. She was sentenced to nine months' and two weeks' simple imprisonment.

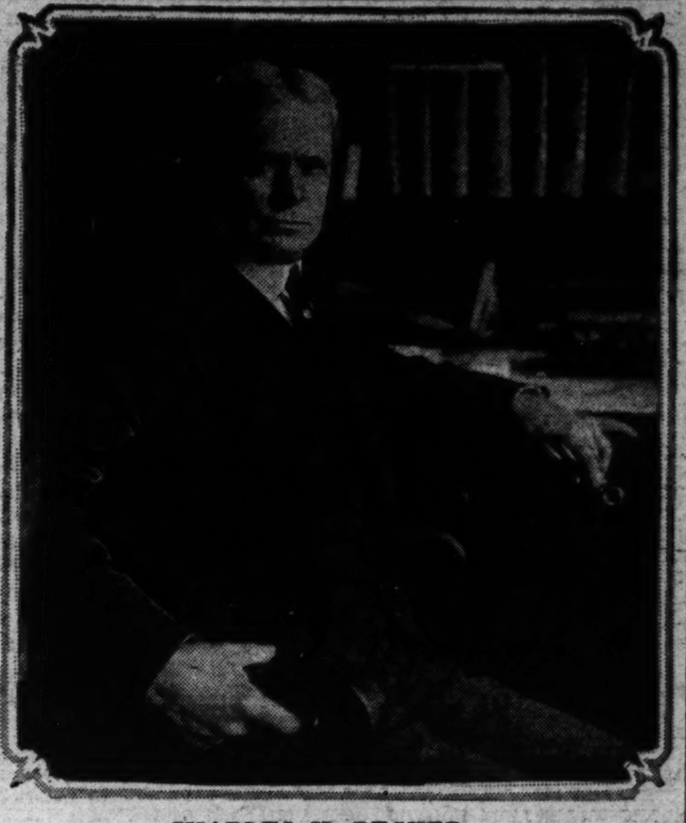
DUNCAN, Ok., May 16.—Mrs. W. A. Williams today was appointed Sheriff of Stephens County, succeeding her husband, who died Tuesday from wounds suffered in a pistol fight with four brothers suspected of a filling station robbery. She immediately reappointed the entire staff of deputies.

Secretary of State Becker Long In Political Limelight of Missouri

In Control of Patronage That Amounts to More Than $750,000 a Year He Has Made Himself a Real Power in Legislative Affairs.

Successfully Led Jobholders in Blocking Budget Reforms — Much Talked of for Governor Until Disclosures Developed in Young Brothers' Crash.



CHARLES U. BECKER.

Secretary of State Charles U. Becker, whose answer to criticism following the collapse of the brokerage house of W. H. Young & Bros., Inc., when operating under a license from his department, included his extraordinary order of questioned legality for an investigation of all other brokerage houses in the State has been a potent figure in Missouri official life for a decade.

Becker, skilled in politics, has entrenched himself in power in Jefferson City and to date has been unbeatable when he sought office, notwithstanding that throughout his political career he has been on the defensive many times because of the frequency with which he has mixed official and private business. He has enjoyed the support of a large part of the rural Republican newspapers as a result of grants of public printing. The distribution of this printing first directed public attention to the political profit the Secretary of State was deriving from the bestowal of official favor. More recently there came to attention his action in placing State employes in the St. Louis and Kansas City offices of the Pioneer Automobile Service Co., of which he is a director, to issue license plates to automobile owners who at the same time were solicited by high pressure salesmen of the Pioneer Company to buy membership in that organization at $29.50 each.

Once Wrote Paper-Back Novels.

Becker did not come to Statewide attention in politics until he was about 50 years old. He now is 61.

He was in turn school teacher, newspaper reporter and author of hair-raising paper-back novels such as were in vogue among the youth of the country 25 or 30 years ago. It is said he produced a novel a week for several years, keeping at that work until the demand for that type of fiction petered out. However, he has continued his writing, and from time to time has contributed to magazines, among his latest productions being an article entitled, "Grafters I Have Met," published in Plain Talk. His principal recreation is fishing, in which he is both an expert and an authority.

Becker's first political experience was in 1914, when he was elected to the Legislature from Polk County and re-elected in 1916 and 1918. There was nothing unusual in his record in so far as legislation went, but he became known as a shrewd manipulator, his hand being recognizable but difficult to follow in numerous situations of political and legislative finesse. His corncob pipe became a legislative institution, and it was said that if one wanted to know in which committee room Becker would be found it was only necessary to sniff the air of the corridors of the legislative floor. However, he abandoned the pipe several years ago.

Got State Job When Legislator.

One of the Legislatures of which he was a member expanded the State Highway Department, and Becker became its chief clerk at a salary of $1800 a year. There was some legal question about his eligibility the law providing that no member of the Legislature should be eligible to an office during the term for which he was elected. An Attorney-General, however, held that it was a job, not an office. Becker was taking and that the law did not apply to him.

By this time, 1920, Becker had learned his way about the Capitol and the office of Secretary of State became attractive to hom. He sought the nomination, winning with a plurality of 14,000, and in the Republican landslide year won in the election, with a plurality of more than 150,000. He was re-elected in 1924, leading his ticket, and elected the third time in 1928, again leading the State ticket.

Of all offices in the Capitol, there is none with patronage possibilities equaling that of the Secretary of State, except that of Governor. It was a good patronage job when Becker took it in January, 1921, and from time to time the Legislature has increased its possibilities.

Patronage in His Hands.

In addition to being custodian of State records, which was the original purpose of the office, but which has become the least of the duties of the Secretary of State, he has charge of licensing all the automobiles in the State, with the accompanying duties of licensing chauffeurs and issuing certificates of title to automobile owners; granting of charters to all corporations formed in the State, and administering the blue-sky law. Virtually all State printing comes under his control, including the State printing contract for books, blanks, etc., and the publication in one or more newspapers in each county of the constitutional amendments and initiative and referendum proposals submitted to the voters each State election.

Under his direction is expended more than $750,000 a year for salaries, for automobile license plates and for printing and paper.

Perquisites Pick Up.

Some 50 years ago the salary of the Secretary of State was fixed at $3000 a year, salaries of other State officers, except the Governor, being fixed at the same figure. Notwithstanding the ridiculous incongruity of the figure it never has been found possible to get it advanced by direct methods, though by indirection it has been brought up to from $4500 to $4700 a year. As a member of the State Board of Equalization, each State officer receives $5 a day for each meeting he attends. Through many years the board has found that it could attend to all the business in from 40 to 70 days, but during the administration of Gov. Baker the financial possibilities were seen and taken advantage of. In 1925 there were 155 meetings. In 1926 the number jumped to 170, in 1927 to 240, but in 1928 it dropped off to 225. With the advent of Gov. Caulfield, however, a different atmosphere prevailed about those matters in which the Governor had a hand, and last year all the business of the board was transacted at 52 meetings. There was another change in the system. It had been the custom for the board to show every member in attendance at every meeting of the board. Since Caulfield has been in office, the record shows the attendance only of those who actually are there.

As a member of the Board of Permanent Seat of Government, which has supervision of the capitol grounds and buildings, Becker and each of the other officers receives $1200 a year. He is not a member of the State Fund Commission, of which other State officials are members, and for which they receive additional compensation.

Gained Political Power.

As Secretary of State Becker gradually became a recognized influence in Missouri politics, until by the time the last Legislature convened he wielded a power equal to or exceeding that of any other person in legislative affairs. He was in a position to get from the Legislature almost anything he wanted in the way of legislation or to cause the defeat of bills which threatened to take from him official machinery which had proved valuable in campaigns.

In building up his political strength Becker has relied largely on rural legislators. He has used patronage quite freely and, the Senate, being Democratic, he has not confined his patronage favors to Republicans, sons and ardent supporters of some Democratic Senators finding their ways onto Becker's offiical payroll. He has given jobs to many Democrats and in most instances the Democrat favored has been a power in a strong Democratic community, or closely associated with a Democraic Senator.

His Method Under Fire.

Though under fire many times because of his activities, Becker rarely gives attention to criticism of his official actions. Almost invariably his defense consists of an attack on those who have incurred his displeasure—attacks of a character calculated to arouse to his defense the rural sections of the State.

When the Associated Industries sought legislaition which would create a budget system and a State purchasing department, and eliminate at least part of the enormous waste in the State government, Becker, leading the job-holding forces at the capitol, had little to say in defense of the administrative methods. Instead he launched an attack on the Associated Industries which he denounced as "big business" attempting to escape taxation and seeking to put all the taxes on the land of the farmer.

How He Won Part of Rural Press.

That part of the rural press which enjoyed his printing published his vehement attacks with approval. When the Young Bros.' collapse came a few months after Becker's Securities Commissioner, Stockard, had refused to act on complaints of the Better Business Bureau, Becker had little to say about the record of his department in the matter. His defense was a denunciation of the Better Business Bureau, the Associated Industries and the metropolitan newspapers.

The patronage-favored newspapers gave much space to his statement, and in addition, many of them published denunciatory editorials prepared by Becker's personal press bureau.

The story of Becker and the part of the rural Republican press which he has lined up through printing patronage has been published and should be fairly well known over the State. Briefly, it is this: Under the law all constitutional amendment and initiative and referendum proposals submitted to a vote in State elections are required to be printed in one newspaper in each county in the State five times. The law authorizes a maximum payment of an average of 60 cents a column inch for each insertion. It has been shown from time to time that this price is in excess of the regular advertising rate of most of the papers to which the printing is given, and attempts have been made to force Becker to submit the printing to bids and to accept the lowest bid.

Invariably he has refused. The

TRYING TO AVOID ANOTHER VOTE ON TARIFF IN HOUSE

Senate Conferees Must Find Way to Report Conference Action on Debenture and Flexible Plan.

SHOWDOWN LIKELY ON FLOOR MONDAY

Representatives of Upper Chamber Seek Free Hand in Negotiating Settlement of Disputes.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The showdown on the debenture and legislative flexible tariff provisions promised in the Senate late today was postponed, probably until next week, when the tariff bill conferees reached an impasse on how to get the bill back to the Senate.

Senator Smoot (Rep.), Utah, said after the conference that the question still to be decided was how the bill could be returned to the Senate for action without forcing another House vote on provisions in disagreement.

The Senate conferees must decide this matter for themselves as the House managers are unwilling to negotiate further until the Senate gives its conferees a free hand to work out an adjustment over the flexible and debenture clauses.

A charge that the House Republican conferees do not care to have the tariff bill passed was made in the Senate later by Senator Simmons, a Democratic conferee.

Smoot was being questioned at the time as to how and when the bill was to be reported back to the Senate. Smoot said the bill probably would be brought up in the Senate Monday, that the House conferees had refused to negotiate further until the Senate freed its conferees of pledges not to abandon the debenture and legislative flexible provisions, and that it remained for the Senate conferees to decide the method of reporting back.

Charges Obstinacy in House.

"The majority conferees of the Senate have kept faith to abide by their promises," Simmons said, "but I do feel that the conferees of the other branch have been rather obstinate. * * * "Their action indicates they do not care to have this bill passed."

Senator Harrison (Dem.), Mississippi, also charged that "certain Republicans who were enthusiastic for this bill have heard from the country and now are trying to kill it."

"I don't know who the Senator refers to," replied Smoot.

"I know it isn't the Senator from Utah because he's the only one for it," the Mississippian came back.

A resolution asking the Senate to relieve its conferees from promises not to abandon the debenture and legislative flexible provisions was introduced by Smoot, who said he would bring it up Monday.

Rejection Will Kill Measure.

Congressional leaders are convinced that rejection by the Senate of its conferees' request could only have the result of killing the tariff bill, the product of 16 months of work.

The move of the Republican conferees was opposed by the leaders of the Democrats and of the

The Four Horsemen Cartoon.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN spite of the fact that man is considered a reasoning animal, the most powerful method of influencing human behavior is suggestion. The newspapers, realizing this and making use of it, are powerful agents in the work of law observation in any community.

A picture appeared in the Literary Digest of May 10, with the caption "Peddling rattlesnakes to children would do less harm, we are told, than bootleggers were about to do by peddling this million dollars' worth of opiates when seized."

This is quite a contrary view to that of Mr. Fitzpatrick with his cartoon, "The Four Horsemen of the American Apocalypse." Does the Post-Dispatch uphold white slavery; stealing of automobiles and running into another state; ruining of health with dope; or ruining their health, their respect and handicapping their offspring through the use of liquor?

Is it surprising, with such literature in the hands of people, that St. Louis should lead the country in crime? Ten times as much crime as New York and over twice the crime of Chicago, the city we regarded as the goal of corruption.

Favors Cochran's Re-election.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

YOUR editorial under caption, "John J. Cochran's Candidacy," is a worthy tribute to one of the greatest Representatives that ever served the Eleventh District in Congress, recalling such members as the brilliant and aggressive John J. O'Neill, Henry S. Caulfield, our present and capable Governor, Charles F. Joy, John T. Hunt, Pat Gill and Harry B. Hawes. Congressman Cochran deserves to be returned to Congress for a final and farewell term, when the district he so faithfully served with honor and distinction passes on. And when the old Eleventh District is only a memory of the past he will be remembered by his old constituents, regardless of party, as a faithful and honest representative of the people. Charlie Has Overlooked the Postoffice.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

MR. BECKER is to be commended for his timely and energetic action in the way of investigating the St. Louis investment houses, and it is with a little hesitation that I am writing this letter as I fear it may be construed as a slight criticism of Mr. Becker, and this is very far from my thought.

I believe, however, that it will occur to many as well as to myself that Mr. Becker, being as wide awake as he is to the possible existence of irrgularities and actuated by a consuming zeal to protect the public from any and all questionable investments, should have included the Postoffice in the list of those into whose activities he is now inquiring. Stamps are being sold daily right here in St. Louis to thousands of unsuspecting investors. Have the Postoffice officials complied with the requirements of the blue sky law?

The question may cause a little uneasiness but there is reassurance in the thought that it is only necessary to mention the matter in order to insure a complete sifting of the institution from top to bottom by our competent Secretary of State.

METHUSALEH B. YOUNG.

St. Louis and the Board of Children's Guardians.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS is a high-powered city, at least in most respects. The Mayor has his 16-cylinder Cadillac, paid for out of city revenue. The Zoo has Jonah, its 16-cylinder sea elephant, paid for out of city revenue. In fact, the only one-cylinder affair we have in St. Louis seems to be our Board of Children's Guardians, whose rock-bottom request was cut down some $14,000, to a figure that is only a small fraction of what other cities are spending on their widows and orphans.

Now I like Cadillacs and sea elephants, and I wish I could afford a couple myself. But they cost $6000 and $7500, respectively, not counting the upkeep, which on the latter item is said to be about a bushel of fish a day. Plenty of St. Louis widows and children don't get meat or fish even once a week, and they never ride in a Cadillac. If the city would be a little generous with them, too, it would not need to stand near the bottom of the list in child care, as it does now.

I am aware that a definite portion of the city revenue is earmarked for the Zoo. That makes for a fine Zoo and we are all proud of it. Some of us are prouder of our Zoo than of our Mayor. But why can't we be proud of our healthy boys and girls by earmarking something for them too, or at least giving them a decent appropriation? If the city's finances are in such a deplorable state that we must make a sacrifice somewhere, why not think twice before we make that sacrifice in terms of human welfare? MILDRED PRICE.

BACK TO HOME RULE!

Refusal of the Missouri Supreme Court to order the Missouri Public Service Commission to take jurisdiction over St. Louis busses is a victory for home rule. The commission had refused to accept jurisdiction. The busses operate under permits and have no franchise from the city. As the Post-Dispatch has often explained, it is the franchise that gives the State commission control over fares and service, both of which the city can control by sticking to permits.

It was for this reason that we have opposed all the franchise proposals advanced by the people who seek to exploit the local street railway system. Every one of those proposals would have continued State control over fares and service, whereas under the permit system the city can control both. It has complete control over busses. It can agree with the bus companies upon fares and service. The street railway company, which is also in the bus business, asked the Missouri Public Service Commission to take control over the busses. That is, the company wanted to get the busses out of the control of the city. The commission refused. It was then that the company asked the Supreme Court to mandamus the commission, something the court refuses to do.

Meanwhile, the Missouri Supreme Court, on the same day, gave Kansas City a valuable lesson in this difficult matter of vested rights. The Jake Newman outfit, which holds the St. Louis railways, also owns the street railways in Kansas City. Kansas City swallowed a "service-at-cost" franchise bait in the guileless belief that under such a franchise she would retain control over fares and service. She therefore agreed with the company upon an 8-cent fare, and when the company went to the State commission and got that fare increased to 10 cents, Kansas City took her case to the Supreme Court. She is in consequence a sadder but wiser city. The court holds that the State commission has full control over fares and service, despite the franchise provisions to the contrary. It is therefore unable to give Kansas City any relief. She has made her bed, and she must lie in it. There was no one to warn Kansas City that in granting such a franchise she was giving away control over her streets for the next 30 years and sacrificing her own power to regulate fares and service. She has had to find that out in the bitter school of experience.

St. Louis, fortunately, is in no such plight. The Mayor and 27 of the 28 members of the Board of Aldermen have publicly declared for home rule. As long as they stand by that public declaration they will not grant any franchise whatsoever to the street railway company, or to any bus company, or to anyone who seeks to gain a vested right to the use of the streets. The franchises of the street railway company have some years to run. When they expire the city can control street car fares and service exactly as she now controls fares and service on the busses.

Back to home rule!

MEETING ROYALTY.

Four hundred debutantes, including eight American girls, were formally presented at the British court the other night. But the young women would be unwise to expect their carefully rehearsed calls to be returned. Neither will their telephones ever ring with an invitation to drop in for Sunday supper at Buckingham Palace or to hurry over and make a fourth at bridge with the King, the Queen and the Prince. The introductions were thorough as many from which lifelong friendships develop in private life, but they didn't add the introduced to the Windsor "set." Then why did these debutantes hire tutors in court etiquette, practice their curtseys for hours and spend an average of $2000 each with costumers?

Simply because the ceremony adds a little aura to the debutante, surrounds her with something of the reflected glamour for which Britons support their court. The ordinary plug citizen is able similarly to raise himself in his friends' esteem if he can mention off hand that he once was in the crowd when Lindbergh took off, that he has a baseball autographed by Babe Ruth, or that he once saw a movie star eating lunch. Meeting royalty is just another act in humanity's passing show.

THE HARRIS IMMIGRATION BILL.

The Harris immigration bill, which has just passed the Senate, places Mexico, of all Central and South American countries, on a quota basis. Mexican immigration, now unlimited, would be restricted to an estimated total of 1500 persons a year. Last year approximately 40,000 Mexicans entered, as against 59,000 in 1928 and 67,000 in 1927. This year, it is believed, the influx will be further decreased by the inauguration of public works and formation of new industries in Mexico for which much labor is needed.

A movement for restricting immigration from countries of the Western Hemisphere, including Canada, has been agitated for some years. It has the indorsement of the Ku Klux Klan and other groups of professional Nordics which, ignoring the vast contributions to American greatness of immigrating peoples, would lock our doors forever, especially against those who do not speak our language.

The Harris bill is the abortive result of this movement. Originally, it placed all Central and South American countries under quota restriction. As amended it singles out Mexico, and thereby defeats its own purposes, since, if passed, it will stimulate the importation of cheap laborers from other countries of a quality not comparable with Mexican Indians. The latter are employed extensively in the West and South, performing hard, grinding labor in cotton and sugar beet fields, and serving as railroad section hands.

Chairman Legge of the Farm Board thinks Mexican restriction would be a great mistake and would cause a serious labor shortage in the agricultural Southwest. In this he is joined by such farm organizations as the Arizona Cotton Growers' Association, which are dependent upon Mexican labor.

Passage of the Harris bill would be a serious blow to our relations with Mexico, only recently smoothed out by the fine diplomacy of Ambassador Morrow. It would be a slap in the face of a sister Republic with whose future we are vitally concerned, commercially, industrially and every other way. Mexico is already a rich market for our products and will become increasingly so as it shakes off the effect of 400 years of feudalism. There is an ironic aspect, too, in barring Mexicans from entering the very states in the Southwest originally settled by them and with which they have the closest ties of blood and tradition.

We trust the House will kill the Harris bill and, in case it fails to do so, that Mr. Hoover will veto it.

MR. MORROW'S COURAGEOUS EXAMPLE.

In coming out for repeal of the eighteenth amendment in his candidacy for the United States senatorship from New Jersey, Mr. Dwight W. Morrow has set a courageous example to men in the public life of the United States.

Mr. Morrow points out that to modify the Volstead act would not be to take the police officers of the Federal Government out of the states, which is the weakness of the present system. He therefore stands squarely for removal of the root of the trouble, which is the Federal Government's invasion of the police powers of the states, an invasion which has demoralized and confused a system of government that had been effective for 150 years. Nor does Mr. Morrow despair of removing the root of the trouble. He reminds us that the Constitution of the United States has been amended four times within the last 20 years, and he says it can be amended again.

The effect of such honesty and courage ought to be salutary. It should disgust the people with the cowardice of those public men who are afraid to speak out on this great issue. Mr. Morrow sees the situation clearly. National prohibition is a Government problem. By inflicting upon the people in every village and town, and in every part of the country, laws which have not their consent, national prohibition has paralyzed the political progress of the United States, and the country cannot go forward again in any respect until this all-pervading issue is settled.

If Mr. Coolidge had been, or if Mr. Hoover were equally willing to put the welfare of the country before his personal political fortunes, the United States would not now be in the plight of needing such a heroic example as Mr. Morrow has set.

AN INVITATION TO THE INTELLIGENCER.

The Edwardsville (Ill.) Intelligencer is cheered by figures of Grover Whalen, New York's Police Commissioner, purporting to show that St. Louis leads all American cities in percentage of crimes of violence. Compared with St. Louis, it thinks "poor little Madison County," on which metropolitan newspapers are "continually hopping," is a paragon of law and order. Madison County has its Bow-wow McQuillans, its dog tracks, its craps and roulette layouts, but the Intelligencer thinks nothing has happened in Madison County to equal the Ferguson-McKinney scandal, for which no one was punished.

No doubt a sense of charity caused it to omit mention of the Young brothers, the unsolved murders of Joe Mogler, Dr. Dillon and Glenn Hicks, the Night and Day Bank failure, the bellboy killing for which Murderer Rutherford escaped with the payment of a $500 fine, activities of Egan and Cuckoo gangsters, and various other blots on St. Louis' record.

The Intelligencer, however, need not have listed but one item in the long indictment of St. Louis' wickedness. Its criticism is welcomed and if it ever discovers that St. Louis law officers have sold out to gambling house proprietors, dog track operators, or anyone else, we trust it will divulge the fact in the raciest idiom at its command.

THE FOUR HORSEMEN.

Apropos our cartoon of Monday, "The Four Horsemen of the American Apocalypse," a reader asks in the Letter Column today if we uphold white slavery, stealing automobiles and running them into another state, the use of dope and excessive drinking of liquor.

The answer is that we do not. Nor do we believe we are making any headway against these evils by sending the Federal Government into the field against them. Upon the contrary, we have only overcrowded the prisons and jails. Temperance did better under state control. So did the regulation of narcotics. State laws are quite enough to deal with automobile thefts, as they are also sufficient to deal with the white slave traffic. The Mann act too easily lends itself to blackmail and the Dyer law is complained of all over the country for making felonies of joyrides and sending to the penitentiary boys who are more mischievous than criminal. When we put the Federal Government into these fields, it came in conflict with the states. The result has been that the power of the states has been either impaired or destroyed. Five states which were making progress in temperance have withdrawn from this field altogether since the Federal Government invaded them to keep people from drinking. There are 10 times as many drug addicts under Federal law as there were under state laws.

It is not morally that we differ from our reader, but psychologically. The United States has taken the wrong paths to ends which we all desire. It has, by making Leviathan of the Federal Government and pygmy of the state, brought laws into disrepute, demoralized the people, filled the land with bootleggers and dope peddlers, and overcrowded the prisons and jails.

INCONSIDERATE MR. OUGHTON.

For being so inconsiderate as to have on his person only $11, James Oughton, 69 years old, was struck on the head with an iron pipe by one of two robbers. Something should be done about this situation. Robbery is an arduous pursuit, involving great risks and yielding a pitifully small return. Those venturesome spirits who engage in it, although taught from their cradles that the game does not pay, are nevertheless willing to risk life, limb and freedom. In the case of Mr. Oughton, the reward was a paltry $11, and the outraged practitioner loosed a fit of temperamental fury and wielded his weapon.

Prospective victims of highwaymen should carry an ample supply of currency on their persons. This should be placed in various pockets, so that search will yield the robber a series of pleasant surprises, such as children have when hunting Easter eggs. Liberty bonds and other negotiable securities also contribute to the joy of a robber's life. They should be placed in the inside coat pocket when going for a walk. Diamond rings and watches should be worn conspicuously and yielded gracefully. Thus equipped, a citizen is reasonably free of the fear of skull fracture, besides contributing to the happy pursuit of an ancient profession.

IT'S THE CONSUMER WHO PAYS, AND PAYS, AND PAYS.

How the New World Bank Will Work

Primarily designed to handle German reparations, Bank for International Settlements will keep payments out of politics; to stabilize relations between Reich and nations it owes; will be useful in making economic adjustments; Owen Young warns that U. S., world's chief creditor, cannot remain isolated if problems are to be solved.

From an Address by Owen D. Young at the University of California.

THE most striking feature of the new (Young) plan is the Bank of International Settlements. That institution is unlike anything which has existed before.

Obligations are to be delivered by Germany of $9,000,000,000 approximately, payable over a period of nearly 60 years, in fixed annual installments. As these obligations mature, vast sums must be paid over the frontiers and translated into the currencies of other countries. Who should hold these obligations and control the transfers?

Should they be put in the hands of political treasuries of more than a dozen nations, where, in case of slight difficulties, they might become the football of domestic or international politics? Even more dangerous would it be to have them become the trading medium in all kinds of international negotiations.

Should they be left where Germany, if she chose, might default in the payments to one power and continue those to another? Should they be left where these transfers in political hands might become a menace to the world's normal economic exchanges?

No, it was quite apparent, in the interest of all, creditor and debtor alike, that these obligations of Germany should be held and the payments managed by a single organization for the account and benefit of all. Any default by Germany must be a common default for all creditors. Any moratorium must be a common moratorium. Therefore, it seemed to our committee necessary to mobilize the German obligations in single hands.

For that purpose the Bank for International Settlements was created. Any difficulties in German payments must be between Germany and the bank. The bank should be, as far as possible, insulated from politics, both domestic and international, and be free from Government domination and control. To accomplish this, the charter and by-laws of the bank were established by international treaty and evidenced by a protocol signed at The Hague, on Jan. 20 of this year. Corporate entity is to come into existence by an act of the Legislature of Switzerland, where the bank is to be.

The capital of the bank is to be $100,000,000, and its stock is to be sold in the principal countries of the world. Its directorate is to consist principally of the governors of the central banks of Europe, or their nominees, America having declined to participate.

The earning power of the bank is to come from small commissions on reparation payments, and certain deposits from governmental treasuries provided in the plan. The endeavor has been made, in the interest of the world, to eliminate politics from the control of reparation payments, and from the machinery which will handle them. The bank is to be truly the insulator between the political treasuries of the creditor powers and their debtor, Germany.

The bank is in no sense a super-bank. It cannot operate in any country in which the central bank of that country objects. It cannot issue demand notes in any form, and therefore there is no danger of an international currency.

It may be used as a clearing house by central banks to the extent which they may elect. This lies in the future. But there is no question in my mind that some such development will come if the diminishing supply of gold in the world threatens a general deflation in the price level. The proper handling of price stability is one of the most important matters facing the capitalistic system today. In it will be found the roots of those maladjustments which result in the unequal and unfair distribution of wealth, in unemployment and other problems.

The bank may turn out to be an essential and useful piece of machinery for an economic world which of necessity is becoming more and more closely integrated. Politics become dangerous on a stage so small unless economics function well. Fortunately, the bank has the power of growth, but it will grow only as our needs compel it. It is the servant of all and the master of none.

Nothing is clearer, from the experience of the last 10 years, than the necessity of keeping our economic machinery, and especially our finance, free from the domination and control of politics. That seems to me one great lesson which we have learned. I do not mean that the struggle of politics to control economics is ended. It is going on in every country, and will continue.

But what about the relationship of economics to politics in international co-operation? My answer is this: Economic integration of the world is a necessary pre-requisite to effective political co-operation in the world. America, as the greatest creditor nation, is more interested than any other in economic integration. It is inevitable that from an economic point of view she take an interest in and be concerned in the material problems and affairs of every country.

Isolation to America, either economic or political, is quite impossible. The material development of countries will necessarily be to us a matter of great concern, both from an idealistic and practical point of view.

Let no man think that the living standards of America can be permanently maintained at a measurably higher level than those of the other civilized countries. Either we shall lift theirs to ours or they will drag ours down to theirs. Tariffs and other petty political barriers, temporarily justifiable, will, in the long run, only accentuate the trouble.

America is too rich to be loved. She is well enough off to be envied. The attitude of the world toward her will be largely influenced by her spirit. If it be one of selfishness in isolation, she will have failed in her great responsibilities. If it be one of boastfulness in her success, she will have misused the things which God has given her.

I pray for sober and sensible responsibility in this America we love, a spirit of gratitude for the things we have, a spirit of friendliness and helpfulness and co-operation for all, a spirit of restraint in the use of any power which has been intrusted to us, and most of all, restraint in speech.

Mr. Coolidge at the Alamo.

From the Independent Oil and Mining Reporter, Fort Worth, Tex.

TEXAS got a shock not long ago and San Antonio specifically a blow that will require a long time for complete recovery.

It happened at San Antonio, at the Alamo, the sacred shrine at which all good Texans worship; the mecca of travelers who go with reverence, stand with awe and come away ennobled and better citizens.

Calvin Coolidge, traveling from California to Massachusetts, was the guest of the State, probably unofficially, but the Governor and other dignitaries were there.

When the sun had risen in golden glory, touching the hilltops of Medina, with ruby rays turning the mauve mists on the lake to rosy wraiths, and jocund morn beckoned, the high dignitaries called to escort the former President to the scene of the greatness of Texas, the historical spot where brave Americans had died in most heroic manner that their country should be free, the Alamo of imperishable fame and historical honor.

Arrived at the Alamo, great throngs stood uncovered. Ushered quietly in to the soft light of the interior, the Governor and others stood awaiting the impression that should be made.

"What's this?" asked Mr. Coolidge, glancing about. "I thought we were going somewhere to breakfast."

Gov. Moody, shocked, gasped, regained enough composure to say, "This, Mr. President, is the Alamo."

Glancing about again Mr. Coolidge asked: "What was it built for?"

It was a terrible moment. We hope the historical painter was not present. We hope posterity may be spared the look on faces at that terrible scene.

Are Ballplayers Crazy?

From the Washington Post.

FOR 16 years Louis R. Gemmett, 71-year-old baseball fan of Davenport, Ia., has been waging a single-handed campaign to have all baseball players adjudged insane. There should be two pitchers in the box at all times, he says, either of whom would be allowed to hurl the ball without first signaling the batter. The purpose of the pitcher is to deceive the batter, and team managers are crazy if they think one pitcher can fool the batter as well as could two.

It is crazy to call a game on account of rain. There should be a canopy suspended from balloons over every field so that play could go on no matter what the weather. In these and other respects the game of baseball is crazy, says Lou Gemmett.

Maybe Lou Gemmett is right. But it also seems rather crazy that 18 perspiring young men should be able to hold several thousand spectators spellbound by chasing a little white sphere around a carefully kept pasture. It seems rather crazy that the public should spend millions of its hard-earned cash for the privilege of sitting in uncomfortable metal seats on steaming hot summer afternoons while one team desperately strives to make runs and the other tries to keep runs from being made.

The lunacy is not confined to the players. Lou Gemmett makes his mistake in petitioning that the participants in the game be put out of the way. Who doesn't like to go crazy now and then for an afternoon of baseball? Where could Lou Gemmett hope to find a judge who isn't crazy enough to believe that baseball players are no crazier than the rest of us?

"Of Making Many Books"

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

SKYWAYS. By Gen. William Mitchell. (J. B. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia, $3.)

GEN. WILLIAM MITCHELL will be remembered by most readers for his outspoken criticism of the War and Navy departments five years ago, as a result of which he was tried by courtmartial and sentenced to suspension from service for five years and forfeiture of all pay and all allowances. The sentence was sustained by President Coolidge, but modified by allowance of half pay. Whereupon the General resigned from the service, and since then he has devoted his time to the study of aviation in various parts of the world and to lecturing on the need for revision of aviation legislation. The substance of his criticism was to the effect that the aviation service was woefully mismanaged by the Navy and War departments and that the supreme importance of aircraft in future wars was either not understood or wilfully ignored. It was pretty generally felt at the time that the critic was probably right.

Although the present volume by General Mitchell covers all phases of aviation, that which chiefly distinguishes it from other works on the subject is the author's insistence upon the supreme value of aviation in war and our country's backwardness in developing that arm of military power. "We hear a great deal these, days," he says, "about the necessity for navies and what they can do. Navies have never been anything except an auxiliary of armies in the role of controlling comunications across water. A boat is one of the most vulnerable objects known for aircraft attack." Thereupon he sets forth in detail the various means by which aircraft can destroy naval vessels with ease. Even the value of airplane carriers, he contends, is "largely mythical." "These," he adds, "are some of the reasons why people in all countries are advocating an agreement on naval disarmament."

After discussing the air power of the various great nations, the General says: "All over the world aviation is taking its place as a major activity of the governments, organized in each into a department by itself, which is on an equal basis with any other government department, and with a minister or Cabinet member at its head. In all these countries it is more popular than the old army or navy service. The only great country in which this condition does not exist is the United States. Here the air activities are distributed between the War Department, Navy, Commerce, Treasury and Postoffice departments and other organizations, political or financial, that want to use aviation as a football. It is a disgraceful condition to contemplate. America should lead the world in the air, and very easily can under an intelligent and educated leadership; but nothing can be hoped for until a Department of Aviation is established."

ONE WOMAN'S WAR. Anonymous. (Macaulay, New York City. $2.50.)

Another diary of another wild woman on the rampage among the doughboys "over there." A very "civilized" book with lots of "living" in it.

THE BRIDGE. By Hart Crane. (Horace Liveright, New York City. $2.50.)

Hart Crane is the author of "White Buildings," a volume of verse which appeared four years ago. The present work, also verse, seems to represent a tremendous effort to be vatic and profound and titanically impressive at all costs. It is the sort of thing that readily imposes upon a certain type of distinctly urban mentality with no conception of fundamental human values. When the urge to "write poetry" reaches this stage it is more vanity and pretense than anything else, and the product is no more vital than any other form of attitudinizing.

FLASH D 13. By Victor K. Kaledin. (Coward McCann, New York. $2.50.)

The author, a member of a powerful Cossack family, was an agent of the Russian secret service prior to the Revolution of 1917, and here he has set forth the adventures that befell him while acting in that capacity. Aside from its interest as a thriller, the book (if true, as it well may be) should be of value for its revelation of the crimes and follies of European officialdom before the World War.

DON'T CALL IT LOVE. By Inez Sabastian. (Macaulay, New York City.)

The story of an American girl who set her heart upon capturing a millionaire and breaking into smart society. The scene shifts from New York to the Bahamas, to Paris. The author is a newspaper woman, apparently well acquainted with the stratum of society under consideration. She is convinced that the much lauded new generation of girls, far from being more idealistic than the old, has become far more mercenary and that there are less genuine love marriages now than formerly.

THE MATERIALS OF LIFE. By T. R. Parsons. (W. W. Nortom & Co., New York City. $3.00.)

This is said to be the first popular presentation of the science of biochemistry, that is, the chemistry of the life process, especially as it relates to human beings. Technical terms are used as little as possible and when used are carefully explained. The author's intention was to put at the service of the general public for practical use in everyday living what biochemists have learned about the human body and its welfare.

9 MORE AMERICAN WOMEN PRESENTED AT BUCKINGHAM

Mrs. Clark Howell of Atlanta, Ga., an Outstanding Figure in Group.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 16.—In the royal pomp and pageantry of London's second court of the season, nine American women curtseyed last night to King George and Queen Mary. The American women, seven of whom were matrons, were part of a bevy of 400 court debutantes.

Buckingham Palace for the second successive evening presented a scene of splendid color and sumptuousness. Queen Mary chose a gown of heavy silver chiffon lame for the occasion, with an overdress of pale peach chiffon, embroidered with pearl silver. Her train was of peach and silver brocade. High on her head gleamed a tiara of pearls and diamonds. On her breast shone the Order of the Garter and other jeweled orders.

King George was clad in the scarlet of Colonel-in-Chief of the famous Coldstream Guards.

Among the American women presented, Mrs. Clark Howell of Atlanta, Ga., was an outstanding figure. She wore a pink moire gown, delicately embroidered with rhinestones, with a graceful circular skirt of uneven hemline. Her train, also of moire, was lined with silver cloth. She carried a pink and silver feather fan.

Miss Carley Robinson of Louisville, Ky., wore a white romain crepe gown designed on classic lines and had a train of turquoise blue velvet.

The other American women presented were: Mrs. Louis Burguiere of California, Mrs. Hoke Smith of Georgia, Mrs. John K. Davis of Ohio, Miss Doris Duke of Durham, N. C., Mrs. Robert Appleton of New York, Mrs. Robert P. Scrips of Ridgefield, Conn., and Mrs. David C. Hanbrahan.

MAKES YALE HONOR SOCIETY

Ethan A. Hitchcock, St. Louis, Elected to Scroll and Key.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 16.—Ethan Allen Hitchcock, St. Louis, a junior at Yale, was elected to Scroll and Key, one of Yale's four senior societies, at Tap-day ceremonies here yesterday.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Hitchcock, 5363 Waterman avenue, and a graduate of St. Louis Country Day School.

SPRING FLOWER SHOW OPENS FOR THREE DAYS

St. Louis Horticultural Society Displays in Famous-Barr Exhibition Room.

In a profusion of color and perfume and with a group of contestants whose exhibits and knowledge of floriculture belie their classification as amateur growers, the second annual spring flower show of the St. Louis Horticultural Society opened yesterday afternoon, in the exhibition room of the Famous-Barr Co. store. It will continue through today and tomorrow.

Hundreds of peonies, red, pink and white, and iris, pricipally the German iris, in shades of purple and blue and white, occupy the principal space in the amateur show itself. Huge silken Oriental poppies, with stems the length of an arm and as big around as a lead pencil, contrast with small bowls of pansies in which each blossom seems to have been set with surgical instruments. There are spikes of drooping foxglove, African and shasta daisies, feathery Japanese iris, small Spanish and Siberian iris, one exhibit of scarlet Bougainvillea, covered with paper-like bracts, and wistaria, peculiarly out of place with the supporting elegance of a trellis.

The prevailing odor of the show is that of peonies, which are by far the most numerous flowers there, even as pink and varying shades into red are the principal color tones.

A Hydrangea Garden.

Especially striking is the exhibit of Camille de Wever's French hydrangeas in the center of the room, a miniature garden with 200 or more potted pink flowers built around a center of glossy-leaved shrubs and evergreens. The production of so many pink flowers is the more exceptional, when a slight change in chemical content of the soil makes the flowers blue.

More than 50 varieties of flowers are blended in the exhibit of the Wilbur Nursery Co., at one end of the room. The Kruse Floral Co. has a garden window display of ferns, geraniums, and gladioluses; Goswin H. Gerner, landscape gardener, a rock garden with radiance roses, shasta daisies, gaillardia, and Boston ivy; Shaw's Garden, a large display of hydrangeas, cornflowers, lupine and daisies. Both the exhibit of the Palmer Seed Co. and the display of L. Baumann contain the viola cornuta, or "Jersey gem" violet, a large, new purple variety. The Missouri Dahlia Farms, a large exhibitor at the fall shows, has an arrangement of gaillardia and roses. Peat-moss, saturated with water, is used to keep the flowers growing in their natural state.

Awards to Amateurs.

Awards to amateur winners yesterday included silver trophies to Mrs. E. H. Thurston for the best dining room arrangement of flowers; Mrs. S. W. Fordyce, best living room arrangement; Mrs. H. T. Sapper, luncheon table exhibit; J. Bates Goerner, display of mixed peonies; Mrs. F. W. A. Vesper, window box; Mrs. E. B. Conant, collection of peonies; Mrs. Morton J. May, delphinium, and Mrs. Fordyce, collection of Oriental poppies.

Winners in the peony class were Mrs. E. H. Angert, J. Bates Goerner, Mrs. E. B. Conant and E. F. Nolte. Those who received blue ribbons for iris were Mrs. I. A. Stevens, Mrs. O. K. Bovard, George and Margaret Smith, Mrs. F. Z. Salomon and Mrs. H. M. Bixby.

Prizes for other flowers cut in bloom, in a general class of annuals and perennials, went to Mrs. Morton J. May, Mrs. E. H. Angert, Mrs. F. Z. Salomon, Mrs. C. M. Rice, Miss Bernice Nulsen, Mrs. A. J. Rodgers, Miss Lily Buder, George and Margaret Smith, Mary Broderick, Pauline Lusthandt, Fannie C. Barnhardt, Helen Schleuter, Mrs. W. C. Gadsby, Mrs. A. W. Shapleigh, Mrs. J. F. Williams, Miss Ida Ruffer, J. Bates Goerner, R. E. Dewey, Mrs. William Schumann and William Weber.

A special merit prize was awarded to John Henneman, 19 years old, whose model miniature garden, requiring two years to build, was a center of attention in the show.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 16.

THOUGHTS while strolling: Who remembers when women had secret pockets in their skirts? And gates closed automatically by buckets of rocks tied to chains? Chief Long Lance, author, man-about-town and monocle wearer. Midgets usually puff big cigars.

Floyd Gibbons, a Washington, D. C., boy, who made good in the city. Italians who wear bright orange ties and yellow topped shoes. Wops, my dear! Pauline Lord and her husband Obie Winters. Elizabeth Peacock, the interior decorator. And a swell name for one. What happened to near-beer jokes?

Those haughty, stiff-necked doormen who will talk about their children at the slightest excuse. Carolyn Wells, a best selling mystery writer from Rahway, N. J. Edward Bernays, the "public relations counsel" and nephew of Freud. The vegetable odors around a public market.

A two-cent dance hall. Preston Sturgis, who authored "Strictly Dishonorable." And Brock Pemberton who produced it. Restaurants featuring free lessons by bridge experts. Helen Kane and Winnie Lightner are slim again. Never see anyone pale over receipt of a telegram anymore.

Phillip Merrivale's chin. A "Shave Shoppe." Lucien Boomer, the hotel man. A gentleman gives a sudden start, looks at his watch and sets off on a run. Somewhere a wife is tapping her foot. Joseph Hergesheimer idling before an antique window. Those flashily dressed women so conscious of beauty and sex.

The steady stream at the postal money order windows—sending money back home. Penrhyn Stanlaws could easily pose for a collar ad. So could Aubrey Eads. Banners proclaim an oyster eating contest. And even the thought makes me squeamish. The Odd Shoppe.

A window of drowsy puppies with noses buried in paws. William Hodge is white-haired. A flapper gives a taxi driver a light from her patented lighter—and skips the gutter into a speakeasy.

A NEAT description overheard at a lunch table: "He is a motion picture director making his first picture, so you can imagine what he's like.

ON SATURDAY in New York it is a custom for important men of affairs to take their sons to lunch at some popular restaurant. It is about the only time they are able to bestow the parental touch. Youth no longer buries a toe in the carpet, fumbles with hands or turns red to the ears in presence of elders. Neither is there annoying brashness. The modern boy is more self-possessed than the young man of 25 was 20 years ago.

WHEN I was 16 and mostly knuckles, teeth and ears, it was a high adventure to drive to town at sun-up in the spring wagon. In the office of a business man the other day, his 15-year-old son entered, shook hands warmly and after a little small talk, departed with: "Take care of yourself, Dad." He was sailing that midnight alone to London to join his mother. He might have been going to New Rochelle for the week-end.

ON THE other hand, nothing is so exasperating as those "wonder kiddies" on stage and screen. Their amazing sang froid itches up the smacking hand.

FIFTH avenue is one of the blase boulevards of the world, yet a fluffy kitten in a joyous frolic with itself in a window mirror near Fiftieth street this morning brought the entire block to a dead halt.

BUT the biggest giggle was inspired by a portly matron who barged into the gathering and lifting a lorgnette inquired: "Whatever is askew?" The dear dowager seemed perturbed—fearfully.

THE first Mrs. Sinclair Lewis, since her divorce, has turned to writing and has appeared prominently in many magazines under her pen name, Grace Hegger Lewis.

"IF IT would not extend your hatband," writes a lady from a Washington, D. C., private school, "we could tell you about a fine compliment paid you in a class here."

Please do. I'm a sucker for trade lasts.

C. U. Becker, Politician, Writer and Fisherman

Rev. John Fugel, publisher of a small paper in Maries County, on several occasions formally offered to do the printing for a fraction of the sum paid by Becker to another newspaper publisher in the county, but Becker refused to give it to him. Fugel brought a court action, but the court upheld Becker's discretionary power in the matter.

In some counties where Becker had more than one newspaper supporter the printing has gone to two or more papers, but they have been compelled to split the payment, the law authorizing the payment to only one paper in a county. In counties where there are no Republican newspapers. Becker has gained Democratic friends by his selection of a paper.

This has meant that in almost every county in the State Becker has one newspaper which will publish any matter he sends to it, and that there may be no doubt about Becker publicity going out he maintains a press bureau in his office.

Using Auto License Bureau.

In addition to his available free rural newspaper space for personal publicity purposes during campaigns, Becker has taken advantage of such other avenues as presented themselves, notably the list of automobile owners in the State. Approximately 700,000 automobiles are licensed in Missouri each year, and each of the owners receives from the Secretary of State a receipt for the license fee he has paid. When Becker was a candidate in 1928 he enclosed with this receipt two or three of his campaign cards. He was thus able to get his cards into the hands of nearly 700,000 persons without expense for postage or distribution, a method which would cost any other candidate approximately $10,000 for postage alone. But Becker was able to enclose them in State-paid-for envelopes stamped with State-paid-for stamps. His explanation was that the postage was no greater than if the cards had not been enclosed.

Placing Auto License Funds.

Becker's system of handling the funds received from automobile licenses, and his personal business relations with some banks in which he has deposited the license funds attracted some attention several years ago. The general funds of the State are deposited in banks officially selected by the State Fund Commission after bids for interest are received, the Commission letting the funds to the banks making the highest bids and which deposit as security for them bonds which are approved. The funds derived from the sale of automobile licenses, certificates of ownership and chauffeurs' licenses amount to approximately $8,000,000 a year.

Becker established the practice several years ago of selecting his own depositories for automobile funds, leaving them in these banks for from a few weeks to several months before he turned them over to the State Treasurer. He collected a maximum of 2 per cent interest, though the State Treasurer received more than 3 per cent.

This practice did not attract attention until some of the banks holding the funds were closed. The Citizens' Security Bank of Englewood, which closed Aug. 7, 1926, had on deposit $25,013 placed in it by Becker. The Federal Trust Co. of Kansas City, which closed Nov. 12, 1926, had $12.50 and owed the State $1553 in interest, the amount of the deposit having been reduced from about $300,000 since earlier in the year. The Page Bank in St. Louis County had $45,579 of automobile funds when it closed May 7, 1927, and there was approximately $60,000 of such funds in the Farmers Trust Co. of Maryville when it closed April 8 of this year.

In the liquidation of these banks the money has been paid to the State, with the exception of the Maryville bank, which has not yet been liquidated. The Supreme Court held that such deposits were in the nature of trust funds and were to be paid ahead of the claims of other depositors.

"Illegally Deposited" Court Rules.

In the Page bank case the Court held that the funds were "illegally deposited" by Becker, as he had no authority under the law to make the deposits, the law requiring that such funds by promptly transmitted to the State Treasurer, where they would have drawn the higher rate of interest. Becker promptly fixed that at the 1927 session of the Legislature, obtaining the passage of an act authorizing him to deposit the funds in banks in towns in which he had branch offices until the registration records were completed.

It was disclosed in the Englewood Bank and Federal Trust Co. transactions that Becker had had indirect personal dealings at the time he was depositing the State funds. At that time Becker was president of the Missouri Press Publishing Co. of Excelsior Springs, Mo., which published the Missouri State Journal, a weekly paper of ambitious prospects but short life, designed to be a State-wide Republican propaganda medium. Soon after its organization it got into a bad way financially and needed to borrow money. When the Englewood Bank closed it was found it held notes of several individuals connected with Becker in the management of the publishing company. One of these borrowers, Ernest D. Wilson, had a note for $7500. He said at the time that he obtained the money for the publishing company after Becker had agreed that he would maintain a deposit of automobile funds of at least $10,000 regularly in the bank. Becker denied the truth of this statement, asserting that he had entered into no agreement.

Sued on Notes.

Among the notes in the Federal Trust Co. was one of the Missouri Press Publishing Co., for $18,840. It was signed by Becker as president of the company, and indorsed by Becker personally and by George T. McKenney, secretary of the company. The State Finance Commissioner more than a year ago filed a suit on this note in the Circuit Court of Jackson County, naming as defendants Becker, McKenney and the Publishing Co. The court, being behind with its docket, has not reached the case.

One of Becker's business connections is with the Pioneer Automobile Service Co., of which he is a director. For many years it had been the custom of the Automobile Club of Missouri to obtain licenses for its members, an arrangement permitting that service having been made with Becker. However, after Becker appeared as a director of the Pioneer, operated for profit, he withdrew the privilege from the Automobile Club and established branch license offices in the Pioneer's headquarters in St. Louis and Kansas City.

Mixing Business With Politics.

The Pioneer sells two-year membership sfor $29.50, and every automobile owner is a prospect." There have been statements by numerous persons that when they appeared at the Pioneer offices to obtain automobile licenses they were set upon by high-pressure salesmen who attempted to sell them memberships in the Pioneer, which in addition to promising road service, promised discount on gasoline, accessories and repairs, and which sold a type of automobile and liability insurance. In the Pioneer articles of incorporation Becker is shown to be the holder of 25 shares of its stock.

The Young Bros. crash was the latest to draw public attention to Becker. In connection with it there were discloseures that the Better Business Bureau of St. Louis had filed with Blue Sky Commissioner Stockard complaints against the brokerage house long before it failed, and had made repeated unsuccessful attempts to have the Secretary of State, under whose jurisdiction the Blue Sky Department is operated, revoke its license. Correspondence between Becker and W. H. Young, one of the partners, showing that Young had contributed $500 to Becker's campaign fund and that Becker had expressed appreciation for the gift, came to light. There were letters showing that Young Bros. had retained Attorney-General Shartel, a fellow official with Becker, to represent them, and had paid him $3000, the correspondence revealing a close connection between the Youngs and officials in Jefferson City.

As a result of these disclosures Gov. Caulfield called upon Becker for a complete statement of the State Department's connection with the Young case.

With the exception of Becker's activities in the Young Bros. case and with the Pioneer Automobile Service Co., virtually all of the high lights of his career received public attention before his last election.

Until the Young Bros.' crash there was considerable talk of Becker for Governor in 1932, and informed politicians looked upon him as probably the strongest contender. Since then, however, the governorship talk has subsided.

Auto Manufacturer Hurt in Crash.

PROPOSES DIVIDING TEXAS INTO 5 STATES

Garner, Urging Plan, Cites Annexation Resolution Giving State Right.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Building.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Partition of Texas into five separate states was seriously advocated in a statement placed in the Congressional Record yesterday by Congressman John N. Garner of Texas, Democratic floor leader in the House. He declared that such a division could be accomplished by a mere act of the Texas Legislature, under the terms of the joint congressional resolution by which Texas was admitted to the Union in 1845.

His plea for the division was based on the following contentions: That it would give the Southwest increased representation in the national Government, especially in the Senate; that it would tend to improve local government, and that the area, population and divergent interests of Texas demand it.

Garner's novel suggestion was a distinct surprise to Washington. It was obvious that few officials were familiar with the peculiar terms on which Texas was admitted to the Union. The joint resolution for the annexation of Texas, originally an independent republic, provided that: "New states if convenient; i. e., not exceeding four in number, in addition to the said State of Texas, and having sufficient population, may hereafter, by consent of said state, be formed out of the territory thereof, which shall be entitled to admission under the provisions of the Federal Constitution."

On that subject the Federal Constitution provides that: "No new states shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other states . . . without the consent of the Legislature of the state concerned, as well as of Congress." Garner contends that in the case of Texas Congress gave its consent in the resolution of annexation, and that the consent of the Texas Legislation is all that is required to carry out such a division.

Cities of State Show Increase of 58 Per Cent; Jacksonville, Fla., 129,682; Bloomington, Ill., 30,833.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—Census figures reported by supervisors for cities above the 5000 rank indicate a 1930 population for California of about 5,500,000, a gain of more than 2,000,000 over 1920. The increase in cities so far reported has averaged 58.72 per cent.

Reports from 18 Northern California cities and 34 in the southern portion show a total increase of 817,293 persons in the last decade. The cities included accounted for only 39.9 per cent of the State's total population in the former census. If the rate of increase is maintained in the unreported territory, the State's 1930 population will reach or exceed the 5,500,000 mark.

Census figures just announced include the following:

Jacksonville, Fla., 129,682, increase 38,124, or 41.6 per cent.

Bloomington, Ill., 30,833, increase 2108, or 7 per cent.

Minot, N. D., 16,095, increase 5619, or 53.64 per cent.

Warren, O., 41,054, increase 14,004, or 51.7 per cent.

Pampa, Tex., 10,453, increase 9466, or 959 per cent.

If Weak, Tired, Nervous, Thin Build Up Body, Doctors' Way

New Yeast Plus Iron Strengthens Digestion, Appetite, Enriches Blood, Adds Weight

Combined in Pleasant, Easy-to-Take-Tablets

Doctors everywhere prescribe Yeast plus Iron for weak, thin, under-nourished, pale, run-down people; also for those who are nervous and sleepless; for those whose pale cheeks indicate poor, thin blood, or whose skin blemishes point to constipation.

Get them already combined in pleasant tablets of IRONIZED YEAST from any druggist. See how quickly they make you feel, look and act like a new person. Increase your weight.

Rich Red Blood, Good Digestion Build Weight, Health

It is not what you eat but what you digest that builds solid flesh and strength. Yeast increases your digestive powers. Then more of the food you eat is actually used by your body instead of so much of it being wasted.

Yeast also gives new keenness to poor appetite. But whether your appetite is good or poor, you need Yeast in order to increase digestion and gain weight and health.

Iron has been prescribed for generations by physicians to give rich red blood and strength. The newly enriched blood also performs its part in the building up process by taking more of the food you assimilate to the parts where it is needed. Thus Yeast and Iron work together to build you up. You must have BOTH to increase health, strength and flesh in the shortest possible time.

Doctors Praise Yeast and Iron

Doctors say the richest Yeast is brewers' Yeast, the kind used in malt and which makes malt so beneficial. This is the kind which is combined with Iron in IRONIZED YEAST. Far more effective, much quicker than unmedicated yeast. Here are a few extracts from reports of hundreds of leading physicians:

"Prescribe brewer's Yeast. Took it myself. It built me up. I gained 15 lbs."

"I prescribe Yeast for run-down condition, stomach disorders, skin disorders, constipation. Believe Yeast combined with Iron—IRONIZED YEAST—produces better results in most cases than Yeast alone."

"Yeast and Iron increase appetite, thereby increasing weight. Increase red blood."

"I have prescribed Yeast plus Iron with good results for increasing appetite and weight.

"IRONIZED YEAST should be a splendid combination for run-down conditions."

"Have prescribed Yeast combined with Iron. Great improvement in appetite, weight and general condition."

"My results in prescribing brewer's Yeast with Iron for loss of weight, for increasing the appetite, and as a general tonic, warrant my endorsing treatment."

Start Today to Build Up

The pleasant - tasting little IRONIZED YEAST tablets give you all the Yeast you need to build weight; all the Iron you need for rich red blood and strength.

If you are thin, weak, run-down, tired; if you are nervous or a poor sleeper; if appetite is weak and digestion poor; if you are constipated; if skin is blemished; if you have one or all of the above symptoms, get IRONIZED YEAST from your druggist today. Harmless; no gas or fullness; no "yeasty" taste.

CHURCHILL QUOTES STIMSON IN FIGHT ON NAVAL TREATY

Former Admiralty Head Cites His Testimony to Prove Agreement Means British Inferiority at Sea.

By ARTHUR E. MANN,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1930, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co. (The New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, May 16.—Secretary of State Stimson's defense before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday of the naval treaty negotiated at London was quoted in the House of Commons here yesterday by Winston Churchill, former First Lord of the Admiralty, who led the Tory attack on the treaty.

After reading from a London newspaper passages from Stimson's testimony, Churchill told the House: "Mr. Stimson said that in the battleship class the position could be turned into superiority for the United States if the United States modernized the vessels in her battle fleet. Mr. Stimson proceeded to say that the United States had secured some superiority in the eight-inch class of cruisers and had been successful in reducing British superiority in the six-inch gun class."

There appears every evidence that Parliament will ratify the pact. Former Premier David Lloyd George announced that the Liberals will support the treaty. Some opposition from Left Wing Laborites is anticipated, but will not be strong enough, it is anticipated, to block ratification.

MacDonald's Defense of Pact.

Debate was started by Prime Minister MacDonald in a long speech explaining and defending the treaty.

"I tell the House quite candidly," MacDonald said, "that if it had been necessary to increase the size of our fleet in order to get an agreement which would have ended competition it would be economy and wisdom for the time being to increase the size of the fleet rather than lose the opportunity of getting a certain standard set on which further negotiations could have been pursued. To halt that competition in building was worth a great sacrifice.

"We have succeeded as regards three Powers at any rate, in halting competition and we have also succeeded in getting from the other two Powers a declaration that they are going to consider the situation in which they find themselves with a decided and decisive determination to accommodate their building in future to the standardization that has been put in Part III of the London treaty (the section applying to Great Britain, the United States and Japan only). That is a very great achievement."

"In an international conference," MacDonald concluded, "we can fight as hard as we like but when the last word is said, it is a word of compromise and not the majestic will of one Power. There is no use magnifying what we have done nor is there any use minimizing it, but the conference has contributed something to the cause of peace."

Opening the attack for the Tories, Churchill criticized the treaty, first on the ground that it was not a natural successor to the Washington treaty, and secondly, that it was not a treaty of parity at all in the sense that Great Britain and the United States should be equal on the sea, but on the contrary, meant formal acceptance by Great Britain of definitely inferior sea power.

He created a storm of protest from Liberals and Laborites by reading the text of a confidential telegram of instruction sent by the late Lord Balfour, head of the British delegation at the Washington conference, in which Lloyd George told Balfour he must at all costs insist on no limit being placed on the number of vessels under 10,000 tons, "even at the cost of a complete rupture."

There were immediate protests from MacDonald and other Laborites and Liberals at this disclosure of what was characterized as a confidential cabinet document. Lloyd George reproached Churchill for not having consulted him in the matter.

KOHLER CLEARED BY JURY; JUDGE TO RULE ON OUSTER

Negative Answers Made to Questions Referring to Violation of Wisconsin Corrupt Practice Law.

EXCESSIVE PRIMARY EXPENSES CHARGED

Court Expected to Make Decision in Few Days—Prosecution to Appeal if Executive Is Upheld.

By the Associated Press.

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., May 16.—Exonerated of excessive campaign expenditures by a jury's special verdict, Gov. Walter J. Kohler today awaited the final decision in an ouster suit from Circuit Judge Gustave Gehrz.

A final decision on the charge that Kohler violated the State corrupt practices act by expending more than $4000 in his 1928 campaign will be given within a few days. The prosecution has indicated it will appeal if the final ruling sustains the Governor.

Concluding a trial that lasted 23 days, the jury last night returned negative answers to questions submitted to it under a ruling which indicated the jurors believed the Governor not guilty of the charges of entering a "corrupt bargain" with conservative Republican organizations and with his company, the Kohler Corporation, to expend more than $100,000 in behalf of his candidacy.

The jurors took but one ballot and were out about three hours. Judge Gehrz may accept the jury's answers or may rule against them and give a verdict of guilty. It is expected he will entertain motions from the State and rule upon them before giving his decision.

Basis of Questions.

The questions were based largely upon State testimony introduced to show that Kohler utilized resources of his $40,000,000 plumbing and electric manufacturing firm and that company officers acted as his direct agents to expend huge sums in his campaign. Phillip La Follette and other progressive Republican leaders charged that Kohler entertained thousands of voters at his model village, Kohler, Wis., with the intent of influencing their votes.

Kohler said he considered the verdict not only a personal vindication, but also one for the persons who nominated him and voted for him. When the jury reported, Kohler said, "I am deeply grateful to you for this verdict, clearing my reputation and the good name of my friends and family."

He shook hands with each of the jurors and then with the spectators who formed a reception line.

Governor Issues Statement.

Kohler later issued a statement in which he said it was a satisfaction to him that the "facts as to my candidacy and expenditures have been investigated and given wide publicity, enabling the people of the State to judge as to the merits of the political charges which have been continuously directed against me for almost two years."

The charges against Kohler were filed more than 15 months ago by Philip F. LaFollette and three others in the Progressive faction of the Republican Party. The Governor is a member of the rival Conservative faction.

1,251,164 BLIND IN 35 MOST CIVILIZED NATIONS OF WORLD

GENEVA, May 16.—The 35 most highly civilized countries of the world, with a combined population of a little less than a billion people, have, according to figures made public by the League of Nations, 1,251,164 recorded blind persons. These figures are contained in a report to the Child Welfare Committee by Dr. Estrid Hein of Denmark.

According to Dr. Hein's figures, Palestine and Egypt rank highest in blindness, the former with 16.6 per cent of its 900,000 population sightless, while in Egypt nearly 1.2 per cent of its 13,000,000 people are blind.

The League of Nations social section is continuing its inquiry to determine the best means for dealing with the question of rehabilitation and prevention of increase among the world's unfortunates.

Several of the world's most populous countries—India, China, Russia and Turkey—with a combined population exceeding another billion and a half are not included in the survey and their percentage of blind.

As a result of the League's investigations many countries are expected to take measures for the prevention of blindness at birth, the most recent discoveries in the medical world being placed at the disposal of the League's health section.

RED PLANS SEIZED IN RAIDS

By the Associated Press.

AMOY, China, May 16.—Foreign police tonight in a raid on three houses in the foreign settlement, seized documents indicating that the houses were headquarters of the Fukien Reds and probably the South China directing bureau of outlaw armies that have ravaged Fukien, Kiangsi and Kwangtung provinces for several months, looting, burning and massacring.

Among documents confiscated were Communist text books, lectures, pamphlets, posters and essays, all of Russian origin. They were being translated here into the Chinese language for distribution among the Chinese. Papers seized contained complete records and future plans of Reds in every part of Fukien province.

$75,000 Bonds Recovered.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 16.—Bonds valued at $75,000, identified as those stolen from the office of A. E. Brant, Chicago, broker, in March, 1929, were in the possession of the police today. Bonds worth $49,000 were recovered from a Los Angeles broker, who told police he got them from Miss Hilda White, 26 years old. The woman was arrested after 25 of the $1000 bonds were seized in her apartment.

NAVY GENERAL BOARD OPPOSES CRUISER CLAUSE OF TREATY

ver and Prime Minister MacDonald, the general board of the navy, in a memorandum to President Hoover, expressed its willingness to accept 21 cruisers of the eight-inch-gun type. With this tonnage of 210,000, plus the 70,500 tons now in the Omaha class, plus 35,000 tons of new six-inch gun cruisers, or a total of 315,500, the board, which is an advisory body made up of the highest ranking men of the navy, reported that the United States would have substantial parity with the proposed 339,000 cruiser total of Great Britain.

Admiral Bristol replied that the board really wanted 23 of the eight-inch-gun type and accepted the reduction to 21 as the "maximum concession" that might be made in order to get an agreement.

"And the London treaty," pursued Reed, "gives us 18 eight-inch-gun ships and 18 or 19 six-inch-gun ships, so that your objection comes down to the narrow fact that out of 36 ships, three of them are to be armed as Admiral Pratt recommended and not as you prefer."

The reference here was to Admiral William V. Pratt, commander-in-chief of the American fleet, head of the naval advisors at London, who has testified that the treaty suits him and that the six-inch-gun cruiser has merits not conceded to it by the Jones school of thought.

A Poser for the Admiral.

Reed's summary of the Jones-Bristol criticism of the treaty was something of a poser for the Admiral on the stand. He fell back on the reply that he objected to the principle of the thing.

"We said that under no circumstances should the United States go below 21 eight-inch-gun cruisers," Admiral Bristol added.

"The General Board," retorted Reed impatiently, "asked for a total cruiser tonnage of 315,500 and we come back with 323,500."

Bristol said the real point was how the cruisers were going to be utilized. He repeated that we needed the eight-inch-gun type for the protection of our commerce.

Reed replied that the treaty gave the United States the right to build six-inch-gun cruisers up to 10,000 tons each, with as great a cruising radius as the eight-inch-gun ships.

Bristol repeated that the preponderant opinion of American naval experts favored the eight-inch-gun cruiser.

Jones Back on the Stand.

Summoned back to the stand, Admiral Jones said that he agreed with the conclusions of the general board in its September report. He believed that its recommendations of that date, if carried out, would give a "sufficient approximation" to parity with Great Britain to warrant an agreement.

"The London treaty," said Reed, "falls short of the cruiser recommendations of the general board only in respect to the armament of three ships."

"But I consider that a vital point of difference," said Admiral Jones. "We agreed to take ships not suited to our needs in place of ships that are suited."

Reed said that the delegation's concession on this point was matched by concessions of the other Powers in the treaty. Jones stuck grimly to his guns. "In accepting a division of the cruiser category," he said, "we are violating the principle that we consistently maintained in all previous naval conferences."

Looks for "Freeze" in 1935.

"And the treaty, also," Reed countered, "violates the demand of the Japanese admirals for a large tonnage in submarines." He added that the net effect of the treaty with regard to Japan was to require Japan to stand still and let us build up and pass her.

Answering the argument to which Jones repeatedly returned—that the United States would be "frozen" in an undesirable position at the 1935 conference—the Pennsylvania Senator declared that the United States would be no more "frozen" than any other Power. Each Power, he said, would have a perfect right to assert its point of view at the new conference.

"We'll be frozen if we build up to 323,500 with 143,500 tons of it tied up in 6-inch gun cruisers," insisted the Admiral. "We'll come into the 1935 conference with a real navy instead of a paper navy," rejoined Reed.

"But with a large proportion in a type of ships that we don't want," objected Jones.

Robinson and the "Yardstock."

Senator Robinson took up the attack. His line of questioning indicated a desire to show that the general board had consistently taken an intransigeant position with regard to naval limitation efforts. Jones said that the board really wanted 23 eight-inch gun cruisers and had consented "reluctantly" to come down to 21.

Quoting from a hitherto secret memorandum of the general board to the President, Robinson showed that the board in the initial stages of the Hoover-MacDonald conversations asked for the full aggregate cruiser tonnage—339,000—which the British Admiralty had proposed for Great Britain, notwithstanding the fact that the board was seeking 21 eight-inch-gun ships in comparison with Britain's 15.

"I point to you," said Robinson, "that you are unwilling then to concede a ton on account of our superiority in eight-inch-gun vessels."

"When the President called your attention to this fact," continued Robinson, referring to the report in his hand, "and suggested that a yardstick be applied to the figures, didn't you say, 'Oh, yes, the yardstick is mere camouflage'."

Admiral Jones reddened at the mention of the famous "yardstick," which was first brought into naval discussion by Ambassador Gibson's speech, reflecting the administration views at Geneva last spring.

"Yes," replied the Admiral, "I referred to the yardstick several times as camouflage."

Robinson bore down hard on the fact that the general board, which is now finding fault with the six-inch gun cruiser, suggested last September, in its 339,000-ton proposal, that 58,000 tons be utilized in building that type of ship.

"I shall have a good deal to say about the general board when the treaty reaches the Senate," Robinson told reporters after the hearing. His manner indicated that his remarks would not be flattering.

Both the Foreign Relations Committee and the Naval Affairs Committee adjourned their hearings to Monday.

Dawes Coming for Conference With the President.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—President Hoover said today that Ambassador Dawes was returning to this country in connection with the Chicago World's Fair and that his trip had no connection with the naval treaty now before the Senate. Dawes was one of the delegates at the naval conference.

Loan Firm Officers Indicted.

WESTMINSTER, Md., May 16.—Search for 10 officials and employes of the Midland Building and Loan Association, charged with having defrauded investors of more than $75,000, was started today by officers armed with Carroll County indictments. Two months ago Attorney-General Robinson prohibited further sale of the stock in the association, which has headquarters at Baltimore. He said that at the time $108,000 had been invested in the association, formed last year, and there was less than $25,000 in tangible assets.

MAUDE ADAMS' RETURN TO STAGE AGAIN ANNOUNCED

New York Producers Say Actress, in Retirement 12 Years, Will Appear in Comedy.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 16.—Maude Adams' intention to return to the stage was announced once more yesterday. Erlanger Enterprises gave out the statement that she would appear in September "in a modern comedy now in process of completion by a well-known American playwright."

Miss Adams retired from the stage 12 years ago when she was taken ill on tour in Barrie's "A Kiss for Cinderella." She is said to be in the West at present.

Miss Adams was lifted to stardom in 1892, when she made a great success as John Drew's leading lady in "The Masked Ball." She is now in her fifty-eighth year, but those who have seen her lately say she looks hardly more than 30.

TARIFF CONFEREES IN SENATE FACE VEXING PROBLEM

Independent Republicans, but while the former were confident of mustering a majority, the latter were not so certain. Regular Republican leaders are frankly worried.

The amendment, together with the export debenture plan which is also in dispute, were written into the bill by the Democratic-Independent Republican coalition last fall when it concededly was in control of the tariff bill in the Senate.

Plane Crash Inquiry Bill Passed.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The Senate today adopted the Bratton resolution to request the Secretary of Commerce for information on the causes of airplane accidents since May 20, 1926.

Tin Cans Went to Sea! A Strange Discovery Voyage

Carnation
MILK
Carnation
MILK

©1930, C. Co.

A NARRATIVE BY Mary Blake

BATTERED and buffeted by hurricanes, blistered by tropic suns, chilled by icy northers roaring down from Bering Sea, tumbled about by long Pacific rollers, and jostled in the dark hold of a sailing vessel, first by lumber, salmon and American manufactured articles and later by bales of silk and great straw-cased hampers of tea—such was the strange experience of two cases of well-filled bright tin cans on one of the strangest voyages of discovery our modern world has ever heard about.

This was years ago when square-riggers might yet be found in the harbors of the seven seas. Evaporated Milk was just coming into use, and it was evaporated milk of a brand destined to be a household word in every land that made this queer jaunt across the broad Pacific.

These cases left Seattle, crossed the thousands of miles to Yokohama where junks and sampans of the Orient rubbed elbows with lordly liners and dirty-keeled tramps, and back again to the pier at Seattle. And all to prove an idea!

E. A. Stuart, founder of the present great Carnation Company, had just built a small evaporated milk plant near Seattle. He was proud of the product he made there.

Yet even before the people of his own community knew of the goodness and value of this brand-new form of milk, his farsighted vision took in the world market. He saw millions on millions of people in all walks of life in both hemispheres who should have the boon of rich milk of high quality where no cows were available.

But how to prove that his evaporated milk could travel, stand varied temperatures and climatic changes, and arrive pure and "ready to serve" no matter how remote its destination? That was a problem.

One day, at the wharves in Seattle, the solution came. A sailing vessel was shipping cargo for the Orient. Stuart told his story to the captain who took to the idea immediately.

"I'll help you," he exclaimed. "Send your cases aboard and back they'll come—some time." Back they did come, after weary months, every bit of the packaged milk in perfect condition.

This strange voyage of discovery demonstrated that pure, unsweetened evaporated milk can go anywhere and keep indefinitely. Today whole shiploads of Carnation Milk leave the condenseries, with the complete confidence of shipper and consignee, thanks to the strange Odyssey of the two wandering cases three decades ago.

More remarkable, though, than this discovery have been the facts which recent years have disclosed about Carnation Milk—which is simply pure whole milk evaporated to double richness. It has been found that its extra richness saves greatly on the use of butter and cream; that its "homogenization"—which means simply that the cream is broken up into fine particles and distributed throughout the milk—gives a velvety smoothness of texture which even the best of bottled milk cannot give; that its uniform quality makes for cooking success; that its convenience is unequaled by any other form of milk; and now, most recently of all, that it is an especially good form of milk for bottle babies, because of its finer cream particles and uniformity.

If you are not using Carnation Milk, or if you are using it only in a limited way for certain special dishes which it enriches and improves in texture, you owe it to yourself to broaden its use to all your cookery. Why not send for the Carnation Cook Book and Baby-Feeding Book? They are free. Address Carnation Company, 100 Carnation Bldg., Oconomowoc, Wisconsin.

Season with one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, one-half teaspoon paprika and two tablespoons tomato catsup. Add the sardines, reheat to the boiling point and pour over thin slices of toast or toasted crackers.

Nut Cake.

A delicate white cake enriched with nut meats is made according to this recipe: Use one cup butter, one cup sugar, one-half cup milk, two cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, cup walnut meats cut in small pieces, whites of three eggs, one teaspoon vanilla extract and a few grains salt.

Cream butter; add sugar; add flour sifted with baking powder alternately with the milk. Add walnut meats dusted with one tablespoon of flour and vanilla and last fold in the slightly beaten egg whites with the salt. Bake in a square pan in a slow oven for one hour. Cover with boiled icing and decorate with halves of walnut meats.

Frozen Chocolate Pudding.

Melt four squares of unsweetened chocoalte over hot water. Then stir in one-half cup of sugar and one-half cup milk, stir constantly until thoroughly blended and smooth. Remove from the fire and cool.

Beat four egg yolks until thick and creamy, add the chocolate mixture gradually, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs, two teaspoons vanilla and one cup of cream whipped stiff. Pour into individual molds or into the freezing pan of the refrigerator.

Freeze for four hours in the refrigerator or pack in molds in equal parts of finely cracked ice and ice cream salt and freeze for two hours.

Grape Juice Grapefruit.

Cut grapefruit in halves. With a sharp knife loosen the grapefruit around the edge. Then separate each section of the fruit from the skin, cutting from the center towards the edge. With a pair of shears cut loose the base of the tough center and lift ont, leaving only the fruit in the shell. Add to each half one teaspoon fine sugar and one tablespoon of grape juice and set in the icebox to chill.

Chicken Timbales.

One and one-half cups of finely chopped chcken wil be needed for this, and if more convenient, the canned boned chickens may be very satisfactorily used. A half pound can will give the required amount.

Scald one cup of milk and pour it over three-fourths cup of fine dry bread crumbs. Let stand for two or three minutes and then stir in the finely chopped chicken, one tablespoon of minced parsley, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspeen minced onion or chopped chives, three well beaten egg yolks, one tablespoon of melted butter.

Mix thoroughly, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs and pour the mixture into six buttered individual custard cups. Stand these in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven for 40 minutes. Turn out on a hot platter and surround with one one and one-half cups cream sauce, to which has been added one chopped hard boiled egg and one tablespoon of lemon juice. Serve hot.

Strawberry Ice Cream.

Wash, hull and mash one quart of ripe fresh strawberries. Add one and one-fourth cups of sugar and let stand for at least an hour. Scald three cups of milk and add one-half cup of sugar mixed with two tablespoons of cornstarch. Stir constantly until slightly thickened. Cool, add two cups of undiluted milk and the strawberries. Freeze, using three parts of crushed ice and one part ice cream salt or pour the mixture into the freezing pan of an automatic refrigerator and freeze for four hours, stirring occasionally.

PLANNING MENUS FOR THE COMING WEEK

Card Index of Meals Approved by the Family Simplifies Housekeeping.

Whenever a housekeeper gets tired at the very thought of planning meals, to say nothing of actually shopping for the foods and preparing the family meals, it is wisdom for her to stop at that very moment and arrange to rout that tired feeling.

A worth while idea, the adoption of which will go a long ways toward anihilating the aforesaid tired feeling, is to have filed away a list of the meals that have particularly pleased her family from time to time.

Whenever comment is made on a meal particularly good, she writes that meal down on a card which is filed in a box under the heading of "Luncheons, Dinners, Sunday Night Suppers and Company meals." In most families, breakfasts are quite standardized, but if it is customary to serve a varied first meal in the day, there is no reason why that list cannot be added to the others. When the family cook does not know what to plan, it is a simple thing to go over these cards and select a meal. In the menus published here from week to week, there are some meals that please more than others. Why not adopt this method of making a list or a file index of these favorites for future use?

Spiced Baked Ham.

You may prefer to cook the ham. In this case, select one to suit your needs, buying either a whole or a half ham. Cover with cold water, heat slowly to the boiling point and boil gently, allowing a half hour for each pound. When done, remove from the water, cut off the skin and place the ham in a baking pan.

To give a richer, more spicy flavor, the ham may be basted during baking with the syrup from spiced peaches or with a syrup made by boiling one-half cup of sugar, one-half cup water, one teaspoon cinnamon and six whole cloves for five minutes.

Strawberry Cup.

Strawberries, rhubarb and asparagus are among the general favorites in the spring food line. When these first appear in the market they are quite expensive, but in most parts of the country, prices are more moderate now and the quality is better. The strawberry cup served on Sunday is made by cupping ripe strawberries in half, allowing two cupsful for four servings. Pour a half cup of orange or pineapple juice over the berries. Sprinkle with two tablespoons powdered sugar and chill thoroughly. Just before serving sprinkle with finely chopped fresh mint and serve in sherbet cups.

Plan to use the leftover ham for luncheons this week, serving it simply sliced and with a salad made from new potatoes for one meal, and for another, finely chopped and made into hot ham sandwiches.

Hot Ham Sandwiches.

For these the ham is mixed with mustard or chopped pickle, spread between slices of bread which are dipped in egg and milk mixture, the same as is used for French toast. They are then sauted in hot fat.

Chicken timbales made from chopped canned chicken make a nice variation in the meat line and are served this week on Monday night.

Meat for the rest of the week consists of a rolled shoulder of lamb, lamb kidneys, bacon and a steak for Saturday.

One fish meal using fresh salmon is planned on Friday with the remnants of the salmon made into a salad for Saturday's lunch.

On Thursday night a vegetable dinner is served in which baked stuffed peppers are the main course. These are stuffed with a mixture of bread crumbs, corn and minced onion.

Egg Cups.

Line the sides of six individual baking dishes with thin strips of breakfast bacon. Grease the bottom of the dish. Break one egg in each dish. Season with salt and pepper, and pour one teaspoon of milk over the top of each egg. Bake in a medium oven until the eggs are congealed (about 15 minutes). This will cook the bacon.

SAVORY VEAL POT PIE

Hearty Dish Which Has Genuine Appetite Appeal.

Veal pie is made out of the knuckle bone. Use two and one-half pounds of knuckle of veal, one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon pepper, two cups water, two tablespoons drippings or other shortening, two slices onion, two cups celery, cut in small pieces; one-half cup sliced carrots, two tablespoons minced parsley, two tablespoons flour, one-fourth cup water and plain pastry.

Cut meat from the knuckle in small pieces (keep bone to use in making soup stock). Sprinkle with salt and pepper.

Melt fat, add onion and cook slowly five minutes. Remove onion from pan and put in the veal. Cook until meat is brown, stirring frequently. Add celery and water, cover and simmer until meat is tender. Add a little water to the meat as liquid boils away. Add raw carrots and parsley and more salt and pepper if necessary. Cook 20 minutes longer. Thicken with the flour and water mixed to a smooth paste.

Put in a baking dish and cover with pastry. Bake in a quick oven 15 to 20 minutes or until brown.

STOP THIS TROUBLE AT THE START

You May Pay If You Don't

When you realize that about 90% of all sickness begins with constipation, you won't want to take chances. If you have the symptoms—bad breath, coated tongue, always tired—put a stop to them now!

But do it the natural way. Not with pills and drugs, which give but temporary relief and must be taken in increasing doses. Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—an appetizing deliciously flavored cereal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN sweeps the system clean of wastes and impurities. Its action is natural; the roughage carries with it the poisons which clog your system.

In addition, ALL-BRAN is rich in iron. Scientific research shows that nearly all this iron goes into the blood, making it give the rich glow of healthy color.

You'll like ALL-BRAN. Ready-to-eat with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Physicians recommend it. And we guarantee it to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. Two tablespoonfuls daily—with every meal, in recurring cases.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers in the red-and-green package. Served in hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

CREAMED MUSHROOMS AND STUFFED CELERY

Combination Provides Intriguing Food for an Informal Luncheon.

Mushrooms are comparatively inexpensive just now and when creamed make a delicious dish for Sunday night supper. They need very little cooking and the mistake most people make with them is to cook them too long.

For four servings use three-quarters of a pound of fresh mushrooms of medium size.

It is best to leave them in the paper bag and put them in the icebox until ready to use. Then cut off the stems, scrape them and cut in slices. Peel the caps by stripping back the little flap of skin that hangs down around the edge. Cut the caps in half.

Melt three tablespoons of butter in a saucepan and add the mushroom caps and stems. Cover and cook slowly for eight minutes, shaking the pan occasionally.

Then stir in three tablespoons of flour, two cups of milk and one-half teaspoon salt. Stir constantly until the sauce is thick and smooth. Season with one tablespoon lemon juice, a little pepper and half a teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce. Serve on toast.

Stuffed Celery.

Small stalks of celery stuffed with a mixture of cream and Roquefort cheese are delicious to serve with mushrooms or with oysters. Mash one-fourth pound Roquefort cheese and work it gradually into one cream cheese. If necessary add a little thin cream to blend the mixture. Fill the celery stalks with this and chill before serving.

Mushroom Omelet.

This savory omelet with mushroom filling may be substituted very successfully for the creamed dish described above.

Melt two tablespoons of butter and add one-quarter pound mushrooms that have been peeled and cut in pieces. Cover and cook very slowly for eight minutes. Meanwhile beat six eggs until foamy, add one-half teaspoon salt and one-third cup milk.

Melt two tablespoons butter in an omelet or frying pan, pour in the egg mixture and cook slowly until firm. If necessary, lift the omelet away from the sides of the pan as it cooks so that the uncooked portion may run underneath. In this way the omelet cooks more evenly and with less danger of scorching.

When firm pour the mushrooms over the surface of the omelet and fold over. Turn out on a hot platter and garnish with parsley or watercress.

Mushroom Timbals.

For eight timbals use three tablespoons of butter, two tablespoons of flour, two cups of rich milk, one-half teaspoon of salt, one cup of cooked white button mushrooms, and one cup of chopped blanched almonds.

The sauce may be made before service time and left in a double boiler.

While the plates are arranged, the mushrooms and chopped nuts may be heated in the sauce.

The handle of celery must be slipped in after the creamed mixture is added to the timbals, just before serving. Split the outside stalks into long narrow strips.

COTTAGE FRUIT PUDDING

Make a batter with one and one-half cups flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one-fourth cup shortening, one-half cup sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one egg, one-half cup milk and one-half teaspoon vanilla. Sift the flour with the baking powder. Cream the shortening and add the sugar and salt and the egg, well beaten. Then add the milk and flour alternately, then vanilla. Drain halves of canned peaches. Place a thick layer of fruit in the bottom of a buttered baking dish and pour cottage pudding batter over it. Bake in a moderate oven about 30 minutes.

Thought for the Day.

Suggestions, menus and recipes offering new and different dishes always help to add variety to the daily diet and it is variety and attractiveness that help to whet the appetite thus permitting the diner to really enjoy his meal.

SPRING SALAD LORE RELEASED DAILY

Home Cooks Offered Every Encouragement to Make and Serve Salads.

In dressing salads the dressing is best added just before the salad is served. The exception to this is the necessity for often mixing vegetables, fish or meat that are used for salad fillings with French dressing to give added flavor.

However, no dressing should be added to greens—lettuce, endive, escarole, romaine, etc.—until just before serving. The vinegar in the dressing breaks down the tissue in the greens and makes the salad wilt, detracting from its crispness and making it entirely unappetizing in appearance.

Salads Have Food Value.

Salads are an important part of the spring diet, but in serving salads it pays to keep in mind that the dressing used can make or spoil the salad as a whole.

Mayonnaise is the most frequently used dressing, but it does not fit into every type of salad and it must be varied by the use of some of the other kinds. Plain green salads, such as watercress, plain lettuce, or a combination of several greens, are pleasing when served with French dressing or one of its variations.

Most fruit salads are good with a French dressing in which lemon juice is substituted for vinegar and which is sweetened by the addition of a little honey. Mayonnaise to which a small amount of plain or whipped cream is added may also be used for fruit salads. Vegetable salads are improved in flavor if the vegetables are mixed first with a French dressing and then mayonnaise, or boiled dressing added as a garnish.

Ginger Ale Salad.

For those who like the flavor of ginger ale, the following salad is suggested. This has the advantage of combining several vegetables in a mixed salad and is excellent when served as an accompaniment to cold meat.

Soak two and one-half tablespoons of gelatin in two tablespoons of cold water for five minutes and then dissolve in one-third cup boiling water. Stir in three tablespoons each lemon juice and vinegar, one teaspoon salt and two teaspoons sugar. Cool the mixture until it begins to thicken, then stir in two cups of ginger ale, one cup shredded cabbage, three-fourths cup diced celery and one cup cooked cut string beans. Mix very lightly, pour into individual molds and set aside to chill and harden. Turn out and serve with lettuce and mayonnaise.

Salad Oriental.

On a nest of shredded lettuce arrange slices of avocado in the form of a fan, rounding side up. Chop preserved ginger and add to a thick French dressing, in which a spoonful of the ginger syrup has been added to replace one of oil. Serve very cold.

SPANISH SAUCE SAVORY WITH SALMON SOUFFLE

Spanish sauce is one of the tasty red-hot dressings which adds savoriness to omelets and souffles.

This salmon souffle is particularly tempting when served with Spanish sauce.

Salmon Souffle.

Use one can salmon, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon paprika, two teaspoons lemon juice, one-half cup soft bread crumbs, one-half cup milk and three eggs, beaten separately.

Remove bones and skin from salmon, separate into flakes and add seasonings. Cook bread crumbs in milk five minutes, add salmon and beaten egg yolks. Fold in whites of eggs, beaten until stiff and dry. Turn into a buttered dish, set in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven until firm.

Spanish Sauce.

Ingredients needed are three tablespoons butter, three tablespoons flour, one cup milk, one-half cup cream, one teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper and one-half cup pimento puree.

Melt butter, add flour and blend well. Pour on gradually, while stirring constantly, milk and cream. Bring to the boiling point, add seasoning and pimento puree.

Pimento puree is obtained by draining canned pimentos and forcing them through a puree strainer.

Try slo-baked bread for this ONE reason

It tastes so good!

IT'S SLO-BAKED
WONDER BREAD
White or Whole-Wheat, as you prefer

WE might give you a score of reasons for trying slo-baked Wonder Bread...and tell you why we spent $6,000,000 to perfect it... and why we invest $2,000,000 extra each year for superfine ingredients ...and about slo-baking...purity... high nutritive value...

But we want you to try it for just one good reason—because we believe it's the best-tasting bread you ever served. Try it—and have your family try it—for toast, sandwiches, puddings—for every bread use.

If you have hungry children who come bounding home from school with huge demands for food, turn them loose on a loaf of Wonder Bread. It's just as easy to digest as it is good to eat.

Imagine the most delicious sandwich you can make. It will be even more delicious if the delicate Wonder Bread flavor is added to it. And no matter how dainty the sandwich, Wonder Bread will slice as thin as you wish without crumbling.

Then there's bread pudding, French toast, stuffing for fowl—but the uses of Wonder Bread, you see, are almost unlimited. To really know Wonder Bread, you must try it for one whole week. After a week we think you'll agree with us that slo-baked Wonder Bread deserves a permanent place on your table. Look for Wonder Bread at your grocer's—it's delivered to him twice a day, fresh from the ovens.

TEMPTING MENU FOR A MAY-DAY DINNER

Braised Romaine and a Mint Stuffing for Lamb Supply New Notes.

Although most persons know all about the importance of using a large amount and a good variety of green vegetables, nevertheless we very often get tired of eating these always cooked in the same way.

Just as in the case of so many wholesome and nutritious dishes, unless variation is used in the matter of seasoning and methods of cooking and serving, they lose, in time, much of their appeal.

In this week's special menu these facts have been taken into account. The green vegetable served is romaine, which is plentiful and not expensive just now, and that is seldom served cooked, in this country at least. When braised with a small amount of onion, it is delicious in flavor and makes an excellent combination with roast lamb.

A shoulder of lamb is used, as this is one of the less expensive cuts, and when stuffed makes a very appetizing meal. A new kind of stuffing is suggested. Mint is used together with grated orange rind—this gives a change from the more commonly served mint sauce and yet the flavor combination remains.

Dinner Menu.

Roast stuffed shoulder of lamb
Pan browned potatoes
Braised romaine.
Lemon meringue tarts
Coffee.

Mint Stuffing for Lamb.

Crumb enough stale bread to make two cupfuls. Bread that is two or three days old will give the best results. Mix the crumbs with one-half teaspoon salt, two tablespoons finely chopped fresh mint, one teaspoon grated orange rind, two tablespoons melted butter, one beaten egg and enough hot water to moisten. Generally, one or two tablespoons will be enough, as the stuffing must not be soggy.

Have the bone removed from a shoulder of lamb so that there is a pocket to hold the stuffing. Fill this with mixture given and then tie the meat securely. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and flour and place in a roasting pan, preferably a covered one. Roast in a hot oven for 20 minutes, then reduce the heat to a moderate temperature and continue cooking, allowing 20 minutes for each pound.

A shoulder of lamb will weigh about four and one-half to five pounds before the bone is removed. The bone may be cracked and used with the remnants of the meat to make a stew or a broth.

Pan Browned Potatoes.

Use medium sized new potatoes for the starchy vegetable. Scrape these, then boil for 10 minutes in salted water, drain, place around the meat and sprinkle lightly with salt. Cook for 15 to 20 minutes or until brown, turning once or twice during the cooking.

Braised Romaine.

For four people use two medium sized heads of romaine. Wash, remove any wilted leaves and then cut in quarters lengthwise. Melt two tablespoons of butter in a sauce pan, add one small, sliced, white onion and cook slowly for three minutes. Then put in the romaine and two tablespoons of water.

Cover closely and cook rather slowly for 25 minutes. Watch that the vegetable does not scorch, but do not add any more water unless absolutely necessary. When cooked the romaine should be unbroken, partly transparent and slightly crisp in texture. Sprinkle lightly with salt five minutes before serving. Serve with any of the juice that is in the pan.

ICE VANILLA MOUSSE CUBES WITH ORANGE FROSTING

Combination Makes an Absolutely New Type of Icy Cold Dessert.

Make small cubes of cream mousse. They need to be frozen quite firm for this service. When using vanilla mousse cubes or molds, frost them with uncooked orange icing. Unmold cubes and place them on the bottom tray of the freezing pan on wax paper. Frost the molds with the frosting and again place them in the freezing tray. Set the temperature at freezing.

The orange frosting is made this way: Use three tablespoons of rich cream and sufficient finely powdered sugar to make a heavy dough. Add strained orange juice until the mixture will spread over the ice cream molds. A little drop of yellow coloring makes the frosting prettier. This frosting does not harden.

LOW CALORIE DIET MENUS

Constant Demand for Suggestions Along These Lines.

Persons on a low calorie diet in order to reduce will perhaps find a luncheon composed of a large glass of buttermilk with a tomato sandwich satisfying as well as appetizing.

Or they might use the buttermilk with two slices of melba toast and some raw fruit or a small handful of raisins.

Other foods that are low in calorie value would be a salad of raw vegetables eaten with melba toast; a large serving of watercress moistened with French dressing and eaten with a bran muffin and perhaps a baked apple.

Crackers and milk make a lunch that can also be quite safely used.

A BOILED DINNER FOR FIVE PERSONS

In Pioneer Times This Meal Was Called a Wash Day Dinner.

This dinner is all cooked in one pot, a Monday or wash day dinner, conserving pots, time and fuel.

Dinner Menu.

Boiled Beef
Carrots Turnips Potatoes
Alligator Pear Salad
Fruit Coffee

Fill a soup pot with enough water to cover the three pounds of brisket that are used; season with salt and a small vegetable bunch.

Prepare the carrots, turnips and potatoes. When the soup has boiled for a while, lower the flame and let it simmer for the rest of the cooking.

Put the whole vegetables in the soup about one-half hour before serving.

When done, take out carrots, cut into small pieces, and sprinkle with chopped parsley and butter; take out turnips, mash and add one teaspoonful sugar. Serve potatoes as mashed.

Remove the meat and fry with onions. Instead of this, if preferred, it may be served with tomato sauce.

Chill the alligator pears, cut in half and serve with French dressing. Serve fruit for dessert.

Potato Surprise.

Form mashed potato into cups, molding them in the palm of the hand and patting the potato to an even thickness. Add canned peas to white sauce and place a spoonful of the mixture in th center of each one and close the hand around it, putting a little mashed potato on top to entirely cover the peas. Roll balls in crumbs, then in beaten egg diluted with water, and again in crumbs. Fry in deep hot fat until brown.

Tomato Cocktail.

Tomato juice cocktails are popular to serve as appetizers. To make them use three cans tomato juice, two teaspoons salt, three tablespoons lemon juice, three-fourth teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and six drops tobasco sauce.

Shake until thoroughly mixed; half fill cocktail glasses with chipped ice and fill with cocktail mixture.

Spinach Salad.

Wash spinach carefully and chop fine. Mix with chopped apple, parsley and nuts, Marinate with spiced French dressing and serve on lettuce leaves.

CHEESE TOAST WITH GRILLED TOMATOES

A Nutritious Luncheon Dish Which Juniors and Grown-ups Will Enjoy.

Cheese belongs to the group of foods that we use for building purposes—building flesh and bone.

Protein, which is the scientific name of the body-building substance in foods, and the minerals that make strong bones and teeth are all abundant in cheese and make it a very valuable food.

When combined with a starchy food—such as bread or rice—a vegetable or fruit, it makes a well-balanced and nutritious meal.

Cheese toast uses bread with the cheese, and the tomatoes are the vegetable, so you see the dish is quite complete in itself. If a big glass of milk, a few stalks of raw celery or a few radishes and perhaps a slice of gingerbread are added you will feel quite satisfied until dinner time, and you will have enjoyed a lunch that was packed full of health-giving elements.

Cheese Toast.

For the cheese toast, use one of the soft American cheeses that can be bought in any grocery. One-half pound will be needed for four servings. Then you will need two medium-sized, ripe tomatoes, about one tablespoonful butter, salt and pepper, and four large or eight small slices of bread. These should be cut about one-third inch thick and it is perhaps better to use the smaller sized loaf in this case.

Grate or cut the cheese in small pieces.

Wash the tomatoes and cut each across in four slices, sprinkle each slice with salt and pepper.

Toast the bread on one side. Spread the untoasted side very lightly with butter and then cover with a rather thick layer of cheese. Place a slice of tomato on each slice of bread, on top of the cheese.

Place the bread on a baking sheet or in a shallow roasting pan and put in a hot oven. If there is an oven regulator on the stove set it for 400 degrees. If not, bake in a hot oven for eight minutes, or until the cheese is melted and slightly browned, and the tomato cooked.

Serve as soon as cooked, and serve on warm plates.

Since most cooked cheese dishes lose much of their attractiveness and digestibility if they are cooked too long, be careful to time this. Have the table set and everything else ready to serve before you put the cheese toast in the oven to bake.

The other foods suggested to serve with this are very simple. The celery or radishes must be crisp and cold, and this is best accomplished by washing them as soon as they come into the house, and then keeping them in the ice box until needed.

The gingerbread may be home made or of the good baker variety.

PEANUT BRITTLE ICING

Nice to Frost Layer Cakes, Cup Cakes and Cookies.

A rather novel cake icing is one that makes use of crushed peanut brittle in the following manner: Put one-half pound of peanut brittle through the meat chopper or crush it with a rolling pin.

Put one cup of sugar and three tablespoons of water in a double boiler, together with one unbeaten egg white. Heat the water in the lower part of the double boiler to the boiling point, put the upper part over it and beat the mixture with an egg beater constantly for seven minutes. By that time it will be very fluffy and quite thick.

Remove from the fire, cool slightly, still beating, and then stir in the peanut brittle.

Spread between and on top of layers or use as an icing for cup cakes or cookies.

CHICKEN SANDWICHES

These Tidbits Are Especially Nice for Sunday Supper.

Have ready four triangular pieces of toasted graham bread for each sandwich.

Spread with mayonnaise dressing. Cover two with crisp lettuce.

Lay thin slices of cold chicken breast upon lettuce, over this arrange slices of broiled and drained breakfast bacon, then crisp lettuce and cover with the other triangular pieces and garnish with heart lettuce leaves.

Heat a pint of gravy or rich stock, season with pepper, salt, a little onion juice and a saltspoon of sugar. Add four tablespoons of hot cream and pour onto the beaten yolks of two eggs.

Arrange the macaroni in a buttered baking dish, pour over the gravy, sprinkle with three ounces of grated cheese, dot with little lumps of butter and cook until brown in a brisk oven.

Corned Beef on Toast.

Dice one small onion and one-half green pepper and saute in two tablespoons of butter for a few minutes. Add one can of tomato soup, one No. 2 can drained lima beans and one can corned beef broken in pieces. Heat thoroughly, season sparingly, and serve on toast.

RHUBARB INITIATES THE CANNING SEASON

Home Canners Should Start Putting Up This Vegetable Right Now.

The thrifty housewife may now can rhubarb as sauce, juice, conserve or marmalade for use all through the year.

Rhubarb should be canned while it is young and tender. The skin should always be left on to give the attractive rich red color and the tender tips of the stalks should also be used. For best color and texture, can rhubarb in a syrup without water.

To make a rhubarb sauce which may be used as filling for pie, cut the rhubarb stalks in pieces, pack as tightly as possible in the jars, fill the jars to overflowing with a hot, heavy syrup made of twice as much sugar as water and cooked until it forms a thread when dropped from a spoon.

Adjust the rubbers and lids but do not seal the jars. Boil them for 16 minutes in the hot-water bath, and seal.

A richer sauce may be made by placing in pint jars a layer of rhubarb one inch deep, then a layer of sugar one-half inch deep; alternate in this way until the jars are filled, having a layer of sugar on top. Adjust the rubbers and the lids, boil in a hot-water bath 25 minutes and seal.

A good supply of rhubarb juice may also be canned to use in summer fruit beverages, pudding sauces, desserts, or for making jelly by combining with other fruit juices whose jelly-making properties are satisfactory.

Rhubarb stalks that have become too tough to cook in other ways may be used for making canned juice.

FANCY SANDWICHES FOR CARD PARTY REFRESHMENTS

Among the most useful little food cutters recently put on the market are the small cookie cutters in the shape of hearts, diamonds, spades and clubs which come in sets of four.

The cutters simulate the symbols on playing cards and may be used for cutting out fancy sandwiches as well as cutting out cookies and small fancy cakes.

Bridge Party Sandwiches.

Remove crusts from white bread and slice about one-quarter inch thick. Cut in oblongs like playing cards.

From half the slices cut out small hearts or diamonds with fancy vegetable cutters, to represent ace, two, three or four of each suit. Cut as many similar pieces from canned pimento.

Put a plain and and fancy slice of bread together with well-seasoned cream cheese and insert pieces of pimento in holes in top of a sandwich.

Cover sandwiches with damp cloth and set in cool place until ready to serve.

Holes can be left open to show filling, or green pepper can be used instead of pimento.

Bran Muffin Variations.

Bran muffins are favorites of persons who are not on a diet as well as of persons whose dietary features this cereal.

The standard recipe for bran muffins calls for variations which are obtained through the addition of raisins in one case and of nut meats in the second case.

Health Commissioners in 45 States say

"Use Snow-White 'NORTHERN TISSUE,' Especially Where Children Must Be Protected"

THAT is the advice of 254 Health Authorities in 45 states. Because they know the grave disorders that may easily follow the use of harsh yellow "toilet paper."

Made largely from raw groundwood, these yellow papers are revealed by the microscope to be a mass of tiny splinters. Irritating to delicate tissues, serious disorders often ensue from their use.

So a new-type bathroom paper has been made, called "Northern Tissue." A pure white paper—soft and absorbent as no ground-wood paper can ever be. These qualities come from the new way it is made. From the identical material used to make soft, silky rayon — pure, soft cellulose!

Thus "Northern Tissue" is not only free from irritating particles, but all harshness is completely removed.

Doctors appreciate, too, the fact that every sheet is sterilized 20 times in the making—coming to you as free from bacteria as sterile hospital cotton. The price is only 10c a roll, at any Department, grocery or drug store.

FESTIVE FOODS FOR EXTRA OCCASIONS

Fascinating Dishes Which Will Give an Air to Company Affairs.

Since the advent of charming table glassware of every shade and color, the craze for table decoration schemes has reached its height.

Naturally, when planning table decorations the menu must be considered by the prospective hostess, because the foods served must not clash with the dishes and container else in the garnishes.

Consequently, there is quite a demand for dishes that feature color either in the foods themselves or else in the decorations.

There are on the market harmless food colorings which may be used freely to color cakes, frostings, ices, creams and icy cold desserts of all kinds. These colorings come in all the colors of the spectrum and meet the requirements of the food laws of the country.

One of the most popular of these food colorings is green, as green will harmonize with almost any color scheme selected for table decorations.

In line with this thought, recipes for jellied shamrocks (a salad) and for pistachio cream (an icebox dessert) are featured in the appended recipes.

Jellied Sahmrocks.

Take two cups white meat of chicken, two cups celery, cut in small pieces. Run through food chopper, add two cups whipped cream, one-half box gelatin dissolved in one-half cup water. Dash of salt and paprika. Pour into wet mold, set on ice until firm. When about to serve, turn out of mold and slice. Cut shamrock leaves from the slices with shamrock-shaped cookie cutter. Garnish with parsely and serve with mayonnaise dressing.

A Little Green Coloring.

Pistachio cream or mousse gives one of the prettiest green desserts in the list. This may be made by soaking one cup of chopped pistachio nuts in one-half cup of thick cream for a couple of hours.

Whip and sweeten one pint of whipping cream and add the pistachio nuts and cream. This may be chilled in the dessert glasses and served, or it may be frozen in molds. This is a very rich dessert and should be served in small molds or servings.

White cake frosted with white or delicate green should be served with the cream.

A third fascinating sweet is pistachio creme a variation of ice box cake.

Pistachio Creme.

One tablespoon gelatin, one-fourth cup cold water, one cup scalded milk, one-third cup powdered sugar, one teaspoon vanilla, one-third teaspoon almond extract, green liquid coloring, one-half cup pistachio nuts, blanched and chopped, and one-half pint cream.

Soak gelatin in cold water, dissolve in scalded milk, strain into a bowl and add powdered sugar. When it is cold, but before it stiffens, add vanilla extract, green coloring, pistachio nuts, reserving a few for garnish.

Whip the cream until thick, gradually beating into it the gelatin mixture.

Line individual molds with lady fingers, turn in the mixture and chill. When dessert is taken from molds, sprinkle with the rest of the pistachio nuts.

ACCOMPANIMENTS ADD TO FOOD VALUE OF DISHES

This Should Be Especially Remembered in the Case of Soups.

The increasing popularity of serving accompaniments with soup to add to the food value of the beverage, accents the fact that garnishes and accessories should serve the double purpose of enhancing the appearance of the dish and, at the same time, bringing up its food value.

How to Make Croutons.

Croutons are an interesting accompaniment simply made from leftover bread. They are generally cut in cubes about one inch square and are either fried in deep fat or browned in the oven and buttered just before serving.

Other interesting ones are:

Custard Cubes.

Thick egg custard baked as usual, but in a layer in a shallow pan and cut into fancy shapes, which are dropped into the hot soup just before serving.

Mushrooms: Broiled and placed in the center of cream soups.

Tiny dumplings, tapioca, rice, barley and the finely ground cereals, macaroni and noodles: They also serve the purpose of thickening the soup.

LOG CABIN SANDWICH

Hearty Type of Sandwich for Informal Luncheon Service.

Cut the crusts off a loaf of whole-wheat bread with a large, sharp knife. Cut through the loaf lengthwise in quarter-inch slices. You will be able to get about four of these straight slices out of one loaf.

Roll gently with a rolling pin so that these slices can be handled. Spread with softened butter.

For each two loaves of bread take one and three-quarters cups of cream cottage cheese, two tablespoons mayonnaise and one cup of chopped pecans.

Spread this mixture on the buttered slices and roll carefully.

Troubles that begin with harsh toilet tissue

—often end on the operating table

THE slightest irritation . . . caused by harsh toilet tissues . . . may develop into serious rectal trouble.

Surgeons who operate daily on cases of this kind say that rectal ailments are astonishingly prevalent.

For complete safety in this bathroom essential they specified these qualities: softness, absorbency, chemical purity.

Today you can buy three toilet tissues that are specially processed to satisfy these medical requirements—ScotTissue, Sani-Tissue and Waldorf.

Millions of tiny "thirsty fibres" make Scott Tissues highly absorbent. Without this extreme absorbency, thorough cleansing is impossible.

Scott Tissues are chemically safe—neither alkaline nor acid in reaction. Soft as old linen—actually cloth-like—yet they are strong and firm in texture.

The sheets tear in perfect squares. The rolls are designed to fit the modern built-in fixtures.

Protect your family. Always ask for either ScotTissue, Sani-Tissue or Waldorf.

Scott Tissues

NOTE: ScotTissue and Waldorf are the two largest selling brands in the world . . . Sani-Tissue is the new popular priced white toilet tissue embodying the famous thirsty fibre qualities.

IN SPRING THE DESIRE FOR VEGETABLES IS STRONG

At This Season of the Year Appetites Are Said to Be Keenest.

Home cooks often find there are several vegetables of different varieties, in the icebox, not sufficient of any one variety to make a dish for the family dinner. On such an occasion, vegetable pot pourri is a combination dish which will probably use up all the vegetables at one time.

Vegetable Pot Pourri.

This is a piquant suggestion for a main dish. Use two large onions, two white turnips, two large potatoes, one green pepper, one cup canned corn and four medium sized tomatoes.

Chop the onion and shred the pepper, removing seeds, then saute in four tablespoons butter or substitute.

Arrange them in the bottom of a baking dish which has a cover. Slice the peeled potatoes and the turnips and arrange in alternate layers over the onions and peppers with cut-up tomatoes between.

Season with one and one-half teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper and a teaspoon sugar. Add half cup boiling water and dot over with a tablespoon butter.

Cover closely and bake slowly in a moderate oven for two hours.

Before serving, thicken the gravy slightly about the vegetables with a teaspoon of flour blended with an equal quantity of melted butter. When ready the vegetables should be just nicely moist and of a melting tenderness. Garnish with parsley.

LEFTOVER LIQUID COFFEE MAKES A DAINTY DESSERT

Sweets Made With Coffee Infusion Are Being Generally Featured.

Coffee whip is attractive served in parfait glasses or in tall sherbet glasses.

For a recipe sufficient for six servings use one cup of strong liquid coffee, one and one-half tablespoons of gelatin, one-third cup of sugar, one egg white, one-fourth teaspoon of vanilla, a few grains of salt and one-half cup of heavy cream. Grated pecans or English walnuts are fine in this dessert. A small amount (one-fourth cup) of nuts will give a desired flavor without adding too much food value for a light dessert. Heat the liquid coffee and add the moistened gelatin and sugar. Stir until they are dissolved. Then strain through a dampened cheesecloth. Chill, and when the mixture is reaching the solid stage whip until it has the appearance of whipped egg whites. Whip the egg white and the cream separately and fold through the gelatin mixture. Add the flavoring and nuts at this time.

Place the dessert in the serving glasses. It should not be changed from one glass to another after it has stiffened.

SALMON AND BANANAS

These Two Foods Combine Well in This Baked Dish.

Bananas and canned salmon make a tasty combination main dish as family cooks who try this recipe will find out.

Banana Salmon Loaf.

Peel and slice seven bananas lengthwise. Arrange in baking tin and cover over full length (over top, not around them) with two tablespoons of salmon, shredded. Over top of salmon sprinkle a tablespoon of cracker crumbs and one teaspoon grated cheese. Top with a dash of paprika, and bake in a moderate oven until delicately browned. Serve very hot.

Banana Dessert.

Peel bananas and cut in halves crosswise. Roll puff or flaky paste one-eighth of an inch thick. Cut into pieces. Dip each piece in ice water and wrap around a half banana. Place on a baking sheet and bake in a moderate oven. Serve with a sauce made by crushing strawberries with sugar.

ASPARAGUS AU GRATIN

Cheese Gives a Tasty Flavor to This Vegetable.

Scrape scales from asparagus, tie in small bunches and cut off tough ends.

Place in a flat pan or special asparagus cooker and cover with boiling water. Bring to boiling point, drain, and cover again with boiling water.

For 30 tips add one tablespoon powdered sugar and one teaspoon salt, and boil for one-half hour, or until tender. Drain well.

Place a few slices of toast in a buttered baking dish and arrange the asparagus tips on the toast. Pour well-seasoned Bechamel sauce over the asparagus.

Sprinkle generously with grated cheese, cover the ends of the stalk with paper and place in the oven until cheese is melted.

FANCY NEW POTATO DISH

Serve Boiled Potatoes in Nests of Young Carrots.

Scrub clean and cook even-sized potatoes in boiling water until tender, about one-half hour.

Scrub clean and cut carrots into strips. Cover with boiling water and cook until tender, 15 to 20 minutes.

Arrange strips of carrot into nests; fill centers with boiled potatoes. Sprinkle with parsley and serve with butter, salt and pepper.

Savory Luncheon Dish.

Melt two tablespoons butter, add two tablespoons flour, and stir smooth. Add one and one-third cups milk slowly, stirring constantly until smooth and creamy. Season to taste with salt and pepper and add two teaspoons lemon juice. Cut one seven-ounce can of ham loaf in small dice and add with one-half cup diced celery and one-fourth cup sliced, stuffed olives. Reheat and serve around a rolled French omelet.

MUSICAL

Pianos and Organs For Sale

KIESELHORST
Quitting Business
SALE
Genuine Big Bargains

WE ARE CLOSING OUT our retail musical instrument business. Our lease expires July 19th. We must sell more than 200 pianos, phonographs and radios and thousands of talking machine records and music rolls. We have cut the life out of regular prices. We will take any price we can get to close this stock out quickly.

IT IS A BONA-FIDE CLOSE-OUT SALE—not a profit making scheme. We cannot afford to pay for expensive page and half-page advertisements. A few simple announcements by this reliable 51-year-old House of Kieselhorst should easily clear out our 5-story building within a few weeks. SO HURRY. Early buyers get best choice. You can pay all cash or any terms most suitable to you. Our object is to get rid of the stock quickly; empty the building long before July 19th if possible.

AN EXAMPLE OF SLASHED PRICES on fine new nationally known, nationally priced instruments is shown as follows: $195 for new $530 Gulbransen pianos. The $530 regular price was branded in the back of the piano at the factory by the manufacturer. $530 was the lowest price in the United States. Think of buying nice new pianos for only $195 on your own terms. No extras to buy, immediate delivery made. The regular factory five-year guarantee on the piano is included, also our guarantee, which will be good long after we have quit the business. Our supply of these $530 new instruments for $195 is limited. SO HURRY.

SUMMER HOMES, COTTAGES, hunting and fishing resorts, lodges, churches can buy factory repaired used pianos of famous makes for merely the cost of labor and repair material we have used in fixing them up. We are giving many of these Pianos away. So low are the prices on these repaired used instruments that it is practically a "cash and carry proposition." If we deliver we will charge what the moving company charges us.

LOTS OF NEW GRAND PIANOS—New reproducing grand pianos, new upright pianos, new reproducing upright pianos. Beautiful, expensive new Orthophonic Victrolas and other fine talking machines at just what we paid for them wholesale in big quantities and even less. HURRY! HURRY! HURRY! The people of St. Louis and vicinity have never had such a bargain opportunity offered them by such a fine, reliable 51-year-old firm on high class, standard make, nationally known musical instruments.

IT IS THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME. TELL YOUR FRIENDS.

VALUE OF APRIL EXPORTS LOWEST IN 5 YEARS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Commodity exports of the United States for April amounted to $334,000,000, compared with imports of $308,000,000, leaving a favorable balance of trade for this country of $26,000,000 as compared with the favorable balance of $14,598,000 for the same month last year.

Exports in April a year ago amounted to $425,264,000, while imports totaled $410,666,000.

The shrinkage in the country's export trade recorded in April brought the total value of foreign shipments of American goods to the lowest point recorded in any month of the last five years.

The imports for April were likewise less in value than those of any month in five years, save during the past February.

On the other hand, the April gold imports which amounted to $65,539,000, was only offset by exports of $107,000 and was the largest amount imported by the United States in any one month during the last three years.

Silver exports for April were $4,557,000 and imports were $3,469,000, while in April a year ago silver exports were $5,752,000 and imports $3,957,000.

One of the causes considered by Government trade observers to be contributing markedly to the current recession in American exports is the cotton situation. Normally it bulks heavily in shipments at this season, but it is not moving in its ordinary quantity. The result has been to sharply curtail the total value attached to it in American trade.

FINANCIAL NOTES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 16.—The Rockefeller Foundation holdings in the Galena Oil Corp. have been acquired by the American Republics Corp., which has extended to all Galena stockholders the privilege of exchanging their holdings for capital stock of the Interstate Natural Gas Co., which it holds, on the basis of one share of Interstate for each four shares of Galena. The offer will expire June 25.

The board of directors of the Engineers Public Service Co. has voted to discontinue the policy of paying stock dividends on the common.

Heavy construction and engineering projects proposed throughout the country during the week totaled $49,179,000, compared with $42,283,000 in the preceding week and $66,250,000 in the corresponding week last year, the Construction Daily reports.

An amendment to its articles of incorporation increasing the number of shares of no-par common to 500,000 shares from 300,000 has been filed by the Newton Steel Co.

An offering to stockholders of $15,000,000 10-year convertible bonds has been approved by directors of the Armstrong Cork Co. The proceeds will be used for payment of bank loans and for completion of expansion.

New bond offerings for the week totaled $190,005,000, compared with $131,496,000 last week and $79,985,000 in the corresponding week last year.

A special meeting of stockholders of the General Bronze Corporation has been called for May 26 to vote on authorization and sale of $5,000,000 10-year 6 per cent debentures convertible into common stock, unless called for prior redemption, after July 1, 1930, to and including Jan. 1, 1931, at $35 a share and thereafter until maturity at $40 a share. The corporation proposes to sell $3,000,000 of the debentures.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, May 16.—There was no change in raw sugar early today, but the undertone was firmer and while duty free sugars nearby were still available at last paid prices of 3.21c delivered, there were buyers of Cuban sugar at this level with holders generally asking slight advances. The only sale reported was 26,000 bags of Cuban now loading to an operator at 3.21c, with local refiners showing no interest, probably awaiting the result of the tariff situation in Washington.

Raw futures opened unchanged to 3 points higher and later sold 2 to 4 points above the previous close on renewed covering, and some buying by outside interests promoted by the steadier tone in the spot market and to report that Russia was inquiring for a large amount of Cuban sugar.

The report said that Russia was in the market for 200,000 tons of Cuban sugar, taking 150,000 tons of raws for direct importation and 50,000 tons to be shipped to British refiners and exported to Russia when refined. In the late forenoon, however, offerings were a little more plentiful and reactions followed with prices at midday 1 to 2 points net higher.

The refined situation showed no change of consequence. Refiner continued to list at 4.90c but aside from moderate withdrawals, new business was light and supplied through seconds at around 4.65c.

Futures closed steady; approximated sales, 62,250 tons; May 1.41c; July, 1.51c; September, 1.59c; December, 1.67c; January, 1.70c; March, 1.78c; May, 1.83c.

UNITED CORP. SEEKS 25 PCT. OF COLUMBIA GAS STOCK

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 16.—The first major move of the year in the extension of the sphere of influence of the united corporation, Morgan-Drexel-Bonbright Utility Holding Co., appeared with the announcement of a plan to acquire a 25 per cent interest in the Columbia Gas & Electric Co. through an exchange of stock.

The bringing of Columbia into the united group of companies is regarded as an important step in plans to pipe natural gas in large volume to New York, Philadelphia and other Eastern cities. Columbia is already building a 400-mile pipe line from West Virginia gas fields to Baltimore and Washington. Commenting upon this angle of the situation, Philip G. Gossler, president of Columbia, said the new alignment would "facilitate the making available of our large natural gas resources to the large industrial and domestic markets along the Eastern seaboard."

Columbia stockholders are offered one-third of a share of $3 annual dividend preference stock, and one and one-half shares of common stock of United Corporation for each share of Columbia common, after subtracting the special dividend in voting trust certificates representing shares of common stock of Columbia Oil & Gasoline Corporation, payable May 24. Columbia Oil has been formed to segregate the oil interests of the organization.

On the basis of current market quotations this represents a premium of nearly $20,000,000 to Columbia stockholders. United Corporation common closed on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday at $47.75, and the preference at $50.75. One and one-half shares of common, and one-third share of preference would therefore have a market value of approximately $88.54. Columbia Gas closed at $85.25, with the special dividend of Columbia Oil certificates still to come off. Columbia Oil certificates closed on the Curb market at $17. As they were issued one for five, Columbia shares this makes the dividend per share of Columbia worth $3.40. On the basis of the closing prices, therefore, market value of $88.54 is offered for market value of $81.85. United proposes to acquire in this manner approximately 2,900,000 shares of the outstanding 11,600,000 shares of Columbia common.

Columbia stockholders desiring to exchange their shares may do so on or before June 10, with J. P. Morgan & Co. acting as depository. Deposits only up to approximately 25 per cent of the outstanding Columbia shares will be accepted.

COTTON CLOSES HIGHER ON NEW YORK MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 16.—Cotton was generally higher today on reiterated complaints of excessive rain in Western belt sections and unfavorable crop advices from Texas and some Central belt sections.

New crop months led the advance, but some additional May notices were probably stopped on a moderate early decline and trading in the near months was comparatively quiet later with prices showing rallies in sympathy with the new crop advance. The mid-afternoon market was quiet but steady at net advances of about 10 to 22 points.

Futures closed steady, 15 to 23 points higher: May, 16.31; July, 16.39@42; October, 15.33@35; December, 15.39; January, 15.41. New contracts—October, 15.05; December, 15.13@14; January, 15.12; March, 15.34@35; spot steady; middling, 16.50.

Cotton opened steady at an advance of 1 to 7 points, with the new crop relatively firm on unfavorable crop reports from Texas and some parts of the Central Belt.

The appearance of notices estimated that 9100 bales seemed to bring in some selling of May and the price eased off from 16.13c to 16.08c during the first few minutes, or about 4 points net lower. There again seemed to be some selling of July against purchases of May and July declined to 16.19c.

The new crop, meanwhile, held quiet and steady with active months working about 9 to 13 points net higher or up to 14.95c for the new October contract. Old crop deliveries recovered to last night's closing quotations after the early offerings were absorbed, with the general list ruling about net unchanged to 12 points higher before the session had advanced far.

Liverpool cable said trading was much restricted with the relative steadiness of near months there attributed to covering and scarcity of contracts.

Trading continued quiet during the middle of the morning, but prices held fairly steady and buying became more active toward midday, when the market appeared to be influenced by the talk of rains in the Southwest.

Old-crop months were rather slow to follow the advance, but July sold up to 16.30c, or 6 points net higher, while the new October, selling at 15:03c, showed a net advance of 21 points. The market was within a point or two of these prices at midday.

BOND TRADE QUIET AND IRREGULAR

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 16.—The listed bond market attracted little attention from investors today, and price movement was lethargic. The entire list continued an irregular course that was held mostly within fractional limits.

The prospect that sales for the week would prove small in contrast with previous weeks developed as sales diminished. No one group drew a preponderance of the buying and the desultory trading was reflected throughout the list. Even prime rail issues made little headway, and it appeared that some concessions had been made to find buyers.

Some wide price changes occurred on thin sales throughout the list, Norfolk & Southern 4s moved up 4 points.

Saxon Public Works 6½s gained 2 points.

EAT CLOSES STRONG ON CHICAGO MARKET

Associated Press.
CHICAGO, May 16.—General buying based on wheat values today, evidence being that North American wheat export business in the last 48 hours amounted to 1,000,000 bushels. Liverpool houses were credited with being among today's purchasers of Chicago wheat future deliveries. For the first time in a long while, Argentina reported no wheat clearances whatever for Great Britain. On the other hand, wheat was being loaded here for shipment east.
Wheat closed strong 2¼@3½c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1⅝@2⅝c up, oats ½c advanced and provisions varying from 25c decline to a rise.
Indications of large export business overnight, together with fresh turns in Liverpool quotations, helped bring about an early advance of the wheat market.
Crop comment from the southern half of Kansas was also a bullish influence, rising ⅝c to ¾c higher, wheat afterward scored additional gains. Corn and oats were likewise firm, with corn starting ⅝c to ¾c advance and subsequently a little more. Provisions kept steady.
Estimates were current today that overnight export purchases of wheat from North America alone amounted to upward of 1,000,000 bushels. Assertions were made that European takings from North America yesterday amounted to 1,750,000 bushels, instead of 1,000,000 bushels. Stimulated by such factors, Chicago wheat prices rose quickly to the highest levels since May 1.
One of the foremost unofficial Chicago authorities wired today from Wichita, Kan., that from Newton to Wichita, including a wide circle, nearly two-fifths of the wheat seen has developed spindly, thin on the ground, with under-
Special notice also was taken here that wheat stocks at Hamburg, Rotterdam, Antwerp, Liverpool, Manchester, Genoa and Naples have decreased 1,723,000 bushels during the first half of May.

COMMERCIAL BULLETIN REPORT

BOSTON, May 16.—The Commercial Bulletin of Boston will say tomorrow:
"With the strong opening of the London Colonial Wool Auctions and firmer prices in Australia, the domestic wool trade is inclined to view the future with more optimism, especially in view of the action of the American Woolen Co. in advancing prices on certain important numbers.
"Prices in the local market, however, have shown little change for the week. Efforts to advance prices have met with the stiffest resistance from manufacturers generally, some of whom are considering the advisability of closing their plants for the time being. On the other hand, efforts of mills to buy wools for less money have failed. Altogether, the domestic situation is still considerably mixed, with the tariff deadlock adding another feature of uncertainty.
"In the West, there is a steady buying movement for the most part. Prices have been somewhat irregular, being higher in certain localities and lower in others. Dealers have secured, it is estimated, close to 50,000,000 pounds while the co-operatives claim 70,000,000. The Ohio co-operative finally has decided to withdraw from the National Wool Marketing Corporation. It handled about 4,000,000 pounds last year.
"Mohair is still slow with prices hardly changed for the week.
"The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from Jan. 1, 1930, to May 15, 1930, inclusive, were 50,708,000 pounds against 65,851,000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from Jan. 1, 1930, to May 15, 1930, inclusive, were 79,803,900 pounds against 78,735,-885 pounds for the same period last year.
The Bulletin will publish the following quotations:

UTILITIES RALLY IN CURB TRADING

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 16.—Utilities rallied on the curb today in response to developments in the Eastern field, notably the announcement that United Corporation was seeking a 25 per cent interest in Columbia Gas & Electric.
The day's best performance on this market was made by United Light "A," which moved up 6 points under brisk accumulation. Another favorite was National Fuel Gas, which touched a new high for the year just under 41 before profits were taken. The net gain, however, was about 3 points. Electric Bond & Share held mostly above yesterday's final price and picked up more than a point on the day. Niagara Hudson and American Superpower advanced fractionally, but were rather quiet.

On April 4 we told clients:
"Accept half of the profits in all groups marked A. Accept all profits in stocks of the groups marked B. Accept all profits and cost in groups marked C, and consult us on losses in the latter group."
A week later, April 11, we extended this advice and said:
"Accept all profits in ALL groups marked A."
ON APRIL 12 THE PEAK WAS REACHED AT 115.4 (Practically 100% accuracy on March 28 forecast)

— By —

R. C. SHERRIFF and VERNON BARTLETT

SYNOPSIS

Dennis Stanhope is a frequent visitor to Alum Green, near London, where Jimmy Raleigh and his sister, Madge, live. Although Dennis is three years older than Jimmy, a strong friendship develops between the boys. When Dennis goes away to Barford to school he became Jimmy's hero, because of his athletic prowess. Later Jimmy arrives at Barford and finds a gulf between himself and Dennis for the latter is now a school monitor. Germany invades Belgium and Dennis is sent to Flanders as an infantry officer. He wins a military cross and returns home on leave to find everything changed. Madge is working in a hospital. Stanhope returns to the front and Jimmy, now a second lieutenant, is ordered to France.

CHAPTER IX.

MRS. TUCKER stood on the worn doorstep of her postoffice, and peered anxiously up and down the village street. Ever since "this dratted war," as she called it, had begun, she was constantly faced with this problem of telegrams—she who, in the old days, as postmistress at Alum Green, had had young Joe Bennett and Silas Medley to deliver the letters, Medley's boy to bicycle round with any urgent telegram, and that hoity-toity Ethel Sidney to help in the shop. And now the Sidney girl had "gone into munitions," and put powder all over her face; young Joe Bennett was somewhere in France; poor old Medley carried on as best he could as postman, with Mrs. Wade's daughter to help him; and Medley's son had just joined up. So here Mrs. Tucker stood on her own doorstep, looking anxiously up and down the street for Billy, her son, on his way back from school.

There was frost in the air—one of the last frosts of the winter, it would be—and a thin white mist softened the outline of the cottages, the Bank House, and the row of elm-trees that flanked the low, gray stone church. It helped to obscure the road, and Mrs. Tucker searched in vain for anybody whom she could send with the telegram to Dr. Raleigh's house. How was it, she asked herself peevishly, that Billy always took so long to get back from school? And here she was left to do all the work alone! This dratted war!

For the telegram was important. It came from Master James, and it said he was ordered overseas. Could his father, or Madge, come to Lyndhurst Road station, at 4:35, since his train would stop there on its journey to Southampton, and would thus give him a chance to say "good-by." And that the telegram should come just when the telephone was out of order, so that she could only send it up by hand to the doctor's house! He would be so upset. Poor young Master James! Why, it only seemed a year or two ago that he had got into such trouble for falling into the village pond in his best Eton jacket, and now he was ordered overseas. Well, well, Joe Bennett had said it would all be over in a few weeks, because the Germans couldn't fight any more, and he was a sergeant now, so he ought to know—Mrs. Tucker had a great respect for authority. It was, indeed, this respect which made her hesitate for so long, before she put on her bonnet, locked up the shop, pinned a note on the door to say she would be back in half an hour, and, overwhelmed by the importance of her mission and the sense that she was breaking all the Postoffice rules, set out along the road to deliver the telegram at Dr. Raleigh's house.

Emma, the cook-general, explained that the doctor was out on his rounds, and that Miss Madge was on her V. A. D. work in Bournemouth.

With a due sense of her own importance, Mrs. Tucker explained the contents of the telegram. But her success did not last, for Emma was masterful and commanding, which she was not.

"Now I wonder where the doctor will be," mused Emma. "Up to old Mrs. Farwell's, I daresay. We must telephone and ask."

Mrs. Tucker pointed out that the telephone was out of order.

Before they had decided how to find the doctor or his daughter, the former himself returned in his shabby Standard car. His face was disappointingly passive while he read the telegram, for he had been expecting it from day to day, and hour to hour.

"Do either of you know the exact time now?" he asked.

Here Mrs. Tucker was able to shine, for she pulled at the long silver chain of which she was so proud, and produced a nickeled watch from some secret hiding place inside her blouse, but, apparently, outside her corset.

"Twenty-two minutes past four, sir," she announced with an official note in her voice. "That's Greenwich time, sir. Told me by Bournemouth this very morning."

Dr. Raleigh did a rapid calculation in his head. He had meant to do a little work in his dispensary before setting out for the hospital in Bournemouth. But none of the medicine was really urgent. In most cases some patent preparation would do just as well, and in others his patients would forgive him when he explained in the morning. After all, he told himself, Jimmy was his only son, and Madge could not be at Lyndhurst road to see him go. Every patient would be sorry if the son, whom they all liked so, could not say "good-by" to the father, who was their doctor. If the car went well he might just manage it.

But the car did not go well. Its engine kept missing all the way up the long hill across the moor by Farthing Dyke. It was this beastly petrol they sold you nowadays, and the car had received such rough treatment these last few years. Jimmy himself had not done it much good during his leave—careering over to Bournemouth or Southampton at all hours of the day or night.

When Dr. Raleigh reached the station the solitary porter told him the train had just left. Even its smoke was still visible, hanging in the quiet afternoon air. He stared at it in silence, until it could no longer be distinguished from the surrounding white mist. Then he went out of the little station and stood irresolutely by the side of the car. If he were to drive to Southampton he would certainly get there before the transport left for France. But perhaps Jimmy would be embarrassed if he were to turn up at the last moment like that. Besides, there would be sentries and restrictions of one sort and another to deal with, and Dr. Raleigh was not of those men whose very indifference to authority causes it go yield to their favor. He would give it up and go home again—but for the first time his study, which had so often been a sanctuary, held out no attraction. When he was tired or lonely or depressed he had found comfort in the neat rows of books, the bound volumes of the British Medical Journal and the Lancet, and the homely disorder of papers in his roll-top desk. But this was a new form of loneliness and depression, this feeling caused by the departure of Jimmy, and the companionship of books and furniture he knew well enough to love would not palliate it. Besides, he remembered with something of a shock, he had his work to do. He would be late for his appointment, and, above all, he hated unpunctuality. So he started the car, and drove off thoughtfully to Bournemouth, with its hospital of wounded and shell-shocked patients.

Dr. Raleigh left his car some way down the drive and walked up the rhododendron avenue to the big red-brick house that some wealthy Jew, without any desire for self-advertisement but in a fit of genuine generosity had turned into a hospital.

"Could I speak to my daughter?" he asked the Sister before she took him to the operating theater. "I know I oughtn't to disturb her when she's on duty but it's rather important."

Madge came up from the kitchens still wiping her hands on her apron. How young and healthy and strong she looked! Her face was bronzed, and her blue eyes were as clear and frank as those of a sailor. She had masses of very wavy hair that would not stay under her cap. Only by the two little puzzled lines between her eyebrows could her father tell that she felt anything of the war. It was in her nature to do her job quietly, thoroughly and without question. Perhaps it was fortunate that she took life so much as it came.

In the little morning-room where visitors had to wait to see the patients he told her that Jimmy had gone off to the front, and the silence with which she took it made him feel awkward and embarrassed. One never knew how a girl's mind worked.

"What bad luck on poor old J.," Madge said at length. "Going off like that! Still, I bet he's glad to go. He ought to do jolly well out there."

Then, after another pause, she got up from the table with its ugly, red-plush cloth.

"I suppose I'd better get back to work. I'll be ready any time after 6. After all, even if the bus is getting old, it's always better than the train. Cheero! See you later."

But as she was about to pass her father, she suddenly slipped her arms round him, and stood there for a time, with her face tucked into the hollow of his shoulder.

"Oh, dear," she muttered, more to herself than to him, "I suppose it's all right."

And, back in her scullery again, she said, with a vehemence which so startled Mary Pollard that she dropped a plate, "Damn this war!"

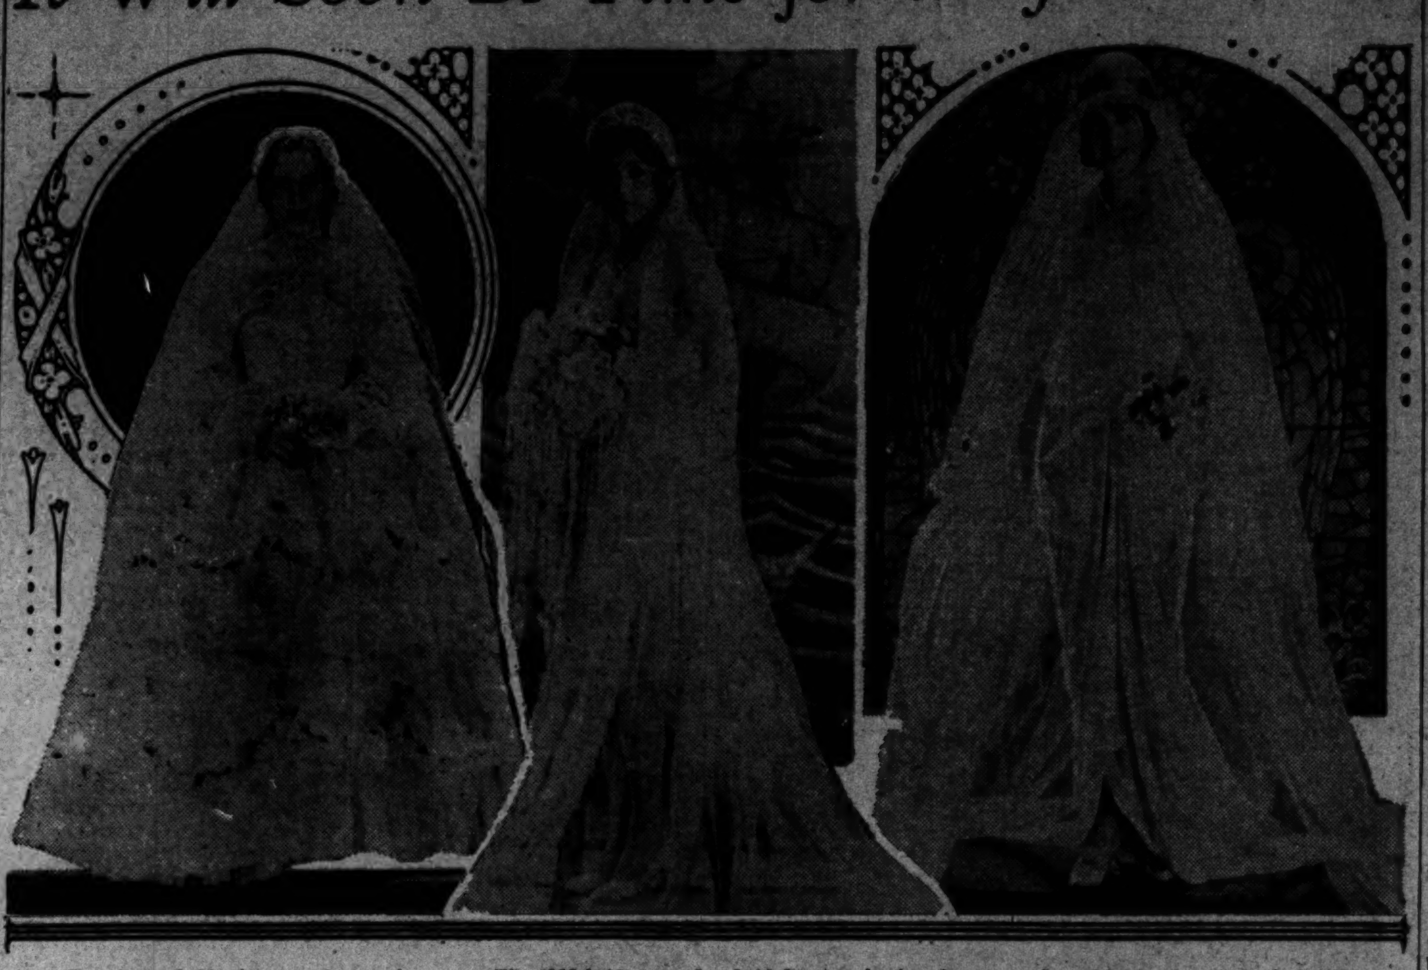
It Will Soon Be Time for the June Brides



Here is a bride in a costume of civil war days. Flounces of lace and clusters of rosebuds vie with puffs of tulle and shirrs of satin. A demure bow of lace and rows of buttons embellish the satin bodice. A tiny bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley.

The 1925 bride wore her bridal gown short and her bouquet large. Crowned headdresses and tulle became popular about five years ago, and the bouquets, usually comprised of roses, orchids, gardenias and lilies of the valley, were of colossal proportions.

Breathtaking beauty and simplicity describes the 1930 bride. A sheathlike gown of sheer white velvet is unadorned. Long sleeves and a sweeping train create an air of dignity, while a voluminous veil of tulle is simply caught over the head, cap style, by a band of flat pearls.

APRIL ESCAPADE

What Happened to a Girl Who Posed as a Rich Man's Wife

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

SYNOPSIS

The O'Hara family, poor but happy, is supported by Martin and Mary Kate, the two oldest children. Martin, who is studying medicine at nights, gets a chance to go to Germany with Dr. Van Antwerp, but turns it down because of the family. Mary Kate who wants him to take the opportunity, which will mean a great deal to him, tries to plan some way to get the money which will enable Martin to go.

Mary Kate and a young chap, Cass Keating, are in love and plan to be married as soon as possible.

CHAPTER VI.

MRS. O'HARA and her two younger daughters returned to the kitchen at 20 minutes to 10. She beheld, with some little surprise, that Mary Kate and the Keating boy were still there.

She sat down, sighing heavily; her rosy, full face was spattered with rain, and her rich black hair pressed down by her bonnet. The bonnet she immediately removed, holding it in her hand and glancing at it speculatively from time to time.

"Go to bed now, girls, before you get settled down here," she said.

"Come on, Regina," said Tess.

Regina had cast herself into a chair at the table, upon which she had stretched her slim arms, laying her fair head upon them.

"I'm dead!" she said, in a tone of a child who means, lightly and playfully, to be troublesome.

"Oh, come on!" Tess repeated.

"Go on, Regina, and get to bed now, otherwise it's a poor reward I'd have, takin' you to the movies at all," Mrs. O'Hara said briskly, but absently. One had to take this tone hourly with the children.

"I tell you I can't!" Regina protested, laughing, but not stirring.

"She wants me to turn down the bed and open the window and everything," Tess said accusingly.

"Jump up and run along, darling, It's nearly 10 o'clock!"

"Come on, Regina."

And then Mary Kate. "Go on now, Regina, stop pretending you are going to sleep there—go on, now."

"Looka the way Pat went right to bed, lovey."

"I tell you I can't, Mother!"

"Here now, enough's enough," Mrs. O'Hara said decisively. She rose, and gripped the small girl's shoulder. "Go on up to bed now, with Tess," she commanded. Regina knew this tone. She burst into tears.

"I was only foolin', and if Pat had done it you'd all think he was funny!" she shrilled, crossing the kitchen in a single streak, like a cat, and tearing upstairs on a stream of sobbing protest, the sympathetic and virtuous Tess behind her. "I hate you all—and you are all mean," shrieked Regina from the unseen spaces beyond the kitchen.

The door swung shut; there was peace.

"That's the way she always is when she goes to the movies, Mother."

"She's tired—" Mrs. O'Hara said mildly. "Aren't you two going to the dance, Mary Kate?"

"Maybe later, Ma."

Mary Kate had long ago left her perch on Cass' knee. She was standing at the sink now, opening a bottle of ginger ale.

"You'd wonder where they get the silly plots they do," the older woman said dreamily. "This girl—her father was a Wall Street stockbroker, and he give her a coming-out party. They had a sort of canal through the parlor, and colyums and lantherns and some Turkish priests or I don't know whatever they were, were rowing aroun' in those litle canoes that look like gravy boats. One of these fellers was a prince, it appears, that was only a little boy at the time of the war—and he give the girl a necklace that whoever wore it would be kidnaped by the head of this clan.

"I couldn't keep it straight, once they all got into the Chinaman's headquarters," she added, simply. And then suddenly arousing herself, "Did Tom come home?"

"He did not," said Mary Kate, angry, that she must bring that little shade of anxiety and care to her mother's forehead.

"Mart went to the library," Mrs. O'Hara stated rather than asked.

"But he said he'd be home early, Ma."

"Oh," said Mrs. O'Hara, "I'd never worry about that one.

The one she would worry about was evidently heavy upon her heart. Mary Kate, having distributed three half-filled glasses, changed the tone of the conversation by saying animately, yet a little self-consciously.

"Mother, did you see what I was doing when you came in?"

Her mother's quick, suspicious eye grew glassy.

"What were you doin' then?"

"I was sitting on Cass Keating's lap!" Mary Kate reminded her, with a joyous flash of laughter.

"Well, I wouldn't publish that in the paper," Mrs. O'Hara said darkly and disapprovingly.

"But, Mother darling, doesn't that mean anything to you?"

Another scornful and suspicious look. Cass began to look acutely uncomfortable, and Mary Kate, flushing, reflected resentfully that Ma always acted in this stiff, offended way when anything was sprung on her.

"In these days," the older woman began with dignity, after a short pause, "you'd not know that anything meant anything the way they go on!"

This obscure statement stung Cass Keating into sudden protest.

"Not with a girl like Mary Kate!" he said loyally.

"Mary Kate and the rest—unless she's fuller of inthrigue and nonsense than the run of them!" persisted the mother sharply.

"Cass and I are engaged, Ma!" the girl burst out indignantly, with signs of tears.

"Indeed!" said Mrs. O'Hara politely. She inclined her head with a majestic nod of recognition.

Another pause. Cass cleared his throat.

"I hope you don't mind my—my—wanting to marry Mary Kate?" he said awkwardly.

To Teresa O'Hara the moment was heavy with agony. Her little girl ripe for wifehood and motherhood—oh, no, it couldn't be true.

A pang of jealous anguish smote the mother, as she thought of Mary Kate, young and fragrant and bewildered in this dark boy's eager arms, and she sat rigid and unfriendly and affronted, refusing to share his easy excitement and triumph.

"Well, Mother, aren't you going to say anything?" demanded Mary Kate, as proud as she.

"There's a great deal more to it than that," Mrs. O'Hara volunteered primly, after a silence in which she had merely said, "H'm!"

"More to what than what, Mother!" the girl demanded impatiently.

The older woman sighed, her look opaque and unsympathetic.

"Marriage," she observed oracularly, "isn't any joke. There's triles and cares comes with marriage that you'd little think.

"Kissin' and goin' to dances, and runnin' around to beauty parlors; that's not matrimony!" she added darkly.

Mary Kate was now furious. She spoke with icy calm.

"Nobody ever supposed it was, Mother."

"There's many that never marry at all, and maybe will be happier in the latter end," the older woman said, remotely.

The conversation hung fire. Mary Kate looked utter exasperation at Cass; her mother looked loftily into space. The young man rose to his feet.

"I'm sorry if you feel I'm not the right man for Mary Kate," he said, miserably hesitant near the door.

"I didn't say that. There'll be a good deal of water runs under the bridges," Mrs. O'Hara stated distantly, "before anything would come to anything."

"Well, nothing will ever keep me from loving her," Cass said stubbornly and resentfully.

"Oh, love, is it?" Mrs. O'Hara dismissed it lightly. "It's not all love!" she repeated. "There's rent and clothes and dentists; and maybe illness."

Mary Kate made an impatient and scornful sound with her tongue and teeth.

"Tut at me if you will," her mother said, glancing dispassionately at her, "but I know, and you don't."

"I'll take my leave," Cass suggested stonily, at the door now, with his hat and overcoat ready. His face was pale with anger, hurt and bewilderment.

THE MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

MIXED GRILL.

AFTER the honeymoon lots of brides have to use the hope-chest for keeping the moths out of their illusions.

A man may get mad enough to fling an imported vase at his wife, but we never yet heard of one, who so far lost his head as to rush upstairs and use a guest-towl, to punish her.

A woman is always asking a man "why" he loves her, but a man rests serenely in the unquestioned assurance that a woman loves him because she "just can't help it."

Many a man, who is brave enough to face a machine gun, hasn't the courage to go back and exchange a pair of misfit socks for the right size, without taking the "little woman" along to keep up his morale.

When a young man cuddles a graying head on his shoulder it does not signify that he's looking for love, but that he is prospecting for gold.

It is difficult to say which is more annoying to a man, not to be able to kiss a woman whom he is just beginning to love, or not to be able to stop kissing one, whom he has gotten over loving.

* * *

Good husbands and wives so often die young; but, alas, marriage always appears to endow the other kind with immortality.

Keeping their legs a secret is such a brand new kick to some of the younger girls, that they feel positively "devilish" in the new long skirts.

* * *

A kiss may be technically a kiss, when it is in reality only an impertinence, an experiment, a duty or a pastime.

Rome Bans Petting in Public; Fines Each Pair

KISSING, embracing and otherwise demonstrating affection, hitherto a concomitant of springtime in most public squares and gardens of Italy, is now frowned upon.

The metropolitan police are daily and nightly rounding up petters and inflicting a fine of 20 lire (about $1.05) upon each pair. The Genoese authorities have been equally severe.

Romantic Romans retort to the gubernatorial theory of "a place for everything," meaning that courtshop should be carried on in the family parlor, that the quality of electric and gas light supplied by the municipality is so poor that ardent swains might miss the object of their affections if they tried to osculate indoors.

TELL IT —TO— SALLY

A wise and witty doctor of heart affairs who prescribes for her readers in this daily column.

By SALLY MARTIN

Do you feel as if the world were just eyes . . . staring eyes . . . staring eyes that were all focussed on you—weighing, judging, criticising you?

Do you want to do "big things" in the world . . . put over hard jobs . . . accomplish great deeds?

Yet do you feel simply tongue-tied and paralyzed every time opportunity comes your way?

Then you'll know the agonies that Gordon suffers. Gordon is ambitious. He'd like to be a big, successful man. He'd like to be the life of the party . . . but all he seems able to be now is just a bump on a log. So he's come to us for help.

"Dear Sally Martin:

"Do you know any way to cure self-consciousness? I hope you do, because I sure need something. If I can't get the best of mine pretty soon, I don't know what I'll do. I'm just about desperate.

"I've always wanted to amount to something, and I got good marks in school, always. My teachers said I had a good mind. But it doesn't seem to be of any use to me at all, because I'm so self-conscious that I never can express myself, or impress anybody with my common sense or ability. I wonder sometimes if I really do have any. I get so discouraged I don't know what to do with myself.

"I seem to have a tendency to 'show off' at times, too, which puzzles me greatly. I know that these things are holding me back in the world, and I would like to know if you think I can do anything to cure myself. I've got to do something. I can't stand it. I'm too miserable to live—almost. And I want to get ahead in the world, and I know I can't, so long as I am like this.

Self-consciousness is a mighty pesty thing, Gordon—perhaps the pestiest thing that afflicts the human race. But it can be cured—so don't give up the struggle yet, son.

If a salesman is trying to sell a bill of goods, how does he go about it? Does he do it by grabbing the spotlight and demanding applause? No—he centers all his attention on his customer. Temporarily, he puts himself out of the picture, and studies that customer and flatters him. He makes the customer feel important, and presently the flattered customer begins to feel that the salesman and his proposition are important.

That's the way a salesman sell his wares—

That's the way you should sell your wares.

Stop being self-conscious. Be other person-conscious.

Then you'll forget the possible flaws in yourself—and so will the other fellow. For he'll be too busy enjoying your admiration to notice any little shortcomings. And you'll be too happy absorbing his friendliness to notice them either.

May Birthday Gifts

In May gifts for outdoor use are especially appropriate. If your gift is to one who has a garden perhaps one of those white metal cats to attach to a tree in an upward scrambling position would give pleasure. A good assortment of these quaint garden animals in wood or metal are to be found in gift shops. Weather vanes are popular and will be just the thing for the bungalow or garage. Cushions are always a safe gift, for one can hardly have too many. Those for the porch will be acceptable now.

The emerald is the May birthstone. In the glassware sections gift suggestions in the emerald tone are plentiful. A porch beverage set, stemmed glasses, plates, glass sippers for tall iced drinks, are some of these.

How about a traveling clock in emerald, or perhaps you would prefer a porcelain kitchen clock. A fancy little green and gold lamp would be nice for summer use. Then there are cigarette cases and lighters. A wrought iron stand with an emerald glass top would be something new. In jewelry the clip pins are now much in favor, and they come with emerald settings.

The apple blossom is the chosen flower for May. A cluster of the artificial variety would make a lasting gift. Trays in emerald green have apple blossom decorations. There are clothes hampers in all shapes and sizes in green, which would delight the practical housewife. One of those attractive cotton bedspreads for summer use might be acceptable.

Use wrapping paper in an all-over apple blossom design and tie with tinsel ribbon in the emerald hue.

All the waters in which the blankets are washed should be of the same temperature.

SUE CAROL Made a Hit in the Movies Without Experience

Landed in Hollywood to Regain Health and Got a Small Part in "Is Zat So"—Made Good When the Talkies Arrived.

SUE CAROL.

The eleventh of a series of stories on "The Truth About Hollywood," by a Post-Dispatch writer who is in California visiting the movie studios.

By H. H. NIEMEYER (NIE),
The Post-Dispatch Motion Picture Critic.

HOLLYWOOD, May 15.

Of course Sue Carol's older than she looks. No girl of 15 could be a star, even of the galloping celluloids. How much older need not be gone into here, but, despite the fact that she has been through one unfortunate marriage venture and is almost a year deep in another, which promises, at this writing, to continue indefinitely as one of the prettiest romances of this romantic city. Sue is one of the youngest of the bright stars of the movie world.

She has been in pictures three years. Before that she knew nothing of the films and had had no stage experience or training. But when the talkies came Sue moved right along by showing that she could read lines with the most experienced trouper of the good old "legit" days and even displayed, after a fashion, a pleasing singing voice.

The story, told many times, that Sue came out here with a million dollars of her own and a parental bankroll of double that size waiting to be called upon to help her to success in the movies, is, unfortunately, not true. It is, actually, far from the truth. Little Miss Carol's family back in Chicago—the family name was Lederer, by the way, and Sue was christened Evelyn—was comfortably enough off, but there was no surplus on hand to buy the girl a place in the sun.

Up to the time Evelyn Lederer was ready to start to school she could not speak more than a word or two of English. Her parents spoke German and French at home and it was her command of these two languages, when she arrived in Hollywood, which gave rise to the story that she was the daughter of a prominent and wealthy family.

Sue spent a couple of years at National Park Seminary in Washington, D. C., and then went back to Chicago to settle down. But a doctor said the Chicago climate was too severe and ordered her West. She and her mother went to New Orleans for a short visit and from there the daughter was to make the trip to California alone. Mrs. Lederer returned to Chicago and Sue, homesick, followed on the next train. Again the family physician, little knowing the part he was playing in the lives of several million movie fans, ordered California and finally Mrs. Lederer and daughter, who had married in the meantime, turned their faces westward.

Miss Carol, who looks like a very little girl on her way to high school, is bright and breezy and full of the joy of living. To her Life is the Great Adventure and when she came to Hollywood on that visit and saw the wheels going 'round in a movie studio she immediately wanted to play in the game. If her first inspection tour had been to a California gold mine she probably would have wanted to become a miner, but it happened to be a picture studio and so Sue got in.

Sue fairly bubbles with personality. That and her childlike beauty, was all that she had to sell to the movie magnates when she determined to startle an unsuspecting screen public. Now Hollywood is full of personality and beauty. You'll find it among the waitresses in the smaller cafes along the boulevard and anywhere else you happen to look. Consequently the cinema directors were not exactly swept off their feet when the girl from Chicago announced that she was ready to be photographed.

However, Sue had some luck. There was another little girl in Los Angeles who was trying to get along in the movies and beginning to attract some attention. That was Janet Gaynor. She and Evelyn Lederer—soon to become Sue Carol—had been friends in Chicago and Janet took her around to meet some of the movie people. Incidentally about the first person Sue met was Nick Stuart who, also was knocking at the movie doors and not getting any tremendous response just then.

"I got a tiny part in the picture 'Is Zat So?'" Miss Carol told me, "and I surprised everyone by making good in it. After that nothing could have kept me off the screen. Fox put me in 'Slaves of Beauty,' and then I made a picture with Douglas MacLean called 'Soft Cushions,' and I've been making them pretty fast ever since."

Nick Stuart was working on the Fox lot, too, and that company sent him abroad to make "Chasing Through Europe." It was a sort of glorified news reel picture with a touch of romance worked in. Sue was sent along to supply the romance. She did, with Nick's help, and last summer she became Mrs. Stuart, after the first marriage to which she had been exposed was dissolved by the courts.

Nick and Sue have just bought a lovely little home in the Beverly Hills district. They moved in last week and now, when they can get away from the studio, they spend their time putting out plants in the yard with all of the enthusiasm of two healthy, joyous youngsters.

I saw Sue the other day just as she was finishing the last scene in her first picture for R. K. O., which has signed her to a long contract. It is a play of youth and happiness based upon the stage success "Tommy." Playing opposite Miss Carol was Arthur Lake, while watching over them, in a mature role, was William Collier Sr., who was a famous star long before Sue and Arthur were born.

With the final scene of this picture finished Miss Carol dashed for home. "I've got a week off now between pictures," she told me, "and that ought to give me time to plant a dozen trees and a lot more roses."

Working her way to stardom has been no easier for Sue Carol than it has been for dozens of other girls, but her distinctive personality and charm won the hearts of studio officials and consequently she was pushed much farther than many who were not possessed of so much personal magnetism.

Just as she sold herself on her personality to the movie moguls, so does she sell herself to everyone with whom she comes in contact. She has an appealing sweetness about her which is impossible for even the most casual observer to overlook. There is none of the veneer so evident in many picture stars. She is always herself, if not always the same. She is a child of many moods; one whose face and manner mirror her every change of feeling. She isn't temperamental; she just finds it impossible to hide any emotion which sweeps over her.

She finds enjoyment in much the same manner as do other girls of her age. She is athletic and loves swimming and riding. She early attracted attention as one of the best dancers in Hollywood and as a bridge player she ranks among the top-notchers in the colony.

Sue Carol is one for whom the world seems to hold all sorts of pleasant things. She has a fresh, unspoiled beauty and a bubbling enthusiasm which never wanes. She is, perhaps, a trifle more subdued now than she was a year or two ago, but only so far as becomes a wife with a home and a husband to care for.

Famous for her childish generosity, she is the despair of the studio officials who try to advise her in money matters. No beggar has ever been turned away from the door of the Carol-Stuart home empty handed. But, if she is a shining mark for the needy or the make-believe needy, she is a cautious buyer of stocks and investment securities. Giving is one thing. Buying is an entirely different matter and there are no rooms in the new home papered with gold mine and oil well certificates.

With one so genuinely generous Sue Carol's single hobby seems most paradoxical. She collects pennies. Several years ago she started putting aside every copper coin she got in change and today she has thousands of them. "I don't know what I will do with them," she says. "Nick threatens almost every day to haul them all down to the bank and get them changed for real money, but I'm not going to let him do it. I like to pile them up and it's not a very expensive hobby, is it? Anyway, it's fun. Maybe some day I'll have a million of them."

Childish? Of course it is, but Sue Carol is a child. May she retain those qualities until she has piled up her million pennies—and then some.

DOROTHY MACKAILL came to this country from England, a penniless girl. Now she's a picture star. Nie will tell her story in this section of the Post-Dispatch tomorrow.

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN

By Mary Graham Bonner

The Magic Path

The Little Black Clock led John and Peggy from their house down through the garden and along the magic path. It was a path discovered by the Little Black Clock. Or, perhaps, he had made this path through his magic. The children were not quite certain which it was, but at any rate, it took them everywhere so quickly.

Along this magic path, too, there were always so many ways of getting to other places.

Paths led off from it in all directions—and it seemed as though it were a direct and quick route to everywhere!

Then, too, it always seemed easy for the Little Black Clock to have anything or anyone he wished meet them along the path. An airplane could be there in no time at all, or an old wagon, or a sleigh.

There were all sorts of beautiful spots along this path where they walked, but, of course, they never stayed along the path for a very long time. They were always in a hurry to go to other places.

But now they wandered along rather slowly. They saw waterfalls from time to time, and fascinating little caves, and the Little Black Clock took them into these caves and they found strange old stones.

Some of the stones were thin and pointed and others looked as though they had fans carved upon them.

They stopped and had a drink of water from a cool, lovely pool, and then the Little Black Clock told them they must see something right away.

"Yes," the Little Black Clock repeated, "we mustn't delay a minute."

"We're ready," said John.

"We're ready," agreed Peggy.

Renovating Furniture

Mrs. A. has decided she needs new dining room furniture, so the fumed oak suite is being relegated to the bungalow, and here is what she is doing with it:

She bought a good black lacquer paint and after removing the varnish she painted each piece black. She put on a stencil design in red, green and a bit of yellow, then she experimented with the leather seats and discovered they took the lacquer paint beautifully, so she is painting them a bright red, and the nail heads she is going to paint with gold paint. With harmonizing hangings and rug she is going to have a cheery dining room in her summer home.

Last summer she converted an old bird's-eye maple bedroom suite into a charming set by using light gray lacquer enamel (this dries in about 15 minutes) and applying decalcomanias as the decorative touch of color.

. . . another Contribution to the Finish of Your Car . . .

The importance of the final operation in automobile finishing has led to exhaustive investigation and study by experts in this branch of the Automotive Industry.

The research division of our Engineering Department, whose contributions in the past have helped to make possible the beautiful automobile finishes of today, literally developed more than a thousand polish formulae over a period of two years.

Every possible phase of polish requirement, from the rapid cutting, abrasive polishes demanded by production experts, to the mild cleaner-polish for the use of individual car owners, was entered into with characteristic thoroughness.

Our Engineering Department particularly wanted a final polish that would do the work quickly and thoroughly and at the same time help to preserve the beautiful factory finish of the car. Such a polish must contain no grease but must, of course, be able to remove it. Grease cannot be rubbed dry and will collect road dirt and grime which are detrimental to the finish of any car.

RETSUL, the new, liquid automobile polish, is the result of two years of work. RETSUL has been approved and is now being used in many automobile and body-building plants, as the final "clean-up" and polish before the cars are delivered to their owners.

We are so thoroughly satisfied with the results that may be obtained through the use of our latest contribution, that we are able to offer to motor car owners everywhere, our Unqualified Guarantee.

HEALTH

Brief articles prepared by experts for the New York Academy of Medicine.
Edited by Dr. Iago Galdston.

Fetor-Oris

THERE are a large number of conditions which may cause fetor-oris, or odor from the mouth. These should be appreciated, for, while mouth hygiene is certainly desirable for esthetic purposes, masking the odor does not remove the underlying condition to which the bad breath is witness.

Among the most important causes of fetor-oris are indigestion and the associated catarrhal disturbances in the mouth and stomach. Chronic diseases of the stomach may give rise to offensive odors.

Local conditions in the mouth are also among the most common causes of fetor-oris. Smokers are prone to have a "heavy" breath. Pyorrhea of the gums, which is very common after middle life, gives rise to a distinctive and offensive odor.

Tonsillar diseases may give rise to odors and teeth filled with decaying material may produce fetor-oris. Disease of the lungs and of other parts of the respiratory system often produce offensive breath.

Among other common causes are chronic catarrhal diseases of the nose which are sometimes very obstinate.

All of the above listed causes, and others besides, may produce fetor-oris, but the most common causes are pyorrhea and a type of chronic tonsillitis.

Candy Candle Holders.

Use marshmallows on top of the youngster's birthday cake as holders for the candles. They are very attractive and each kiddie is delighted if his piece of cake holds a candle—and a marshmallow.

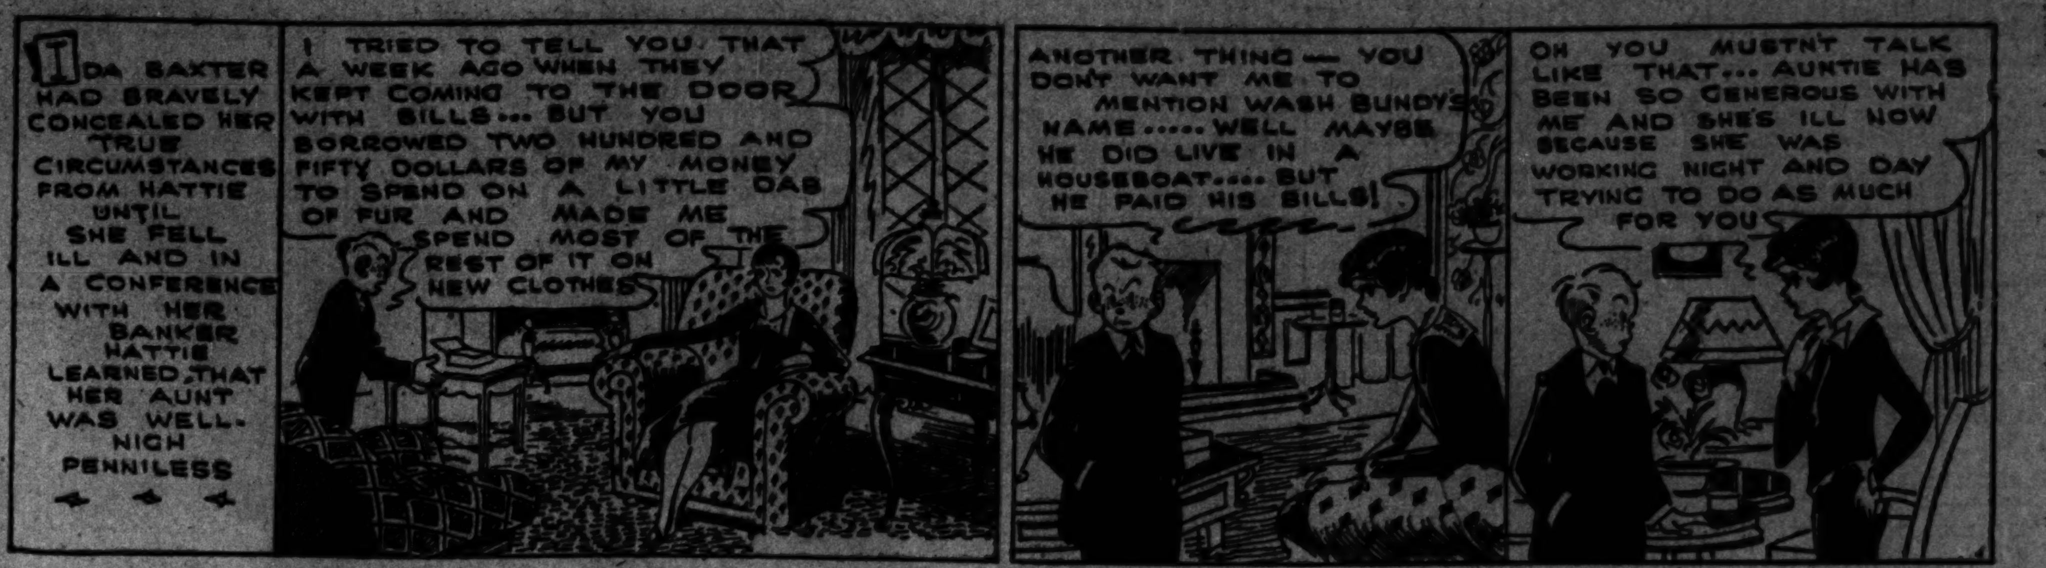
Well Nigh Penniless.



HILDA BAXTER HAD BRAVELY CONCEALED HER TRUE CIRCUMSTANCES FROM HATTIE UNTIL SHE FELL ILL AND IN A CONFERENCE WITH HER BANKER HATTIE LEARNED THAT HER AUNT WAS WELL-NIGH PENNILESS
I TRIED TO TELL YOU THAT A WEEK AGO WHEN THEY KEPT COMING TO THE DOOR WITH BILLS... BUT YOU BORROWED TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY DOLLARS OF MY MONEY TO SPEND ON A LITTLE DAB OF FUR AND MADE ME SPEND MOST OF THE REST OF IT ON NEW CLOTHES
ANOTHER THING — YOU DON'T WANT ME TO MENTION WASH BUNDY'S NAME..... WELL MAYBE HE DID LIVE IN A HOUSEBOAT.... BUT HE PAID HIS BILLS!
OH YOU MUSTN'T TALK LIKE THAT... AUNTIE HAS BEEN SO GENEROUS WITH ME AND SHE'S ILL NOW BECAUSE SHE WAS WORKING NIGHT AND DAY TRYING TO DO AS MUCH FOR YOU

PUBLIC MEETINGS AND ENTERTAINMENTS

The Denton J. Snider Association for Universal Culture will present a symposium and review of Dr. Snider's work, "Music and the Fine Arts," at Cabanne Branch Library tomorrow evening.

PARIS PROMISES BARE LEG BOOM

PARIS.

PART of the French hosiery manufacturers admit the inevitability of a general bare leg boom as part of the suntan movement by advocating ultra sheer hosiery of such low visibility that it is practically non-existent.

So sheer and perfectly matched to individual sunburn shades are the invisible mesh stockings that the only real reason for wearing them is that modesty is served.

Critics of the stockingless vogue which shocked Wimbledon's tennis committee last summer, are put in their place by the self-effacing but perfectly tangible hosiery.

Other stocking styles launched for summer embrace brilliant colored fancy weave hose to match bright jewelry and sport belts.

Emerald green, brilliant red, ciel blue and tangerine are hotsy-totsy shades on the sportswoman's color chart.

White tennis clothes are going to be the whole thing next summer. White beach ensembles are only slightly less standardized.

In fact, so far as clothes go, the white summer girl is supreme. But her complexion, whether it comes out of an oil can or is a permanent suntan, should be a deep South Sea Island brown.

And the modern woman's complexion only leaves off where her clothes begin.

Warmed-Up.

Warming up cooked cereal is not as easy as it sounds, as it is very much inclined to become lumpy in the process. If this happens, beat it well with an egg beater and it will quickly smooth out.

Two Treats.

If the housewife wants to add a little to the joy of home-made bread she makes more dough than for the bread alone and puts it in the refrigerator for rolls the next day. A little lard rubbed over the dough will keep it from hardening.

Longer Wear.

Rubbers should be washed off after each wearing, as small bits of gravel and sand that have become attached to the soles will soon grind through if not washed off. Besides, they look so much better when clean.

A Better Job.

When washing your new curtains this spring, first soak them over night in salted water. As a rule, new curtains are full of lime and it is very hard to get them clean without using a great amount of soap powder. After their salt bath, you will find them much easier to handle.

Both Ends in Use.

No window shades get quite so soiled as those in the kitchen. Turn them upside down each housecleaning and give the other end a chance.
